DIED

Goodwyn—On Tuesday, July 29, at 2:30 o'clock a. m., Mary Elizabeth Goodwyn, little daughter of Mabel Lorio and Walter Goodwyn, died at her home in LeBoeuf avenue. Deceased was only twenty-two months old and was born here.

The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon, July 30, at 4 o'clock, from the late residence, 604 LeBoeuf avenue. Interment was in St. Bartholomew Cemetery.

Shorey—Died, on Sunday, July 27, 1919, at 6 a. m., Letitia Hynes, wife of George Shorey, Sr. Deceased was born in Montreal, Canada, eighty-two years ago, but had resided here the greater part of her life, having recently moved to the city. Mrs. Shorey was the mother of Mrs. Jas. W. Reynolds and George Shorey of our side of the river and Mrs. L. J. Oestander.

The funeral, which was private, took place Monday afternoon, July 28, at 2:30 o'clock from her late residence, 2648 Ursuline. She was interred in Metairie Cemetery.

Shaw—One of our oldest residents, John M. Shaw, passed away on Friday, June 25, at 8:50 o'clock at his home in Alix street. Deceased was born here sixty years ago, his parents being the late Matthew Shaw and Ellen Roach. He leaves three sisters, Misses Maggie and Kate Shaw and Mrs. T. Dubret. Mr. Shaw was a cousin of Archbishop Shaw. He was a member of the Workmen's Union and Benevolent Association, the Holy Name Society, and the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock from 518 Alix street. Interment was in St. Bartholomew Cemetery.

DRINKS POISON AFTER QUARREL

Mrs. Alice Hansen, 26 years old, 537 Belleville street, attempted suicide Sunday afternoon by drinking iodine, the police say. Mrs. Hansen made the attempt to end her life, it was said, after quarrelling with her husband. She was taken to the Charity Hospital where physicians relieved her of the poison by an application of the stomach pump.

REV. MR. VAIL TO LEAVE ALGIERS.

Rev. Sidney L. Vail, who recently celebrated the fifth anniversary of his rectorate at Mt. Olivet Episcopal Church, will shortly prepare to leave our district. Following Rev. C. W. Bispham's resignation as rector of the Free Church of the Annunciation, Camp and Race streets, Rev. Mr. Vail was called as his successor and accepted the call. The resignation of Dr. Bispham takes effect on the first of October, at which time Dr. Vail will take charge.

Rev. Mr. Vail came here when Mt. Olivet had no minister, a few months after Rev. W. S. Slack's departure for Columbus, and as yet Mt. Olivet has not decided upon a successor to Mr. Vail.

PERRY-VALLETTE.

An out-of-town wedding of interest here was that of Miss Cecelia Lewis Vallette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vallette (formerly of our town) and Mr. Francis Thornton Perry of Galveston, which took place at that city on July 19. Rev. DeOvides officiating. The bride was born and had resided here until the family moved from our town a few years ago.

Immediately after the ceremony, the young couple left for Gulfport, Miss., where they spent a week with Judge and Mrs. W. W. Baucum.

MOREL-VEZEN.

Miss Mildred Vezien, daughter of Mrs. H. Vezien of Morgan St., and Jules W. Morel, son of Mrs. Jules T. Morel, of New Orleans, were married quietly at 3 o'clock last Thursday afternoon at the Church of the Holy Name of Mary. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wiegand, brother-in-law and sister of the groom respectively, were the attendants. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph A. Pettit, S. M. The happy young couple, who have hosts of friends, left the same evening for Mandeville and other Louisiana points for their honeymoon. Upon their return they will be at home with the groom's mother at Royal and Lafayette avenue. Mr. Morel is a valued attaché of the Commercial Bank and formerly was assistant cashier at the Algiers branch, in which capacity he made many friends here.

CRAWFORD-INDELICATO.

A very pretty wedding took place Monday morning at half past nine at the Church of the Holy Name of Mary, when Miss Antonia Indelicato, daughter of Mrs. M. Indelicato of 429 Elmira avenue and Mr. George C. Crawford of Opelousas avenue were married by Father McGrath.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Frank Indelicato, was prettily gowned in a white Georgette crepe dress. She wore a white maline hat trimmed with a white ostrich plume. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses and asparagus ferns.

Miss Rose Indelicato, the bride's sister and her attendant looked lovely in a flesh colored Georgette crepe dress, embroidered and girded in flesh colored satin. Her hat was of flesh colored maline. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The groom had as his attendant, Sam Crawford.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for the immediate family. Punch and dainty refreshments were served.

The bride's travelling suit was of peacock blue Georgette crepe, trimmed in the same color *satin. Her hat was a black Milan.

The bride and groom who are the recipients of many pretty gifts, left immediately for Galveston and other points in Texas. On their return trip they will stop at Alexandria to visit the groom's relatives. Upon their return they will be at home to their many friends at the home of Mrs. J. Choat, in Opelousas Avenue.

WARNKEN-THOMPSON.

Miss Irene Thompson and Sergeant George E. Warnken, who is still in the service, were quietly married at the Church of the Holy Name of Mary, on Wednesday, July 30, Rev. Father Pettit officiating. Miss Amelia Trauth and Mr. Archie Thompson were the attendants.

They were the recipients of many handsome presents. They left on the Southern Pacific on an extended trip for San Antonio, Texas.

LUCK AND CHANCE OF LIFE

Abundant Reasons Why Fighting Men Develop a High Degree of Fatalistic Reasoning.

As I tour the military hospitals, says a writer in a London paper, I hear strange stories from the ward sisters, from the matron herself, and from men of all grades in the serried rows of beds. Poor M— braved all the terrors of war—wounded at Mons, and gassed at La Bassée—only to be ignominiously killed by an omnibus in the city street at home! Whole families of sons lie buried in France. But I know a case in which four sons and a son-in-law joined up in August, 1914, and went clean through the whole stupendous drama, without one of the five getting so much as a scratch! I know a heroic major, who had the maddest escapes from shot and shell, and was killed at last by a falling branch of a tree whilst at home on leave.

I know a chaplain V. C. who all but broke his neck on a flight of stone steps at Saighton Towers, where he was Countess Grosvenor's guest. I know a war correspondent, of many fierce campaigns, who met his death after all in a London air raid. And I talked with the sole survivor of a ship, who turned out to be the only member of the crew who couldn't swim! How shall we explain these vagaries? They made fatalists of our men; and one day in the hospital, I came upon a lad who was reading the Moslem Koran. He held up the page to me, and pointed to the verse: "No hap chance, but the same was written in the Book of Decrees!"

TOOK LIBERTY WITH FACTS

Author of "The Luck of Eden Hall" Admitted That He Drew on His Imagination.

The author of the poem, "The Luck of Eden Hall," was Johann Ludwig Uhlend, a German poet of the first half of the nineteenth century, who first put that romantic legend into verse and later it was dressed in English rhyme by Longfellow. As the story goes, the young lord of the manor during a night of drunken revelry, demanded the drinking glass called "the luck of Eden Hall." The butler "heard the words with pain," but brought the goblet which the tipsy nobleman smashed. Instantly flames cracked the ceiling and the persons surrounding the festal board became dust. The straightforward American poet explains at the heading of his translation that in spite of the tragic ending of the poem the glass is still in existence, and so it is today. It is six inches high, of pale green glass, exquisitely enameled in blue and white. Practical folk say that it probably came originally from Spain, where it was used as a chalice in communion service, but the original story goes that it was left at St. Cuthbert's well by a company of fairies.

'Twas Ever Thus.

Mr. Smith, hearing music and singing at his neighbor's house, decided he would drop in and see how they were.

Mr. Jones welcomed him and ushered him into the parlor where his daughter was playing the piano and his son singing. Mr. Smith begged them to continue. They consented.

The first song they selected was "Mother." They sang this very feelingly and then father joined in on the chorus. This was followed by "Mother Macchree" and others of like sentiment on songs about mother—how true they were, how dear and how they loved to sing them.

Then, as Mrs. Jones hadn't appeared yet, Mr. Smith inquired about her state of health.

"Oh," said Mr. Jones, "she's well enough. She's in the kitchen doing the dishes, but after she has finished and has taken in the wood she'll join us."

Theory and Practice.

"I trust, Brother Johnson," said the presiding elder, "that you are endeavoring as far as possible to bring up your children by the rule of kindness; requesting rather than commanding, and explaining to them carefully why they should obey your injunctions?"

"That's powerful gaudy in the 'ry, parson," returned Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, "but in actual practice knocking 'em down with a neckyoke now and then is about the only way to fetch results. I could just about as quick get 'em to mind me by argyng with 'em as I could make a turtle giggle by tickling his lid with a feather."

Her Sex's Falling.

Delmer usually walked to school with Matie, his little neighbor next door, but nearly always had to wait for her. One morning he was obliged to wait an unusually long time for Matie to get her hair curled, and later he confided to his mother that he was not going to walk to school with her any more. His mother asked him why he had decided to go without waiting for Matie. "Well," he replied "when I call for her I always find her so unready."

Saw a Resemblance.

Little Andrew was playing in the yard, in which there is a coop for his pigeons. All pigeons were inside with the exception of one which was walking up and down in front of the door. Andrew ran up to his mother in great excitement and said:

"Ma'mma, is that one a collector?" Whereat his mother asked him why. Then Andrew said:

"Well, he can't get in."

One Definition of Envy.

"Envy," said Uncle Eben, "is one of de unpleasant symptoms 'sperienced by folks dat has been tryin' to git somethin' fob nothin'."

Ashamed of It.

This bit of cynical wisdom occupies the most obscure nook in the Syracuse Herald: "Don't think that every sad-eyed woman has loved and lost. Perhaps she loved and got him."—Buffalo News.

LUNCHEON IN HONOR OF MR. AND MRS. MOORE.

A luncheon given at Kinston, Ala., proves to be of interest to many people here.

Mrs. J. A. Moore entertained at a luncheon complimentary to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. C. Moore, who are spending their honeymoon at her beautiful country home in Kinston, Ala. All the delicacies of the season were served and enjoyed by all present. Quite a large number of young people as well as old were present. During the course of the evening the wedding cake was cut, at which time excitement prevailed. After the supper, an enjoyable time was had by all. When the crowd departed, they extended their very best wishes and compliments to the newly married couple.

The bride and groom are expecting to return about the fifteenth of August and will make their home here in Algiers.

AN ENJOYABLE RECEPTION.

Last Wednesday evening, July 23, 1919, a reception was given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Ryan, at their residence, 318 Olivier street, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jeffreys, who recently returned to our town, after having spent their honeymoon on the Gulf Coast. Mrs. Jeffreys was formerly Miss Bertha Ryan, one of the most promising young ladies of the social set of this district.

Responding to invitations issued, a number of friends gathered at the residence at the appointed hour. The evening's enjoyment was in progress, when a party of young people, friends of the newly-married couple, arrived with the ever popular "Macour Jazz Band." The main feature of the evening was dancing, and merrily did the happy couples "trip the light fantastic toe" until a late hour.

During the evening a cake cutting took place, after which dainty refreshments were served in abundance.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryan, ably assisted in receiving and entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jeffreys, proved ideal hosts, and the guests departed with assurances of having spent a most delightful evening.

The event will be long and pleasantly remembered by all those who attended.

SURPRISE PARTY.

A surprise party was given Mrs. M. Glancey on last Thursday at her home in Olivier street in honor of the anniversary of her birth.
