VOL XXVII NOVEMBER 20, 1919 No. 28

THE BANK ROBBERY CASE

Without any contradiction from the defendants, the State on Tuesday, easily convicted young Rosamano and his brother-in-law, Baggesse for the bank robbery which they staged here last June. It was very evident during the trial that attorney Byrne was depending upon the leniency of the court and jury for his clients, the jury has recommended leniency, but why they should have been so chicken-hearted with Baggesse, who is far from being a youth, we can not understand. Young Rosamano, who was only 17 years of age when the robbery was committed, could easily be led astray by one of Baggesse' age and a light or suspended sentence in his case would not be out of place, but in the case of Baggesse, leniency would not be well tolerated by the public who have followed the case and have heard all of the evidence. Baggesse had passed the age and experience of youth, yet he used as his tool a boy of but little past 17 years of age.

The many character witnesses for Rosamano paid a high compliment to the standing of the Rosamano family. The young boy should always be grateful to his father for the help he received at his trial.

WHY? AND WHY NOT?

At least 5,000 Princeton men served in the late war, and 3,000 of them became officers, including four Brigadier-Generals, 231 were decorated for distinguished service and 137 laid down their lives.

A million acres of timber land in Montana and northern Idaho were burned over by this year's forest fires, in spite of the employment of 4,500 extra men. Seven of the fire-fighters lost their lives.

The Secretary of Agriculture refused to release General Pershing's horse "Kidron" from quarantine until after five months, stating that other horse-owners must be protected from the introduction of disease.

In 1916 the Department of Commerce spent $25,000 investigating the canning of dogfish and gave the results to canners. The canned dogfish exploded and Congress was asked for $60,000 to reimburse the canners.

New York State College of Forestry says that while New York spends a fortune every year for fertilizers, its residents burn up the equivalent of a million pounds of fertilizer in roadside fires to get rid of fallen leaves.

Within a year Canada has made land grants to 3,768 returned soldiers and loaned to them $30,000,000. The Government has arranged to buy 2,000,000 bushels of seed wheat to provide against a shortage next spring.

The 6,200 employees of the American Graphophone Co., of Bridgeport, Conn., recently went on strike and the company said it would move its plant. The mayor called a secret meeting of the strikers and they went back to work. The agitators were run out of town by the police.

HOLY NAME RALLY.

The Algiers Society contributed its share in making the grand parade the great success that it was. The society turned out its largest quota since its establishment. It was not as large as it should have been, but in comparison with other parades it was one of the very largest.

Our Mayor honored our Society with his presence and rode with Father Larkin throughout the parade until he came to the reviewing stand.

Very Rev. Father Larkin, S. M., preached the sermon at St. Joseph's Church. His words were heard throughout that vast edifice and more than that they were deeply appreciated, according to the numerous comments that were made about them.

Methodist Church

The pastor has been attending conference during the past week. He begins the fourth year of his ministry in Algiers with the renewed determination of being a better servant of his Lord and Savior than he has ever been. The conference was a great blessing and pleasure. One of the joys of the conference was the privilege of being the guest of Prof. and Mrs. W. B. Hale, whom he united in marriage about twenty years ago. The following are some appointments that will interest our folks: Chaplain to the penitentiary, H. S. Johns; Ruston, R. H. Wynn; Minden, K. W. Dodson; Baton Rouge, Second Church, J. W. Booth; Franklin, J. F. Foster; presiding elder Ruston District, J. M. Henry; Zwolle, R. M. Brown; McDonoghville, S. D. Roberts; presiding elder New Orleans District, Jno. G. Snelling.

Announcements: Prayer meeting tonight at 7:30. Catechism Friday at 4 p. m. Boy Scouts at 7 p. m. Friday. Services next Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

The Sunday School service was well attended, it being Rally Day, and a very nice program was rendered. Everyone appreciated the story Miss Florence Burgis told of a little French girl she knew while in France a few months ago.

In the afternoon several of the members attended the service at the Bonner home. We would like to have more attend these services.

The Epworth League service was led by Mr. Sanford Hebert, and the service was a very good one. After the league meeting there was a short song service, which lasted about forty minutes.

A business meeting of the league was held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Cayard, on Olivier street, with the majority of the members present. Several members gave in their reports and several new matters were discussed at length. After the meeting a football social was enjoyed by all present. Several games were played, including a football game, the W. W. against the W. C. Both Captains Pettigrove and Daniels led their teams in splendid order. There were no casualties to report, only a number of the players lost their wind on the line backs. However, everyone had a good time.

EXPLORER'S LOT A HARD ONE

Matter of Hard and Excessive Labor Is That of Mapping Out a New Country.

Hard and incessant labor is the lot of an explorer who travels through an unknown country, as is shown by the example of William Junker, a Russian explorer, who spent five years in endeavoring to trace the course of the River Welle, which lies between the headwaters of the Nile and the Congo, in Africa, with a view to determining the position of its watershed. During that time he traveled on foot over 4,000 miles through a wild country.

When he was actually on the march Dr. Junker wore a coat designed by himself, having numerous large pockets especially arranged for the handy use of his watch, compass, aneroid, thermometer and notebooks. From one of the buttons of his coat hung three pencils, one red, for marking the route; one blue, for noting the rivers and streams; and the third black, for recording the time of starting and halting (so as to keep a record of the marching time and distance), together with all the more notable incidents of the day's march.

Every five minutes Dr. Junker made a note of the direction he traveled, as well as noted every stream, every mountain, every valley, and their estimated dimensions, as well as full information about the tribes he met. In that way he secured a fund of information that was readily accepted by geographers and scientists.

ONE OF THE PALM BEACH BATHING BEAUTIES IN JOHN CORT'S MUSICAL COMEDY, "LISTEN LESTER", AT THE TULANE NEXT WEEK.

"LISTEN LESTER" AT THE TULANE NEXT WEEK.

There's a brand new expression in usage, "Listen Lester," which for an entire year has gone the length and breadth of New York, brought into favor by John Cort's musical comedy success of that name which for a year was the attraction at the Knickerbocker Theatre in the metropolis, and which comes to the Tulane theatre next Sunday night for an all-week's engagement, with matinees Thanksgiving Day and Saturday. The uses of this expression are myriad, be it as a preface to advice, good or bad; to some remark which requires strict attention on the part of the listener; or simply an exclamation. It was originated by Harry L. Cort, George E. Stoddard and Harold Orlob. In the case of this play Lester listens to any number of people, from one Albutus Quilty, a "live one", to the Daintiest and Danciest Choruses, including a flip hotel clerk, an artfully dodging Colonel, a female detective, and a pair of lovers, all of whom are bent on a search for some letters which are of great importance to certain parties. But Lester himself is well worth paying strict attention to for his conversation is snappy and entertaining, his costumes gorgeous, the crop of melodies he offers tuneful and catchy, and he brings with him a company of artists of unmatched ability. The seat sale for this production is now on.
