HOW IS YOUR WATCH?

When a business firm wins success in an honorable business way it is ample evidence that its business methods are progressive, that the management is honorable and upright, and that they will give all patrons the best of service. The above principles are especially true in regard to Aug. Royerre & Son, 122 Exchange Place, upstairs, who specialize in the repairing and manufacture of watches, clocks and chronometers. The senior Royerre has been engaged in this line of work in New Orleans for 37 years, and has enjoyed for many years the reputation of being a most expert workman, and it is only necessary to examine his completed jobs to attest this fact. Aug. Royerre, Jr., member of the firm, is likewise a most expert workman and is a valuable assistant to his father. Other employees of the firm are also expert workmen, and no mistake is made in giving your work to this firm. All work examined free of charge, and satisfaction is guaranteed. No matter what the trouble may be with your watch or clock, or how intricate or delicate the work to be performed, Aug. Royerre & Son can do the job, and you get the satisfaction of dealing with a reliable and long established firm.

PUBLIC HEARINGS ON TAX IS URGED

CARVER COMMITTEE TO BE BUSY ON IMPORTANT CONVENTION WORK.

MAY ABOLISH COMMISSION

Public Service Body With Five Members Proposed in Convention—Special Committee Expected to Review Transactions.

Baton Rouge, La.—The beginning of an investigation of the affairs of all state departments, boards and commissions by the special committee named under the Ponder resolution; announcement of a series of hearings on all important measures introduced; the formal abolition of the committee on affairs of the city of New Orleans and the introduction of an ordinance by Dr. V. K. Irion of New Orleans creating a public service commission of five members and abolishing the railroad commission, were the main features of the Constitutional Convention Friday, when that body closed the third week of the session.

The special investigating committee, composed of Silas D. Ponder of Sabine, J. H. Morrison of Pointe Coupee and George S. Guion of Assumption held its first meeting and called upon the secretary of state for a list of all boards, commissions and bodies that function under authority of the state. Secretary of State Bailey immediately went to work to comply with the request, and when the list is ready the committee will begin a searching investigation of the operations of each board or body.

Some May Be Abolished. While nothing official has been given out by the committee, it is understood that in addition to an inquiry into the functions and duties of the boards, with the view of recommending the abolition of those considered useless, the committee will delve into the financial transactions of the boards. This will be to ascertain how much money they are spending. Most of these boards, as well as several departments, receive fees in various forms. It is said there are between 130 and 150 boards and commissions in the state.

Chairmen of several of the big committees announced schedules of hearings that will cover a wide range during the coming week. Among the hearings fixed were those on the Rosen ordinance for a civil service system for New Orleans and the Fitzpatrick ordinance authorizing members of the New Orleans dock board to receive compensation. A hearing on the Rosen ordinance will be given Wednesday by the parochial and municipal affairs committee. The committee on ports and canals will give a hearing Thursday on the Fitzpatrick dock board ordinance. Members of the dock board have been invited to be present. Some of the board members, it is understood here, will oppose the ordinance because it permits the payment of salaries to members of the board. Board members hold that it will have the effect of politicizing that body.

City Affairs Body Out. The committee on affairs of the city of New Orleans ended its official existence Friday when the convention by a unanimous vote and without debate, adopted the resolution by Mr. Phelps of New Orleans abolishing the committee. The resolution was referred to the rules committee Thursday and it came back with a favorable report. The convention also accepted the recommendation of the
