

THE PICTURE PRESS

Trade Mark Registered

THE HERALD

Irene Castle created a sensation when she appeared in this coronation robe of ermine, at the fashion show at the Hotel Commodore. It is worth a king's ransom.—Wide World Photo.

The annual "pants fight" between the freshmen and sophomores at Pennsylvania University. The contest lasts eight minutes and the object is to tear the trousers from men of opposing classes. Tailors are reported to approve heartily of this form of higher education.—Underwood & Underwood.

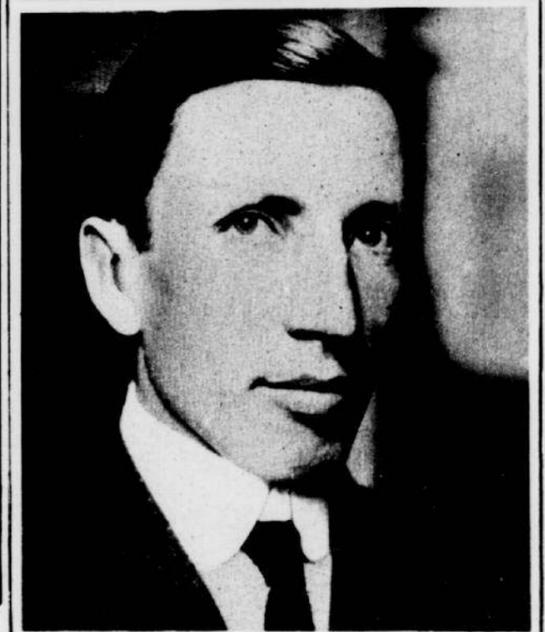

Below, Luther Burbank, age 72, the celebrated plant creator of Santa Rosa, Cal. Above, his 26-year-old bride.—Underwood & Underwood.

Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, and Judge Kennesaw Mountain Landis, the "supreme head" of baseball.—Underwood & Underwood.

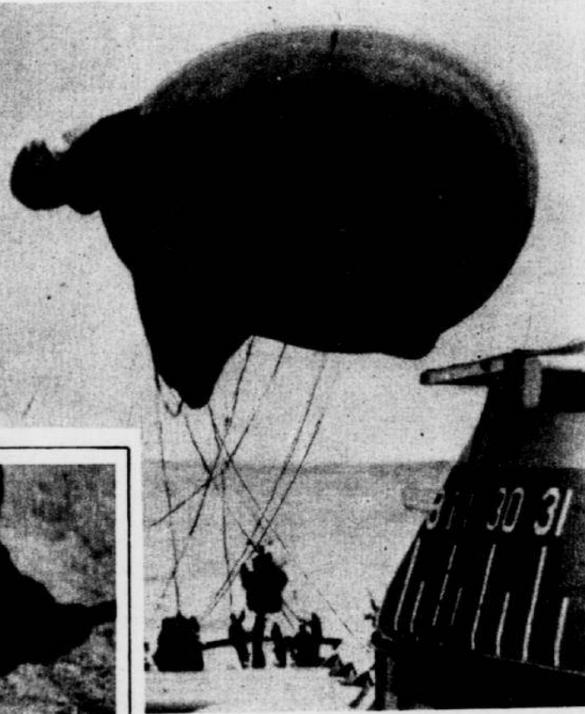

The vote has just been accorded the women of Belgium. In the first election in which they took part, Queen Elizabeth stood in line to cast her ballot. The women voters outnumbered the men by 700,000 in this election.—Kadel & Herbert.

The new congress "baby" is Representative B. Carroll Reece, of Tennessee, who is only thirty-one years old.—Underwood & Underwood.

Two of a kind, even if one is a bob-tail cat and the other a bob-tail dog. They were brought up together, and are the best of playmates. They are pets of Guy T. Tabler, of 159 Sells avenue, Atlanta.

A kite balloon being hauled back to deck of the U. S. S. New Mexico, after the big gasbag had been used by observation officers to spot the results of shots fired by a super dreadnaught.—Underwood & Underwood.