IT'S YOUR OWN FUNERAL

If you make a deposit with some scaler on a carload of Lumber, and if you never get the lumber, or if you get something for your money that has only a resemblance to lumber because it is wood; it is your funeral. There are good dealers in New Orleans that deliver you Lumber and then get your money, and among the best of these is Hortman.

And Hortman sells only GOOD Lumber and it is priced as low as good lumber can be sold. It is Long Leaf Yellow Pine from virgin trees, and there is no better lumber for structural purposes. Hortman sells ONLY long leaf.

There is no loblolly, swamp or old field pine in Hortman's yards. It's SAPE to build with Hortman's Lumber.

Our catalog of Lumber, Sash, Doors, Frames, Mouldings, Roofing and Wall Board will be mailed free on request.

NOT ORIGINAL "MARK TWAIN"

Samuel Clemens Was Second Writer to Make Use of World-Famous Nom de Plume.

No lesser authority than Albert Bigelow Paine, in a recent publication, comes forward with the advice that there were two "Mark Twains"; that Capt. Isaiah Sellers, a river steamboat captain, contributing paragraphs to the New Orleans newspapers, usually signed himself "Mark-Twain."

According to Mr. Paine, the articles of Capt. Sellers often began: "My opinion for the citizens of New Orleans," etc., and would prophesy river conditions and recte incidents and comparisons dating as far back as 1811. To the younger pilots on the Mississippi, among them Samuel Clemens, then 23 years old, the articles of Capt. Sellers afforded much amusement. In an attempt to further this amusement, Samuel Clemens wrote a preposterous story of a cruise he was supposed to have made in the year 1703, the ship's crew being Choctaws and the captain a Chinaman. The story was satirical of the writing of Capt. Sellers, and was thought to have much literary value. Upon the insistence of one of his friends Clemens permitted the article to be published in the True Delta in May, 1859. Capt. Sellers never wrote again for the newspapers—his literary pride had been wounded.

The nom de plume, "Mark Twain," lay idle for nearly four years. It appeared again, revived by Samuel Clemens, signed to a political letter in the Virginia City (Nev.) Enterprise on February 2, 1863. Shortly after that time it was always signed to the works of Samuel Clemens. Clemens is said to have revived the name because of his deep regret for having so thoughtlessly wounded the feelings of Capt. Sellers.

Largest English Walnut Tree.

What is declared to be the largest English walnut tree in California is boasted of by Sonora. Measurements showed the tree to be 79 feet tall, having a branch spread of 89 feet, and nine feet from the ground it was found to be three and one-half feet in circumference. Its age is unknown to residents there, but the oldest inhabitant declares it to be as old as himself.

This is only one of a series of celebrated trees. On William Lewis' ranch is a cherry tree over 50 years old which is still producing well. An enormous Bleinheim apricot tree on the D. W. Scofield place, aged over 60 years, still bears some fruit. On the Abbot ranch is an apple orchard past the century mark, which in 1919, according to the ranch owner, yielded approximately one ton to the tree.

A winesap, also over the 60-year mark, produced 2,200 pounds of apples in the same year. A Bartlett pear tree, half a century old, bore nearly a ton of good pears in 1919. To cap the senile producers, one vineyardist declared he has some 60-year-old vineyards producing over 10 tons to an acre.

Indiana Built of Stone.

Ruins which are held by archaeologists to be the forerunners of the Pueblo cliff dwellings have been excavated and explored in the Texas Panhandle by W. W. K. Moorehead, director of an expedition sent out by the University of Pennsylvania. Professor Moorehead believes that the Indians in the Canadian and Cimarron valleys were the first to desert the buffalo tepee for stone construction. Later these housing pioneers, in his opinion, moved west, and built their famous cliff dwellings in the Colorado River valley and other parts of the Rocky mountains.

The expedition has worked through four counties in northwest Texas and several counties in Oklahoma, and has observed about one hundred stone foundations, usually in groups of a dozen or more, but situated in almost inaccessible canyons and wild places. The foundations range from three to five feet deep and apparently supported structures very much like the Mexican adobes of today.—Detroit News.

Raising the "Yak" in Alaska.

The "yak," or woolly ox of Thibet, is soon to be transplanted into Alaska and the Canadian northwest by Dawson men. For centuries the yak has been domesticated by man and its haunts are the snowy highlands of Thibet, 20,000 feet above the sea. Its native food is coarse wiry grass, but it will eat anything that cattle will. In size it compares favorably with range cattle—1,000 to 1,200 pounds. The meat is as delicious as beef, and the wool and hide are valuable.—Scientific American.

Team Work

We hear much these days about "TEAM-WORK." Mostly it is used in connection with athletic affairs. We are told of wonderful victories—when every member of a team PULLS TOGETHER—when someone doesn't go off trying to make a star play, at the expense of the others.

Trouble is that we limit the word to our recreation—sport—athletics. We should follow through; think, use, live team-work in everything we do.

If team-work is a winner in sports, then team-work is good in family affairs—and we all know how the household thrives wherein every member has a shoulder to the wheel.

If team-work is good in the family then it is good in our work—the commercial organization or unit where we earn our daily bread.

If team-work is good in our work—then team-work is good for our neighborhood affairs—our community—our town.

And right there, friends, is where we can make the greatest showing—when we ALL practice team-work in the development and growth of OUR town and county.

When the merchants of this town spend money for advertising space to send you a message of economy—savings—bargains—that message should be read. They've invested thousands of dollars in goods to supply you—and without one guarantee that you will buy.

To earn your money here, then take it to the big city store—or send it to the mail order house—neither of which contributes one cent to the upbuilding of this community—is not team-work. Read the advertisements in this paper today, then patronize our home merchants.

HOME-SPENT DOLLARS mean team-work.
