HIT TO RUBE OLDRING TO THE VOTERS OF THE 26TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

Home Run in World's Series Brought Only Lot of Gloom.

Instead of Going Down Into History as Hit of Crucial Contest, It Was Recorded as Mere Incident—Vaudeville Offers Lacking.

Most players would look upon a home-run hit in a world-series contest as the most momentous occasion in their lives. To Oldring his four-bagger brought only a lot of gloom.

It was in the fifth and what should have been the deciding game of the world series of 1911 that Oldring banged out his circuit drive. This hit should have clinched the series for the Athletics. The hit was made off Marquard. The game was played at the Polo grounds in New York. Oldring's home was then only a few miles from the Polo grounds, and there were a lot of his boyhood chums looking on.

In the third inning, with Lapp and Coombs on the bases, Oldring drove the ball into the left-field bleachers, making the score 3 to 0. Late in the game Coombs sustained the injury which laid him up for many months, but he persisted in remaining on the rubber. In the seventh inning New York scored a run, making the score 3 to 1. All during the game Oldring was delighted at the thought of that four-bagger and how he would have fun all winter with his New York friends.

Incidentally, Rube was dreaming of the offers he would get from vaudeville agents to go on the stage. Then came the ninth inning, and New York scored two runs and tied the count. That made Oldring's homer fade considerably in importance.

In the tenth inning, with Plank pitching, the Giants landed another tally and won the game by 4 to 3.

Rube Oldring.

The injury to Coombs, the story that Larry Doyle had not actually touched the home plate in scoring in the tenth inning and the sensational manner in which the Giants had pulled the game out of the fire took away nearly all the glamor from Oldring's feat. Instead of a home run that would go down in baseball history with Frank Baker's two four-baggers in the same series, Rube's hit became a mere incident of the contest.

There were no offers from vaudeville agents for Oldring to go on the stage; his name was not blazoned across the pages of the newspapers as the hero of the final games of the series, and his picture did not decorate the front pages, while no squad of agents asked him to sign papers endorsing cigarettes, dyspepsia cures, chewing gum, soft drinks, etc.

DUNCAN HOLDS GOLF MARKS

Makes Three Remarkable Scores Over Swiss Course While Playing in Competition Game.

The question is asked frequently: "What is the world's record golf score?" It is quite impossible to answer this accurately, for most courses differ greatly, and for the most part very low courses are so short and so absurdly easy as to furnish no real test of the game.

A year or two since, George Duncan made a remarkable score over the course at Axenfels, Switzerland. It was in competition in the Lucerne lakes open tournament, 72 holes medal—36 at Lucerne and 36 at Axenfels. At Lucerne Duncan had 71 and 74, and at Axenfels 62 and 56. The scores of 56 for 18, 118 for 36 and 263 for 72 holes are world's records over recognizable courses. Axenfels is easy, but nevertheless Duncan's going was remarkable.

McGinnity's Hard Luck.

Ball players who think being a club owner is such a great graft should consider the case of Joe McGinnity. Joe went out to Tacoma with a roll estimated at $25,000. He bought the Tacoma franchise and in two years was broke. Now he is glad to get back on a salary.

Dear Sirs and Friends:—

A great many of my friends both in Washidgton and St. Tammany Parishes have requested me to become a Candidate for District Attorney in the Democratic Primary, to be held same time during the month of September of this year. After carefully considering the question from all angles and being assured of the support of my friends, I have determined to make the race.

I have been in the active practice of Criminal Law for the last nine years. Have made a special study of the duties of District Attorney, and if elected, the system that I intend inaugurating will have the effect of saving both parishes in the district considerable money.

I was elected Representative of St. Tammany by the largest majority received by any individual candidate, for office in the last Primary.

It is my purpose to resign as Member of the House of Representatives, just as soon as I have fulfilled my duties at the present session. I am not making my resignation as a member of the House of Representatives, dependent upon my being elected District Attorney.

In the regular Judicial Primary in September my constituents in St. Tammany Parish, can, and will elect without extra cost, my successor to the Legislature, whether or not, I receive the nomination as District attorney. This will save the people of St. Tammany Parish costs of a special election, and will relieve me of the imputation of holding on to one office whilst being a candidate for another.

I take this means of addressing you, for the reason that owing to my present duties in the Legislature, I will not be in a position to do any active campaigning in the district, until after the close of the session of the Legislature in July, at which time, I expect to meet the voters in the District.

Respectfully submitted,
Fred J. Heintz.

HEINTZ TO RESIGN SEAT; SEEKS PROSECUTORSHIP

Baton Rouge, La., May 24.—Representative Fred J. Heintz, of Covington, today announced himself a candidate for district attorney and declared that he will resign his seat in the legislature at the close of this session, to make the race.

"I am not making my resignation dependent upon my election as district attorney," he said. "But at the same primary my successor will be nominated."
