Small Boy Meets Horrible Death

Richard Deen Jenkins, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jenkins of Jenkins' Station on the Great Northern, just two miles south of Franklinton, died Sunday as the result of the horrible accident which befell him Friday.

The boy went to the grind stone, operated by the pulleys of the Kerr sawmill, and in trying to attach the belt, preparatory to grinding his ax, the sleeve of his coat became entangled in the machinery, drawing the arm in the belt and driving it around the pulley, finally twisting it entirely from the body. Dr. Jones was immediately summoned to the scene and bandaged the shoulder and lacerated side, the shock the boy sustained seeming at first to be very slight. He expressed the greatest hopefulness from the first, telling his parents repeatedly that he was coming through all right. He rested well through the remainder of the day and night, but on Saturday it was seen that he was gradually weakening, and the end came at 2:20 in the morning. Young Richard was laid to rest Monday morning on a knoll near his home, the funeral services being conducted by Reverend Joe Bateman, assisted by Reverend F. N. Sweeney and C. N. Kimberlin. The Franklinton Boy Scouts, of which young Jenkins was a member, attended the service in a body.

Richard Deen was the youngest of eleven living children of Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins. The sad accident is deeply deplored and universal sympathy and concern are expressed for the bereaved parents.—Era Leader.

HOW TO SPELL MULLIGAN IN SIX LANGUAGES

Mulligan is a good old, fighting Irish name—although one might be inclined to doubt it, glancing through the stack of mail from overseas addressed to William J. Mulligan, chairman of the Knights of Columbus Committee on War Activities, 461 Fourth avenue, New York.

A missive from a French poilu, who has tasted his first tree K. of C. batch of smokes and registers his thanks and an invitation for more, has "Mullegan" (acute accent over the e); a hardy British Tommy spells the surname of innumerable Irish kings, "Mulligin"; a Sikh who has eaten a bar of K. of C. chocolate and yearned for more, addresses the K. of C. chairman as "the Sahib Mullighan"; a member of the Polish Legion, expressing delight at a concert in a K. of C. hut, where his national music predominated, writes the name that for a thousand years has braved the battle and the breeze, "Mulliganzyk," and one of our own valiant colored boys, back from an excursion in No Man's Land, states that one hand is missing, but that he is alternately smoking a K. of C. cigar and writing his letter with the other hand—hailing from Missouri he spells the chairman's name "Mulegah."

And a Czecho-Slovak warrior, breathing defiance of English, or Irish orthography, spells the name "Myzillzgn." But William J. Mulligan of the Knights of Columbus has this consolation—a chairman called by any other name is just as efficient.

NINE AT BANQUET 2800 FEET IN THE SKY

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 29—The first aerial banquet in history was held on an airplane 2800 feet above the new flying field of the United States air mail service here, marking the inauguration of the field as the terminus of the aerial mail service between New York, Philadelphia and Washington.

A few minutes after the mail plane, in charge of Pilot Max Miller, left the field at 12:10 o'clock, a big Hadley-Paige machine arose under Captain E. B. Waller of the Royal Flying Forces and during a flight of twenty-two minutes above the grounds a real Thanksgiving dinner was served to nine persons. Among the guests were Captain Benjamin B. Lipsner, superintendent of the air mail service, and Allan R. Hawley, Augustus Post and other officials of the Aero Club of America.

Speaking of the proposed nationwide extension of the mail service, Captain Lipsner said:

"We will have machines here which will carry a ton and a half of mail and the days of freight and parcel post by airplane are coming."

Woman and the Law Magic City Tonight

The struggle of a woman for her child and the lengths to which she will go for its protection are pictured with tremendous dramatic intensity in the William Fox photoplay, "Woman and the Law," which will be the attraction at the Magic City Theater tonight December 5. This picture play was written and staged by R. A. Walsh the brilliant young director of the Fox forces, and it presents a picture of timely and pertinent interest to everyone.

Based on the internationally sensational De Saullés case, which so shocked the United States and South America and which was discussed in every home in the country, it is said, the thrilling moment when the woman who has slain for the sake of her child faces the jury which is to decide her fate, depicts a situation to hold the most hardened playgoer spellbound.

Meeting a beautiful heiress in South America, a young American college man marries her and brings her to New York.

For a time all goes well with them. The bride is happy in the home which her husband has made for her in the great city and she is slow to realize how he is bored by her company and longs for his old companions of the gay life of the city.

After a child was born to them he soon wearies and makes life hideous for her with his escapades with notorious women. She bears with him until he takes her child from her. Then the elemental passions leap to the surface, she kills him and is forced to face the law. It is left to the jury to decide her fate. The question placed squarely before them is the question that this play places squarely before every person who sees it thrown on the screen:

Are there provocations which justify a woman to kill?

And the jury decides in a scene that will live long in the memory of everyone who sees it.

Magic City Theater Thursday, December 5, 10 and 20 cents.

PRIVILEGE TAX OFF PARLOR CARS NOW

The joys and exclusiveness of travel in a Pullman coach came cheaper to America's traveling public December 1.

On that day the extra half-cent a mile for the privilege of traveling in a Pullman—the charge imposed shortly after the United States entered the war—was abolished. With the removal of this charge, naturally, the war tax on this item also disappears from the traveling expenses of the nation.

As in days of yore, the traveler will pay his regular fare and the customary Pullman seat or berth charge, with the war taxes thereon. And that lets him out.

No reason for the removal of the half-cent a mile to Pullman patrons is given by the Railroad Administration.
