

WOMAN SUFFERED TEN YEARS

From Nervousness Caused by Female Ills—Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Auburn, N. Y.—"I suffered from nervousness for ten years, and had such organic pains that sometimes I would lie in bed four days at a time, could not eat or sleep and did not want anyone to talk to me or bother me at all. Sometimes I would suffer for seven hours at a time. Different doctors did the best they could for me until four months ago I began giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and now I am in good health."—Mrs. WILLIAM H. GILL, 15 Pleasant Street, Auburn, New York.

"Doctor's Daughter Took It." St. Cloud, Minn.—"I was so run down by overwork and worry that I could not stand it to have my children talk aloud or walk heavy on the floor. One of my friends said, 'Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I know a doctor's daughter here in town who takes it and she would not take it if it were not good.'"

"I sent for the Compound at once and kept on taking it until I was all right."—Mrs. BERTHA M. QUICKSTADT, 727 5th Avenue, S. St. Cloud, Minn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon as the most efficient remedy for female ills. Why don't you try it?

Lass on Rollers. Little George, aged five, had never seen roller skates or any one skating on them. His favorite toys were his engine and trains of cars.

At the window one day he chanced to see small Nancy of seven, his special playmate, skating on the asphalt street with steel rollers.

Rushing to his mother in great excitement he exclaimed: "Mudder, look! there goes Nancy on a train of cars!"

IRON HAND IN EGYPT

Lord Kitchener's Sway in Nile Country Is Masterful.

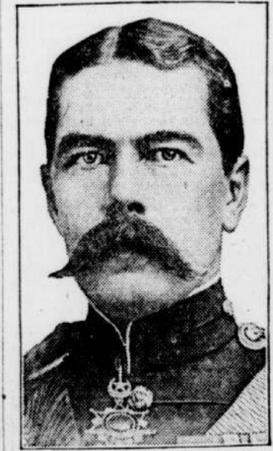

Speaking of Education of Youths, "We Don't Want Them to Get Their Hands Soft," He Says—Holds Some Unique Views.

Cairo, Egypt.—No explanation of the government of Egypt is adequate without the presentation of the name of Lord Kitchener, who since his appointment as British agent in October of 1911 has been increasingly the unique and dynamic force behind all the government agencies, alike the protector of imperial English interests and the humanitarian regenerator of the land he loves, writes Clayton Sedgwick Cooper in a letter from Cairo to the Christian Science Monitor.

He came to Egypt to assist in the completion of the splendid work of regeneration commenced by Lord Cromer. He himself had before contributed to the problem as the soldier leader in Khartoum, the conqueror of the Khalifa, sweeping out of the Sudan the fanatical dervishes, nor did he arrive one moment too soon to arrest the tide that was surely carrying Egypt backward from the high and superb statesmanship of Lord Cromer's regime.

The presence of an iron hand was needed and not a few of Egypt's leaders were unconsciously turning in their minds toward Kitchener. As the conversation of a certain Egyptian officer who commanded a brigade at Omdurman infers: "Lord Kitchener is a soldier. He is a man of iron. He made a clean sweep of the Sudan. He is just, but he is not to be trifled with. There is not a nationalist in Egypt who would not bury himself in the sand if Lord Kitchener came to Cairo. He is the man for the job."

After an interview with Lord Kitchener in Cairo I realized that he was Kitchener of Khartoum.

"the man for the job." I also realized why the people of the Nile country, when asked why the nationalists were quiet, why the schools of agriculture and commerce were thriving, why thousands of acres of rich Egyptian land were being reclaimed by new systems of irrigation and drainage, why the European timeserver is unceremoniously disappearing, why the journals of the agitators have been going out of business at the rate of one each day, why thousands of fellahs were beginning to have a growing confidence in the government as evidenced by their trust in the postal savings bank, or why Turkey did not send its soldiers across Egypt in its war with Tripoli—yes, and why even Downing street seemed affected with a new confidence—always gave the same answer—Lord Kitchener.

It is said that without bayonets behind or before, moral force cannot exist. Egypt sees in the soldier who drove out the mad Mahdi hosts the spirit of command, which seems to be the only attitude deeply respected by

WED AT COFFIN OF MOTHER

Chicago Couple Carry Out Woman's Last Dying Wish—Funeral a Wedding Trip.

Chicago.—The most urgent request of the late Mrs. Peter Peterson, 1422 East Seventieth street, to her son, Christ Peterson, during her final years was that he get married before her death.

"If not before I die, then at least before I am buried," she told him. The son was in no hurry, and not thinking there was any likelihood of his mother dying soon, he kept putting it off. Perhaps one factor in the postponement was the hesitating attitude of the girl of his choice, Miss Hannah Jensen, 6838 Adams avenue.

But on last Saturday Mrs. Peterson while visiting a neighbor was stricken with apoplexy.

Young Peterson remembered the last wish his mother had expressed. He telephoned Miss Jensen and obtained her consent, then telephoned the license clerk and discovered it was too late to get a marriage license.

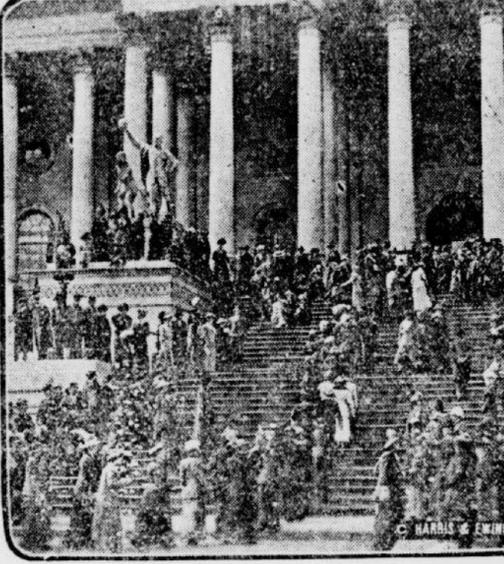

The Rev. William Steinmeyer, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church, was asked to officiate. On Tuesday the minister was telephoned again and asked to appear a few minutes before the time set for the funeral service. He was escorted

CRUSADE ON NOISE

Woman's War on Nuisance Becomes World Wide.

Battle Begun in New York City Eight Years Ago to Suppress All Needless Clamor—Zone of Quiet Extended.

New York.—That movement to suppress unnecessary noise which Mrs. Isaac L. Rice began in this town eight years ago has now extended to foreign countries, and the suppression of unnecessary noise has been added to the reforms of international scope, says the Evening Post. Three years ago Prof. Theodore Lessing of Isaac L. Rice, the founder of the Society for the Suppression of Unnecessary Noise has been added to the band, the first organization of its kind in Germany. Today there are 39 local societies scattered throughout that country, and Professor Lessing, who is in constant communication with Mrs. Rice, reports the movement is steadily growing.

In England practically nothing had been done until Mrs. Rice had successfully launched her campaign in this city. There is, however, at this time the Betterment of London association, working along these same lines, with the hope that its efforts will eventually be emulated throughout England.

Statistics show that in 1905 there were 5,623 casualties resulting from the efforts of Young America to celebrate the national holiday. In 1912 this number had been re-

Negro Ends Life by Gluttony.

Washington.—Told by physicians he had only a short time to live, Roscoe Boyd, a negro, aged thirty years, declared he would spend those remaining days in plenty and comfort, and retired to his little shack after spending all his savings for foodstuffs. A few days ago he was found dead. The table was loaded with food, and an attending physician said death was due to acute indigestion, the negro having literally eaten himself to death.

ROD THAT LOCATES SPRINGS

Member of Congress of "Spring Seekers" in Paris Has Sensitized Instrument to Find Wells.

Paris, France.—There was recently demonstrated during the congress of "Spring Seekers" in Paris, what ordinarily would be considered magic of the highest order. With the aid of a sensitized rod, M. Peleprat, a member of the congress, was able to discover a hidden spring that up to that time had been unheard of. The photograph shows M. Peleprat surrounded by members of the press and the congress on the spot on the Bois de Vincennes, where he actually located a spring of pure fresh water.

In America, we have often heard of the magical rod that possesses the power of discovering hidden oil or minerals. These rods, invented by an ingenious "get-rich-quick" genius, were nothing more nor less than a means of separating gullible folks from their ready cash. It is because of this that many Americans, reading of this wonderful divining rod, may be skeptical, yet the truth remains that M. Peleprat discovered not only one spring whose very existence had been unheard of, but a number of them.

The secret is one with which he does not care to part. The rod is of metal; nothing out of the ordinary excepting that it is sensitized. It is suspended from a loop attached to any part of the garment of the wearer, who holds both ends firmly in his hands. When the searcher arrives at a place where a spring is to be found, the rod undergoes a series of violent vibrations, similar to those recorded by a seismograph when an earthquake thousands of miles away takes place.

MINISTER BESTS THE BENCH

Witness Spars With Judge in Dublin Court and Carries Off the Honors.

London.—A little sparring match between the church and the law recently amused Dublin. The case concerned a certain cinematograph film of a Biblical subject which is to be shown in Dublin.

Threatened with an injunction, the cinematograph syndicate produced several clergymen as witnesses to the edifying effect of the film. One of them was a distinguished Irish Jesuit, who has been dubbed "the Father Bernard Vaughan of Ireland."

"Do you approve of actions simulating such scenes in cold blood for the purpose of making money out of it?" he was asked.

"I cannot answer yes or no," was the cautious reply.

"The question is a very plain one," said the judge, a well known lion of the bar a few years back.

"It is not a plain question to me," replied the Jesuit. "If a person asked me did I think it right that a judge on the bench should distribute justice, which is one of the highest virtues, and do it for the sake of his salary—"

"What on earth has that to do with it?" hastily interposed the judge.

"Persons may have several motives," replied the Jesuit. "We cannot live in this world as ethereal beings, and if a person's motives are to do good and en passant he also makes his living by it I see no objection."

Honors rested with the church.

ODD SEA MAMMALS

U. S. Expedition Finds Last Rookery of Elephant Seals.

Huge Animals, Thought to Be Extinct, Are Found on Isolated Island of Guadalupe by Party Headed by Dr. C. H. Townsend.

New York.—Naturalists all over the world are greatly interested just now in a beach some 400 yards long by 30 in width on the isolated island of Guadalupe. Here on the Pacific unhabited island, lying in the northern part of the peninsula of Lower California, has been discovered the only rookery of the elephant seal, the largest of all mammals. This is the largest of all seals, long since thought to have disappeared, and likewise one of the most remarkable marine mammals existing today.

Aside from its great size, 16 feet and more, the chief feature of interest of these animals is centered in the strange appearance of the head, caused by elephant-like trunk or snout, measuring in the adult males nearly a foot or more in length. The rediscovery of this, the only herd of northern elephant seals living today, was made by Dr. Charles H. Townsend, who commanded an expedition on the United States Fisheries Steamship Albatross to Lower California to study the fishery resources and to obtain specimens of this region.

Being valuable for its oil, the elephant seal was killed in large numbers for commercial purposes until it was thought to be practically extinct. The oil is worth about 50 cents a gallon. A 16-foot elephant seal is said to yield from 200 to 250 gallons of oil. The colony of seals found by Dr. Townsend was scattered in family groups along the beach, and watched the landing party in their boats with apparent indifference. The herd consisted chiefly of large males, females, yearling and new-born pups. A number of adult females were surrounded by newly-born young, and the indications were that the breeding season was just commencing at this time of year, which was March, and therefore it was thought that other adult females would arrive later.

The seals had little fear of man, which afforded unusual opportunities for securing close-range photographs showing them in their various attitudes. Unless actually teased by the members of the party the old animals did not attempt to leave the beach, and many of them did not raise their heads from the sand until closely approached, although wide awake. When driven from a comfortable resting place they would soon settle down, and, after throwing sand on their backs with their front flippers, become quiet again. Both young and old have the habit of covering themselves with sand when settling down to rest. The females, although but little molested, appeared to be even more passive than the males. Some of the large males after being driven into the sea soon returned.

The most striking and remarkable feature of this animal, and from which it takes its name, is a curious elongated trunk or snout which attains a length equal to the remainder of the head. This thick and heavy appendage has a length of ten inches or more forward from the canine teeth and is fibrous and fleshy throughout. When fully expanded it exhibits three bulging transverse folds on top separated by deep grooves. The trunk is not capable of inflation, but is retracted into heavy folds on top of the head by muscular action. This snout is somewhat protrusible, but when not elongated hangs in a pendulous fashion over the mouth; when sleeping it rests upon the sands, a shapeless mass.

Judge's Pullet Is Some Layer.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—Judge Robert F. White owns a buff pullet of remarkable egg-laying ability. A few days ago D. C. Short Hatpin Law.

We have observed a disposition in the newspapers outside of Massachusetts to belittle the law against long hatpins that will become effective early in April. There is one exception, however. The New York Sun, which used to boast that it "shines for all," takes a sane view of the matter. "The protection of life and limb," declares the Sun, "cannot be deemed summary legislation. Is it not reasonable to approve the Massachusetts statute just passed providing that the deadly end of hatpins worn in public shall be sheathed. The rapier is not less beautiful with a foil. The hatpin scabbard can be made esthetic. The fears of man can be allayed, his miserable life spared. Sovereign woman can still slay with her eyes; she needn't put out the other fellow's. No, she need not, and it is within her power to make the penalties of the new law harmless by setting the fashion of wearing a protector. Let her heed the advice of the Sun and make the scabbard of the hatpin esthetic. As already suggested, let the federated clubs address themselves to this troublesome problem and the affair can be settled to everybody's satisfaction within a very short time.—From the Lynn Item.

RESINOL CURED AWFUL PIMPLES

Whole Face Covered, Now Clear. Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 9, 1912. "I was troubled with two or three pimples coming out on my chin. In a week or so my whole face was covered with so many friends advised me to use different lotions and salves. I tried them, but they did me no good. I finally used Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. In the morning I found the swelling gone down, and the inflammation gone from the pimples. I tried this treatment for about a week, and found that most of the pimples had disappeared. I kept the treatment up for about a month, and then my face used Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. (Signed) Walter A. Stearns, 24 Woughly Ave.
