Is your home-owning hope strong enough to make the Real Estate ads the most interesting reading in the paper for you? If so, you'll own that home before long!

We noticed that the progressive citizens of Lake Charles went to Lafayette and assisted in laying the "concrete foundation" of the Southwest Louisiana Development Bureau.

The merchant who feels that one of the chief things he is accomplishing in his advertising is to "help support the newspaper," probable feels, too, that he is paying store-rent primarily to help support the landlord.

We suggest that a move be put on foot to try and have the Crooked Styx and Youngs Coulee cleaned and dredged out. As it is now there is more crops lost each year than the cost would be to remedy the cause.

"Every good store, even though it be a small one, should be advertised."

Small beginnings, wisely made and persistently followed up, will mean assured growth and larger opportunities for the little merchant--just in the degree that his store merits and earns wider patronage and approval.

A small advertising space costs a small amount of money. Yet it affords a chance to the small merchant to tell why he seeks a wide patronage--what he has to offer that is unusual.

And, whether he is located on the beaten pathway of trade, or upon an unfrequented by-way, his ad will lead people to seek him out. And, in due time, he will be able to decide the matter of store location according to his liking, rather than according to his necessities.

The Knocker.

The knocker will knock, as all knockers do, He may hurt his own business, as well as hurt you, But that makes no difference, he sees nothing good, He knocks and does nothing, wouldn't it be could.

He knocks the new railroad, says there's nothing to it, Knocks the new bank, says it won't last a minute, Knocks the new school house, not enough kids, Said the price was too high when they opened the bids.

He knocks at the editor, says he is slow, Knocks at the preacher, he is a mighty poor go, Knocks the merchant--says the prices are too high, Knocks at the lawyers--says they all lie.

Knocks at the doctors--says they are quacks, Says real estate men don't deal in facts, So he knocks--poor lonesome devil, Trying to get others down to his level.

Oh! give me the booster--the man with a smile, Who gives you the glad hand without any guile, Who will go out of his way to show you around, And tell of the good things found in his town.

When he gets to Heaven at the pearly gate, He will find a welcome, early and late, While the poor old knocker, so sour and crusty, Will find the gate closed and the hinges rusty.

Most of the Money is Managed by Women! The wife in the financial manager in almost every home. If not wholly so, she at least manages, and personally directs the expenditures of all that is spent for the home itself. Upon her knowledge of buying--upon her watchfulness for buying opportunities that are unusual--depends the "purse-peace" of the home. "Purse-strife," you know, wrecks many a home, while "purse-peace", that gift of making too little seem almost or quite enough, which some wives possess--means a successful home. For the difference between a woman who has learned how to buy, and one who has not, is just the difference between competent home management and incompetent home management. Therefore, of course, many good wives, good and earnest women, who have not yet learned the usefulness of the ads to them. That is why we keep reminding them of the practical importance of ad-watchfulness.

"Worth More Than it Costs" Lots of farmers declare their telephone service is worth more than it costs. J. W. Harris, a well-known farmer living near Choccolocco, Ala., writes: "I had occasion to call our doctor not two hours after my telephone was connected with your exchange. My mother, who is very old, fell down the door steps and broke her arm, and I called the doctor. He was at my house before I could have gone to his residence, as he has an automobile. "We would not be without our telephone for more than it costs and appreciate the assistance you rendered us." Our free booklet tells how you may have telephone service on your farm at small cost. Write for it today. A postal will do. FARMERS' LINE DEPARTMENT Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company INCORPORATED. 320 SOUTH PRYOR STREET, ATLANTA, GEORGIA.
