SHE'D WALK MILES TO TELL ABOUT IT

Nashville Woman Says She Gained 25 Pounds By Taking Taulac

"I feel so grateful for the wonderful relief I have gotten through taking Taulac that I would willingly walk twenty miles to tell other sufferers what this medicine has done for me," said Miss Adela McKenzie, of 424 Sixth Ave., Nashville, Tenn.

"I suffered for about eighteen months from nervous prostration," she continued, "and kept getting worse in spite of all I could do. I had no appetite and after eating anything my stomach would burn like fire. I would turn cold one minute and hot the next and I was so nervous I could hardly sleep at all and lost sixty pounds."

"After trying several different medicines without getting relief, my brother got me a bottle of Taulac and I started taking it. By the time I had finished my second bottle my appetite began to improve and my other troubles were greatly relieved. That burning sensation has disappeared from my stomach, and the nervousness is gone. I sleep like a child and I have gained twenty-five pounds in weight."

Taulac is sold by all druggists.

SHE HOLDS THE CHAMPIONSHIP RECORD

Miss Anna Huber, a Texas girl, now Mrs. Anna Sessions, has made a record of which all of her sex may well feel proud. She is now in the $6,000.00 a year class. After finishing a course in Byrne Shorthand in the Tyler Commercial College, Tyler, Texas, some years ago, she started out as a stenographer at $12.00 a week. Her work was so satisfactory that she gradually gained promotion until she became manager of the World Film Corporation at New Orleans. This position she held for four years. When the Company recently reorganized its business and opened their big Southwestern Office at Atlanta, Georgia, this T. C. C. girl was elected to the position of manager at $6,000.00 a year with twenty office employees under her charge and eight traveling salesmen. We believe this makes her the champion so far as salary and responsibility is concerned of the Tyler College girls that have entered upon a business career. Mrs. Sessions likes her work and says $6,000.00 a year comes in nicely buying shoes and clothing at the present high prices for herself and daughter. She finds the work in the

SHOULD PRODUCE OWN CABBAGE PLANTS

Grow your own cabbage plants, advises Miss Ola Overbey, garden specialist, Extension Division, Louisiana State University. The old-time method of purchasing frost-proof plants from various sources for early spring heading is dangerous owing to the introduction of a disease called "cabbage yellows." Once the soil is infected with this disease, she says, it is impossible to grow cabbages on the same land for several years.

"The only safe recourse open to the cabbage grower is to produce his own plants," says Miss Overbey. "The seeds should be planted in coldframes in November for the production of frostproof plants. In making a coldframe use soil that is free from disease. Plant the seeds in the coldframe in drills 6 to 8 inches apart so that cultivation may be given. The plants should not grow rapidly, but steadily. Sufficient protection from freezing should be given so as to promote a normal growth. The little plants in the coldframe should have light and air whenever the weather conditions permit.

"With good seeds and proper care the grower will be able to produce hardy plants, free from disease and ready for outdoor setting as early as the season permits."

LOUISIANA LAMBS READY FOR MARKET

In all the sheep-raising parishes in Louisiana fall lambs are already to be found, according to a report made by G. P. Williams, Extension Sheep Specialist, at the Louisiana State University. With only a little supplementary feed these will be in prime condition for the block in 90 days, which means home-grown lamb available by March 1, and for Easter, says Mr. Williams. Lamb is most desirable of all meats for spring use, he says, and at the same season while Northern tables are being supplied with last year's range lambs from feed lots, the Southern trade may eat milk-fat lamb from our own farms.

business office pleasant and interesting and says she can't see why any woman should lose her feminine tact and adaptability just because she is a business woman. Mrs. Sessions states with pride that it was her knowledge of the Byrne Shorthand, obtained in her three months stay in the Tyler Commercial College of Tyler, Texas, that gave her the basis of her start into her wonderful business career. Mrs. Sessions is only one of many girls who have attended the T. C. C. at Tyler that have made wonderful records in their business careers. The success of Mrs. Sessions should be an inspiration to other Southern girls who have the desire and ambition to rise in the world; to earn their own money; win their independence, and live the lives they would like to live.

The Strange Story of a Nameless Tramp

An historically accurate account of how a tattered hobo, whose name is still unknown, became a benefactor to humanity.

TO begin with, this is a true story. And, being true, it is just one more piece of evidence to prove that truth is really stranger than fiction.

For nearly three years Mr. G. D. Horton of Singier, La., had been suffering from one of the most malignant and painful diseases to which the human flesh is heir. Naturally he had become morose, despondent. Famous doctors had pronounced his case incurable. Obviously he was living—only to die.

One day in a fit of desperation he started to walk out of town down the railroad track. He didn't know where he was going and didn't care. He walked awhile and then, being seized with unusually severe pains, he sat down to rest. Shortly thereafter a ragged, unkempt hobo appeared and spoke to Mr. Horton: "What's the matter, old man?" he said, kindly.

Mr. Horton told him. He never knew just why he had made this tramp his confidant. Possibly it was a kind providence interceding in his behalf. At any rate, he finished his story. The tramp was silent for a moment. "I can cure you," he said, finally. "In fact, I can cure anyone who has your trouble."

Without further ado, he walked into the piney woods at the side of the track, and emerged, presently, with a handful of what looked to be weeds. Aided by Mr. Horton, the tramp brewed a liquid from the herbs, explaining what they were and how they should be prepared, while he worked. When it was finished, he said: "Take this; it will cure you."

Mr. Horton, who was in a condition to grasp eagerly at any possible relief, was profuse with his thanks and asked the hobo his name. "Oh, I'm just a hobo," answered the tramp, and without another word walked back into the woods—and into oblivion.

Mr. Horton began taking his new-found medicine immediately. To be perfectly frank, he had but little confidence in it. He had taken medicines of all sorts without result. But he decided to give it a trial anyway. Within three days a decided improvement was noticed. Pain and other irritating conditions had been relieved. Two months later he was a well man. And from that time on, he was never troubled with the disease which had made his life a living death for three years.

Naturally the report of the remarkable cure spread. Folks from all over his section of Louisiana came to Mr. Horton to take his treatment. And relief was given in every instance.

Then Mr. Horton decided that a remedy of the value of this one should be given to the world. With a few friends he formed a company, and manufacture on a larger scale commenced.

Mr. Horton's trouble had been Bright's Disease. This terrible scourge of the human race had given him three years of pain, irritation and misery. The hobo's compound had cured him, and it had cured many others afflicted with similar troubles.

Therefore Mr. Horton decided to immortalize this nameless tramp. He named his preparation HOBOLIC Kidney and Bladder Remedy, and the business, which is now located in Shreveport, La., is called the Hobo Medicine Mfg. Co.

For nine years, now, this remedy has been growing in popularity and fame. With practically nothing but word-of-mouth testimony, the sales of this remarkable medicine have grown until many thousands of bottles are used every month, and almost every mail contains voluntary testimonials from users.

Now HOBOLIC has come to this city and vicinity. Drug-gists now sell it here for one dollar and twenty cents a bottle. And its long and successful record indicates what it can do for ALL sufferers from kidney, bladder and prostate gland troubles.

HOBOLIC is a vegetable product, brewed from the very same herbs originally used by the nameless tramp. It contains no alcohol, no habit-forming drugs. It leaves no bad after-effect. Ask your druggist for it, and when you take it, remember the story of the nameless tramp whose discovery it was.
