

Brooklyn Bridge

Day After Day on the Cars

A Well Known Conductor's Experience.

Conductor Wm. F. Murphy

I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla the best medicine I ever took. For seven years I have been employed on the trains at Brooklyn Bridge. First as locomotive fireman, and now as conductor. The constant jolting of the cars and the hard work caused debility and...

Pain All Over My Body which I could not get rid of until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which was suggested to me by a friend who had been benefited. And it has done great things for me. I have taken three bottles and am now in perfect health. Don't let this opportunity pass you by.

Hood's Cures Sarsaparilla have that tired feeling nor feel broken up as I used to. I can honestly recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to any one. Wm. F. MURPHY, 129 Broome St., New York City.

Hood's Pills act easily, get promptly and efficiently on the liver and bowels.

William McKeekan, Druggist at Bloomingdale, Mich. "I have had the Asthma badly ever since I came out of the army and though I have been in the drug business for fifteen years, and have tried nearly everything on the market, nothing has given me the slightest relief until a few months ago, when I used Boscbee's German Syrup. I am now glad to acknowledge the great good it has done me. I am greatly relieved during the day and at night to sleep without the least trouble."

Look on this picture, do, and see a pattern sweet, of industry. This little girl has had her play and her lessons for the day, and carried grandma a note, and now she sews a petticoat.

She wears a thimble, bright and new, Upon her tiny finger, too. She keeps her little tools in place; For though she is so young, you know, Mamma is teaching her to sew.

See how she pulls the needle through, So each stitch may be smooth and true; For though the needle has an eye, It could not see, if it should try, The way to go; but, oh, the eye!

Of this sweet maid are wondrous wise. And can you guess for whom she makes This little petticoat, and takes Such careful pains—the pretty work— With every seam as neat and tight? Why, 'tis for Miss Malvina Grace— Her doll, with silabaster face.

THE GREAT NAPOLEON.

His Remarkable Goodness in Times of great Danger.

Major Gen. Yakovitch, of the Russian army, is one of the few men now living who saw the great Napoleon on a battle field. The old soldier saw the French emperor at Borodino, at that battle, Yakovitch, then a mere boy, served with a battery in the grand redoubt, which was the center of the Russian line. He gives a graphic description of the battle.

When morning broke a sea of gray mist shut out the field from view. The voices of the enemy were heard, the rumbling of their horses, and the rumbling of artillery wheels. Then came the thunder of cannon, making the very earth tremble. Three times all the Russian gunners were killed, and three times new men took their places.

Bullets flew thick as hail, and men dropped dead or wounded every moment. At last a strange sound was heard in the distance, like rain pattering on withered leaves. It grew louder and louder, until it filled the air like the roar of a stormy sea. All at once a great wave of bright swords and helmets and horses' heads came over the crest of the hill. It was the imperial guard. Before the shock of that mighty wave the Russian center crumbled away, shattered wrecks.

When Yakovitch came to his senses and opened his eyes, he heard the tramping of hoofs, which called his attention to a group of grayly dressed officers, and Napoleon's staff came riding over the field. The young Russian peered anxiously into their faces, and thus describes what he saw:

"There were the hard faces of Rapp and Darr and broad-chested Sebastian and Nansouth, with the saber scabbard across his chest, and the low, broad forehead and bulldog jaw of grim old Ney, the bravest of them all. There, too, was Murat, with his white plumes and his braided jacket, his riding whip in his hand, like a crown on his head.

"And then the group parted suddenly, and there was the man himself in the midst of them, with his face hard and immovable as marble amid all that blood and agony, and a far-away look in those cold gray eyes of his, as if he saw Moscow smoldering in the sky, but could see nothing between.

"A glorious victory!" cried Murat, waving his hand. "What a stir there'll be among the good folks in Paris when the bulletin arrives!"

"We've lost half our army in doing it, though," growled Ney. "Hadn't we better fall back a little and wait there for reinforcements?"

"Then Napoleon turned his head slowly, just as the statue might do, and looked him in the face.

"Then advancing a retreat, Michael? That is something new indeed. No—no falling back now. I must date my bulletin from Moscow. As for the army, you can't make an omelette without breaking a few eggs."

Yakovitch says when he heard that he knew that fortune had forsaken Napoleon, for no man save one doomed to destruction could have spoken so lightly of the slaughter of thousands of brave men. In three months from that day the French emperor was flying for his life across the border, with the Cossacks at his heels like hungry wolves.

In the Same Language.

Many great men have written illegibly, and it was suspected that this was the reason that Judge Briefly cultivated a hopelessly bad handwriting.

A hint that ought to have a good effect, the judge by a client who called and found that the lawyer had left a note for him.

The client sat down and studied over the note for awhile. He could make nothing out of the hasty scrawl. Then he wrote beneath it four or five lines he wrote beneath it four or five lines that looked as if they might have been meant for writing, followed by this sentence in a plain hand:

"This is in reply to yours of the 15th."

Returning the Compliment.

It is related that at the opening of a boys' school in North London, after the holidays, the rector said: "Now, boys, I wish you all a happy New Year, and hope you will be better behaved this year than you were last." Whereupon quite a chorus of voices replied: "The same to you, sir."

What's that?

"What's that?" asked a long-haired Texan in a Bowery restaurant, pointing to a diminutive breakfast waiter who had just placed before him.

"It is the breakfast, sir, that you ordered awhile ago," replied the waiter.

"So that's breakfast, is it? I have seen a heap of beef in my day, but I'll be dog-goned if ever I saw as little as that at one time in my life before. You don't tell me they killed a whole beef just to get that steak."—Texas Siftings.

His Ash Tray.

Lynn—That's a unique ash tray of yours, old man. I don't know that I ever saw one like it. Where did you get it?

Velox—Well, there's a little history attached to that. You remember an apple tart I told you my wife tried her hand on soon after we were married?

Lynn—Yes.

Velox—Well, that's the lower crust. My wife has often tried to smash it but she can't.—Drake's Magazine.

Father and Son.

Little Bobby—I can't find my hat and coat.

Father (rushing about)—I can't find mine either. I don't see what your mother does with things. She's gone out, and there's nothing for us to do but hunt till we find 'em, or else stay in.

Little Bobby (after long thought)—Let's look on the hall-rack.—Good News.

Outdone by an Infant.

Prospective Lodger—A tenth floor room at no fire escape? Why, madame, suppose there were a fire, I certainly couldn't jump out of that window!

Landlady (in disgust)—You should be ashamed to say so, I'm sure. Why, the family that occupied this room before had a child only two years old that jumped out.—Puck.

Proving His Innocence.

Mamma—What in the world are you making such a noise down there for? Roderick—To let you know how good I am.

Mamma—Why do you think you are good when making so great a noise? Roderick—Because you always say I'm in mischief when I'm quiet.—Harper's Young People.

Out of an Engagement.

Tramp—Please, mum, would ye mind helpin' a poor professional gentleman wot can't git engagements this time o' year?

Farmer's Wife—Huhl! Professional gentlemen, are you?

Tramp—Yes, mum. I'm a professional scarecrow, mum.—N. Y. Weekly.

She Had Seen It Often.

"In the bright lexicon of youth there's no such word as fail," observed Featherly, who had for the second time been refused by Miss M. Adilsons Quare.

"Lexicons are not just in my line," remarked that young woman, "but you'll find the word very easily in that dictionary on the table."—Judge.

He Had Facilities.

A—Were you at the performance of the Suida opera company last night?

B—Yes, I was there.

"Did you ever see such a lot of wooden sticks?"

"Oh, yes, I used to be a clerk in a lumber yard."—Texas Siftings.

A Short Sermon.

"I hear that Photosightski, the pianist, has completely failed in his latest concert."

"Yes, a barber cut his hair while he was asleep in the chair."—Chicago News Record.

The Whereof of It.

"I thought you said you admired blondes more than brunettes, Jaycot?"

FASHION DECREE.

OTHERS OF PEARL fans are once more heralded after being carefully laid away for many seasons.

Medium tan remains the favorite color for gloves. While other shades are sold, this is the standard, and there is more demand for it than for all other colors combined.

While narrow-toed shoes are seen in the best shops, they are not by any means meeting with the favor that those who wear a specialty of them would like to believe.

A FEATURE of some of the first drawing room gowns was that they were not made in pairs; one, for instance, being white and the other pink, which can not be called a copiable vogue.

The young woman of the day scarcely considers herself up to the times if she does not possess a number of waists entirely unlike any of the materials in the skirt with which she wears them.

WOMAN'S NOTIONS.

At a recent military wedding in Washington the bride wore to church a half-dozen yellow garters, which upon the return of the party to the house were distributed among the bridesmaids.

Onchun tea is a Parisian drink offered at informal five o'clock teas. It is brewed from the leaves and stems of the plant, and is said to possess a very delicate flavor. As it must come high, it may be well not to encourage its use at a "cash tea," say, of five hundred persons.

SEVERAL observant ladies have discovered that vegetarians have clear complexions, and have either renounced the use of meat entirely or partake of it sparingly. Lady Paget, wife of the British ambassador at the Austrian court, is one of the recent converts to vegetarianism.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; and cases often are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Nervous Danger.

Threatens every man, woman or child living in a region of country where fever and ague is prevalent, since the germs of malarial disease are inhaled from the air and are swallowed from the water of such a region. Medicinal safeguard is absolutely necessary to nullify this danger. As a means of fortifying the system against the malarial poison, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is incomparably the best and the most popular.

If You Want The Best

ALTHOUGH you may have had good luck with but few failures in making cake and biscuit in the old-fashioned way with soda and sour milk, or soda and cream of tartar, you will have better luck and (following directions) no failures with the Royal Baking Powder.

The truth of this must be evident when you remember that in the leading hotels and restaurants, and in the homes of our city cousins, where the latest and best methods are invariably employed, and where the most beautiful and dainty food is always set out for the guests, the Royal Baking Powder is exclusively used for all quickly risen food.

Royal Baking Powder never disappoints; never makes sour, soggy or husky food; never spoils good materials; never leaves lumps of alkali in the biscuit or cake; while all these things do happen with the best of cooks who cling to the old-fashioned methods, or who use other Baking Powders.

If you want the best food, Royal Baking Powder is indispensable.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION

We offer made medicine for Coughs, Bronchitis, and other diseases of the Throat and Lungs. Like other so called Patent Medicines, it is well advertised, and having merit it has attained a wide sale under the name of PISO'S Cure for Consumption.

It is now a "Nostrum," though at first it was compounded after a prescription by a regular physician, with no idea that it would ever go on the market as a proprietary medicine. But after compounding that prescription over a thousand times in one year, we named it "Piso's Cure for Consumption," and began advertising it in a small way. A medicine known all over the world is the result.
