DR. BERRY'S

—Then Dr. Berry: Take two gallons of strong broth, two pounds of curries, two pounds of raisins of sun, half an ounce of nutmeg, cinnamon, salt and a pound of sugar. Take equal parts of each, and mix the juice of four oranges and three lemons, a pound of prunes, and thicken it with grated bread, and use it when called for.—Good Housekeeping.

—Nectarium Fictile: Take the seeds which fall from, but not old, pick off the stems or not as you choose, put in a glass jar or bottle and turn scalding hot vinegar, to which has been added a tablespoonful of sugar for each pint, over them. Cork and set away. They are an excellent substitute for capers with boiled mutton.—N. Y. Observer.

—A pretty tea cloth may be made of a very large dinner napkin or a piece of table linen of suitable size. Select a pretty pattern and outline the design with wash silk. Use gold, deep rose or dark blue for the border. It is of fine linen with a inch-wide border, hem-stitched, then a row of drawn work, then a wide border of cross-stitching worked in wash silk.

—Velvet or Corn-Starch Pudding: Four cups of boiling milk, four beaten eggs, one-half cup of sugar, two tablespoons corn-starch dissolved, beat well together, flavor, let boil for a minute, pour into baking dish and cover with the beaten whites sweetened. Brown and set on ice to be served with whipped cream. More corn-starch and fewer eggs may be used, and it is not necessary to put it in the oven if in a hurry.

—Fish Chowder: Fry slices of onion with bacon and add a quart of water, after putting in alternate layers of two chopped potatoes and two or three pieces of beef well seasoned with salt, pepper and celery seed. Then add tomatoes and a pint of milk, well sweetened, stirring well to prevent curdling. Afterwards add six or more crushed soda-crackers and let come to a boil. Red pepper is always used in quantities to suit the taste.—Detroit Free Press.

—Tomato Catsup: Four quarts of ripe tomatoes, sliced; cook until soft, then pass them through the colander or sieve, and add: Half of a pound of brown sugar; one quart good vinegar; six large onions (peeled and sliced); one ounce black pepper; one tablespoonful of allspice; one tablespoonful of cloves; one teaspoonful cayenne pepper. Boil the pulp, vinegar and sugar together half an hour; skim, add the spices, and boil nearly half an hour. Seal, and keep in a cool, dark place.—Ohio Farmer.

The royal recipe for the "browning" of game is as follows: Beat five four ounces of sugar and fry it with one ounce of butter; when it begins to be frothy hold it higher over the fire, and have ready one pint of red wine, to be poured into the pan and well stirred. Pour in half an ounce of Jamaica pepper, six cloves, four shallots, peeled, two or three blades of mace, three spoonfuls of mushroom sauce, a little salt and the rind of one lemon. Boil slowly for ten minutes and take off the scum.—N. Y. Advertiser.

—Cauliflower Sweetbreads: Take four large sweetbreads and two cauliflowers. Split open the sweetbreads, remove the gristle, soak while in lukewarm water, then put them into a steaming boiler in lukewarm water ten minutes, and lay them in a pan of cold water to harden. Wash, drain and quarter the cauliflowers. Put them into a wide stewpan, with the sweetbreads on top; season with a little cayenne pepper, salt and a little oil, and add boiling water to cover them. Put on the lid of the pan, and stew gently for one hour. Take two tablespoonfuls of butter, roll in flour, and add to stew, with a teaspoon of milk. Let it boil up once, and serve hot in a deep dish.—Household.

Flirting Prevents Marriage. It is through flirtation, which has advanced to something like a fine art, that many a young man and woman lose their chance in life. Flirtation destroys confidence between the persons who indulge in it; it prevents the natural growth of mutual esteem; it is not a thing of good faith. It is an error to suppose that love and flirtation are identical; they are, in truth, antithetical. Lovemaking is tender and ennobling, while flirtation is cruel, foolish and demeaning. The one is to prelude the wedded happiness; the other is inimical to it. Young men and women who exercise this reason while on the lookout for suitable life partners; yet many of them give encouragement to flirts, silly flirts, who are taken up or thrown off, with results that are often grievous, indeed.—People's Journal.

Economy in Dress. A sensible woman, talking about economy in dress, says that the wear of clothes depends largely on the art of giving them. Directly a stitch gives away, mend it at once, if possible. See that all walking dresses are made short enough to escape the ground at the back; nothing looks worse than a frayed-out skirt or petticoat. Renew the braid whenever it becomes worn; the coat is trifling, but makes a skirt neat even when well-worn. Neatness is the first requisite for good dressing. Even if you are obliged to wear shabby gowns, they are respected as long as they are in perfect repair, and their shabbiness is much mitigated if the wearer adds clean collar and cuffs.—N. Y. World.

—Mrs. Zelin Nuttall has at last solved the enigma of the Mexican calendar which Von Humboldt and many other great scientists have worked at in vain. Mrs. Nuttall's conclusions have been accepted as final by archeologists and astronomers, and an elaborate work will soon be published by her. Mrs. Nuttall first made her discovery known by reading a brief resume of her work before the Anthropological congress at Chicago. Years of work and the most studious of a mind trained in mathematics and astronomy, and stored with history and archeology, were needed to unravel this mystery of the calendar.

—According to the official statement of the treasury department the present volume of paper money is $1,113,091,196, ranging from one-dollar notes to certificates of ten-thousand-dollar denominations, as follows: One-dollar notes, $39,866,353; two-dollar, $31,190,255; five-dollar, $253,387,609; ten-dollar, $319,034,466; twenty-dollar, $339,587,450; fifty-dollar, $45,097,163; one-hundred-dollar, $45,097,163; five-hundred-dollar, $30,143,000; one-thousand-dollar, $45,441,500; five-thousand-dollar, $14,375,000; ten-thousand-dollar, $34,640,000. Total, $1,113,091,196.

DR. BERRY'S

—Harvard Langens has another story, new or old, of the traditional unimagined servant. Butler—There's a man below to see you, sir. Mayberry—What did you tell him? Butler—I told him you told me if it was a lady, to say you were in; and if it was a man, to say you were out. Mayberry—What did he say then? Butler—He said to tell you that he was a lady.

In the Dental Chair. Gus De Smith—Your charge for pulling that tooth is fifty cents? Dr. Molayanker—Yes, that's the regular price. "Here is a dollar bill." "I can't make the change. What do you say to pulling another tooth for the change?" "No, I thank you." "Well, suppose I pull two teeth for the fifty. You can't kick about that."—Texas Siftings.

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES ILLUSTRATED.

—Giovanni. The police inspector, sternly, "Does that infernal hand organ of yours play 'After the Ball'?" "Yes, rare," answered the tickled child of sunny Italy. "Then bring it along here, quick!" Within three minutes Giovanni was grinding out that tune with all his might in front of a saloon three blocks away and the riotous mob that had begun to loot the establishment was fleeing in all directions.—Chicago Tribune.

Eternal Fame. Mrs. Rondo—Why don't you write something real good instead of writing so much? Many a man has made himself famous forever by a single poem. Mr. Rondo—Who, for instance? Mrs. Rondo—Why, the man who wrote: "Not a drum was heard; not a funeral note." Mr. Rondo—And what was his name? Mrs. Rondo—Oh, dear me. I've forgotten.—Life.

A Sympathetic Nature. Gus De Smith—Snobbery is one of the most soft-hearted men in New York. Hostetter McGinnis—What makes you think so? Gus De Smith—When he is on a crowded car he holds a newspaper before his face so that he will not have to look at the sufferings of the poor tired women holding onto the straps.—Texas Siftings.

OUT OF SIGHT. "Come along in, Arminty, and let's set down awhile. This place looks like it has been here for a purpose for engaged folks."—World's Fair Puck.

Naval Kitquettie. An English admiral who was once visiting a French flagship laid down his quid on a convenient bulkhead before entering the officers' headquarters. When he came out again he was astonished to find the quid in the place where he had set it down. "Pooch!" said he, in the hearing of some of the sailors, "you Frenchmen will never be true sea-dogs. No English blue-jacket would ever have let an admiral's quid alone."

Whereupon one of the French sailors stepped up, touched his cap and said: "Beg pardon, admiral; I was chewing your quid while you were in there, but I put it back, you know, when I heard you coming out!"

A Comforting Reply. His Fiancée—I do dread to meet your family. I'm afraid they will think I'm not dignified enough. He—Oh no, the girls will take to you directly. She—Which one shall I like best? He—My youngest sister, Flossie, I think. She's awfully silly little thing, and I'm sure you'll get on capitally together.—Truth.

An Inconsiderate Patient. Physician (who has ordered his patient to take some sleeping powders)—Well, sir, do you sleep any better now? Patient—Good Lord, doctor! I can sleep well enough, but just as I am about to close my eyes the nurse wakes me up and gives me a sleeping powder.—Fleeting Baletter.

A Wrog Start. Toddlers—Papa, which are the best, ladies or mens? Papa—Ladies, my dear. Toddlers—Then don't you fink you an' mamma ought to be patienter wif us boys, 'cause we got a wrog start—don't you see?—Harper's Young People.

Traveled Inco. First American—Have a good time about it. Second American—Fine. I traveled inco. Went where I pleased and escaped the vulgar curiosity of the gaping crowd. "Eh? How did you travel?" "Inco, I mean. I didn't let 'em know I was a rich American. Just pretended I wasn't anybody but an ordinary English lord."—N. Y. Weekly.

Bilkins in Pain. Mr. Bilkins—Ouch! Wool! Whoop! I can't stand this toothache any longer. Harry and I went to Dr. Pallem's at once. Mrs. Bilkins—Well? Mr. Bilkins—If—if he isn't in, tell him to come and pull this tooth.—N. Y. Weekly.

The Real Nature of the Trouble. "Love is merely a misconception as to the extent of the population." "How's that?" "A man in love recognizes the existence of only one woman."—Chicago Record.

—"The most expensive bathing suit on the beach this summer," she said, with the air of one who knew what she was talking about, "is the 'Duchess' suit." "Yes, really," she replied. "It was made of the most expensive material, regardless of cost. Why, the cloth for it alone cost $15 a yard." "Well, she didn't have to get very much, she says three yards," she asserted. "I was with her when she bought it." "Three yards?" he exclaimed. "Lord, how it must have shrunk before I saw her!"

—"What makes Mr. Snapper so fond of the children next door?" Mrs. Snapper—"Because they cry most of the time." "That's a strange reason," Mrs. Snapper said. "It isn't that it draws the voice of the young lady who sings in the flat above."

Fortify Weak Nerves. This can easily be done. First, use the best nourishing and tonic in existence, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Next, give up opiates and mineral sedatives, which ruin the stomach, and soon cause its nerves to become dangerously large doses. Dyspepsia is the parent of insomnia and nerve weakness. The Bitters remedies indigestion and the two symptoms named. It also cures malarial, liver and kidney complaints.

TEACHER—"Yes, likely signifies a pleasant possibility, and liable an unpleasant one. Now give examples of both." "Smart scholar" "There is likely to be good skating tomorrow, and we are liable to miss it by having to go to school."—Yankee Blade.

TITLES OF GOLDEN TIMES.

The rababalah mentioned in the book of Kings was the title of the Assyrian commander in chief. Assyria only has preserved the title of grand duke, there being seven grand dukes in the German territory. The town clerk mentioned in Acts as addressing the mob at Ephesus held an office equivalent to mayor.

The name Seleucids was applied as a generic title to a long race of Macedonian kings who reigned in Syria. The title of margrave was limited to the rulers of the marches of Brandenburg, Wexsen, Baden and Moravia.

The Holy Roman empire had but three genuine landgraves, those of Thuringia, Lower and Higher Alsace. The kings of Yeman and Mascot style themselves Ionanms and claim an ancestry back to the time of Mohammed.

The rababaris mentioned in the second book of Kings was an Assyrian military title, equivalent to brigadier general.

There are three khans—khiva, khokand and kokand—who date the origin of their families back to the Turkish invasion of Europe.

MARRIAGE RULES. Let her meet him with a kiss—not a frown. Let each realize the fact that they are one.

Let the husband frequent his home, not the club. Let him assist her in beautifying the home.

Let her not narrate Mrs. Next Door's gossip. Let her not worry him with petty troubles.

Let him speak to his wife—not yell "away" at her. Let her make home more pleasant than the club.

Let her sympathize with him in business cares. Let him be as courteous after marriage as before.

Let his latchkey gather unto itself rust from disuse. Let her dress as tastefully for him as for strangers.

Let her confide in his wife—their interests are equal. Let her not fret because Mrs. Neighbor has a rich dress.

Let her home mean love and rest—not strife and noise.
