

POETRY.

The following are touching and beautiful lines. They send a thrill deep into the heart. Mother! watch the little feet...

Mother! watch the little hand Picking berries by the way. Making houses in the sand...

Mother! watch the little tongue Prating eloquent and wild; What is said and what is sung...

Mother! watch that little heart Beating soft and warm for you; Wholesome lessons now impart...

NATURE'S POETS—By G. Huckvale. Ever, with a pen unstinting, On the rock and tree and sod...

Yonder sky that bends in glory O'er the deep and silent sea. Writes therein its own fair story...

Every solemn cloud is writing Tales of shadows on the hills; Every summer breeze indicting...

Mountains hold within their keeping Legends of earth's primal day; Gather in a clasp unceasing...

Antique medals of creation, Seals that may not rust with age; Grand old sermons of mutation...

All around our rock-paved dwelling, Bending from its dome above, Sweetest oracles are telling...

Voiceless, yet melodious, preachers Whisp'ring that we too may write; Earth awaits the poet-teachers...

In the future's hidden pages There are leaves for us to fill; In the volumes of the ages...

Not a light and passing story Is our history sublime; We may live a tale of glory...

Loneliness. In my room, so lonely, I am sad to-night, Thinking old-times over...

Thinking old-times over, Fraught with sunbeams bright, Through my open window...

Old familiar faces Gaze into mine own, Eyes, through tear-drops glistening...

School-day friends are round me, Friends of by-gone years, Those I loved in childhood...

Thinking old-times over, Friends are dead and buried, Those I used to love...

For the church-yard grassy, Neath the ground they lie, And my throbbing bosom...

Thinking old-times over, Friends are dead and buried, Those I used to love...

Thinking old-times over, Friends are dead and buried, Those I used to love...

Thinking old-times over, Friends are dead and buried, Those I used to love...

Thinking old-times over, Friends are dead and buried, Those I used to love...

Thinking old-times over, Friends are dead and buried, Those I used to love...

Thinking old-times over, Friends are dead and buried, Those I used to love...

Thinking old-times over, Friends are dead and buried, Those I used to love...

Thinking old-times over, Friends are dead and buried, Those I used to love...

VARIETY.

'Such a Cross Critter.'—Did our readers ever know of any good in being cross? The following incident gives a case where being cross seems to have been a benefit...

A man travelling not long since in Illinois, called at a house near the roadside to solicit a drink of water...

'Well, my boy, how long have you lived here?' 'I don't know, sir; but mother says ever since I was born.'

'Have you any brothers or sisters?' 'Yes, a few.' 'How many?'

'Ten or 'leven, I reckon.' 'Pretty healthy here, isn't it?' 'Yes, a few on us goin' to have the shakes this afternoon.'

'Why, all on us except Sister Nance, and she's sich a cross critter the ager won't take on her; and if it did she is so contrary she wouldn't shake nohow you could fix it.'

Spiritual Joke—At a recent trial of a liquor case, which occurred not a thousand miles from Worcester county, the witness on the stand was under examination as to what he had seen at the defendant's domicile...

'Did you ever see any spirits?' asked the presiding justice. 'Why, yes—I don't know but I have,' was the reply of the witness.

'Do you know what kind of spirits?' 'Yes.' 'How do you know?'

'I kinder smelt it.' 'Well, now,' said the judge, straightening himself up for the convicting answer, which he supposed would be given—'will you please tell me what kind of spirits it was?'

'Spirits of turpentine!' The explosion of mirth that foollowed this reply, compelled the Judge to order silence. He dismissed the case.

A young man advertises in a London paper his desire for a wife—'pretty, and entirely ignorant of the fact!' Does he want a blind woman?

At last we have caught the real cause of the cattle disease, as contained in the letter of a Boston Med Fac., as follows: 'Infiltration into and thickening of the interlobular tissue and exudation into the bronchial vessels and air cells.'

The 'Professor' says in his last paper that 'I love you' is all the secret that many, nay, most women have to tell. When that is said, they are like China crackers on the morning of the fifth of July.

A gentleman's comforter—pretty wife with an amiable disposition. It is said 'the hare is one of the most timid animals, yet it always dies game! Why shouldn't it, when it is made game of?'

A sentimental chap intends to petition Congress for a grant to improve the channels of affection, so that henceforth the course of true love may run smooth.

An old nigger was endeavoring to explain his unfortunate condition. 'You see,' remarked Smbo. 'It was in this way, as far as I member, Fast my fadder died and den my mudder died and, somehow, I doesn't seem to have no parents at all, nor no home, nor nuffin.'

The following is taken from the report of the proceedings of the Connecticut Legislature: 'Bill to tax geese and Bachelors taken up, Mr. Harrison was opposed to the provision taxing bachelors. There was a tax already laid upon geese, and any man who had lived twenty-five years without being married, could be taxed under that section.'

The bill was postponed. A schoolmaster who had an inveterate habit of talking to himself, was asked what motive he could have in doing so. He replied that he had two good and substantial reasons: 'In the first place, he liked to talk to a sensible man; in the next place, he liked to hear a sensible man talk.'

'Somy, dear, you have a very dirty face.' 'Can't help it, ma'am, dad's a Black Republican.'

A gentleman, in a Western steambot asked the man that came to collect the passage money if there was any danger of being blown up, as the steam made such horrid noise. 'Not the least,' said the sharp collector, 'unless you refuse to pay your fare!'

A young lady, playing at cards, was down the ace of hearts. 'That's my heart,' Upon which the gentleman, with whom she was playing, turned to her, remarking, 'You see it is now my turn for I have no other.'

The wasp attacks the ripest fruit first, so will slander attempt to wound the most honest fame.

How many a man, by throwing himself to the ground in despair, crushes and destroys forever a thousand flowers of hope that were ready to spring up and gladden all his pathway.
