Harper's Bazaar.

ILLUSTRATED.

NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

The Bazaar is edited with a combination of tact and talent that we seldom find in any journal; and the journal itself is the organ of the world of fashion.—Boston Traveller.

The Bazaar commends itself to every member of the household—to the children by droll and pretty pictures, to the young ladies by its fashion plates in endless variety, to the provident matron by its patterns for the children's clothes, to paternal families by its tasteful designs for embroidered slippers and luxurious dressing gowns. But the reading matter of the Bazaar is uniformly of great excellence. The paper has acquired a great popularity for the festive enjoyment it affords.—N. Y. Evening Post.

In its way there is nothing like it. Fresh and trustworthy as a fashion guide, its stories and essays, its poetry and squibs, are all invigorating to the mind.—Chicago Evening Post.

THE WORLD FOR 1877.

The New York World for 1877, Daily, Semi-Weekly and Weekly, will be found to be the cheapest and best newspaper published in the United States. It will be printed in an improved form with new type upon the best paper, and no expense or labor will be spared to maintain in it every department at the highest possible standard, and to commend it in all respects to the confidence and approval of the best classes in the community without regard to political opinions or religious differences.

It will lay before its readers the news of the day of all kinds and from all quarters, by mail and by telegraph, carefully condensed and lucidly arranged, special attention being given to all Commercial, Legal, Financial, Social and Political transactions in the City of New York and the United States.

Full reports, reciting and illustrating all Congressional and Legislative proceedings at Washington and Albany; all meetings of importance, religious, Literary, Educational, Scientific and Political; all Social Events, gay and grave, and Personal Information of interest to the public. Correspondence, expressly prepared for this journal by a permanent staff of accomplished resident writers at all centres of interest throughout the world.

Literary News and Reviews, by which our readers will be kept advised of everything worthy of attention in the current literature of Europe and America.

Criticisms of all notable works and notices of all notable events in connection with Music, the Drama, Painting, Sculpture, and all other branches of Art.

Editorial articles upon every subject of present interest or importance.

For the principles by which The World will be governed in its discussion and treatment of the public questions, it will suffice to say that

The World, while conservative in politics, desires the conservation of only what is good and wise in our public institutions and no limitation upon the right of private judgment and the aspirations of Reform, save those which are imposed by prudence, decorum, and a rational respect for vested rights and for the honest opinions of all classes and sects of men. While it has labored for the principles and hails the triumph of the Democratic party as affording us a practical promise of Reform in our public administrations, city, state and national, it will not be blindly devoted to the advancement of any party or any clique. It will freely canvass the public conduct, while it will treat with respect the private rights of Public men, and it will examine fearlessly into the workings of our national, state and municipal governments.

It will inculcate a steadfast reliance upon the original principles of our political system as the only sound basis of all needed improvement therein; an unflinching devotion to the Constitution and the Union, a scrupulous fidelity to the spirit as well as the letter of our laws, and a sleepless vigilance in maintaining all the great safeguards of Civil and Religious Liberty. It will seek to mitigate and not to aggravate the evils inseparable from Party Government in a Free Country; to promote good and not ill-feeling among our fellow-citizens of all creeds and colors, all sections and all sects; and to advance, both by its precepts and by its example, the reign of reason and of law over prejudice and of passion in all our public action and in the discussion of all public affairs.

It will do justice always, to the best of its ability to all men and to all classes of men; it will recognize no enemies but the enemies of good morals, public order and the law; it will endeavor, in a word, to make its columns a terror to evil-doers and a praise to them that do well.

Nor will it lose sight meanwhile of the great and legitimate demand of the reading public for entertainment. The WORLD will keep its readers informed of all that is amusing as well as of all that is momentous in the movements of society and will spare neither trouble nor expense to provide them with a varied, animated and accurate picture of the times in which we live.
