

FARM AND FIRESIDE.

To prevent meat from scorching during roasting, place a basin of water in the oven; the steam generated prevents scorching and makes the meat cook better.—The Household.

A little saleratus rubbed on, with the finger or a bit of linen, will remove stains from cups and other articles of tableware. It will also remove spots from marbled oil cloths and many stains from tinware.—Chicago Journal.

The premature growth of colts by high feeding and severe training, has the tendency to degenerate the breed, by entailing the overworked debility on their issue, which may become hereditary, and be transmitted to future generations.

Some farmers think that a cow must eat all the time when confined in the stall. It is a poor economy which puts fresh hay into a manger on top of older hay. A little tossing of the hay left in the manger will dry it and make it seem of renewed niceness to cows or horses.—Denver Tribune.

Aprons which are very useful in the kitchen are made of ticking; get one yard; put a band on as for any apron, then turn it up at the bottom for a quarter of a yard, or even more, on the right side; fasten each end securely, and in this pocket the clothes pin can be carried or used with ease.—N. Y. Post.

To improve potatoes of bad quality, by cooking, is to peel them, and boil them gently until nearly done. Then drain the water from them, and put them again upon the fire, submitting them to a dry heat; then mash them with a two pronged fork instead of a spoon. The fork breaks them into pieces, and allows the water to escape; thus very much improving what are called "waxy potatoes."—House Treasure.

Loaf Cake.—Take three cups of sponge dough (like pancake batter), one cup of sugar, one cup of flour, three eggs beaten separately, one-half teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little warm water; one teaspoonful of raisins, nutmeg and cinnamon to taste. Beat sugar and butter to a cream, make it as you do a cake before you mix with the dough. Put in the raisins the last thing. Let it rise the same as bread and bake an hour.—N. Y. Tribune.

If properly treated the wall-flower may become, without much trouble, a more valuable plant even than it is at present. How often do we see whole rows of unsightly scraggy plants disfiguring the whole garden until they come into bloom, when with a very little care we might have our houses full of their fragrance a month sooner than we do. A good plan is never to grow from seed, but to set apart two or three plants solely for the purpose of propagating from. If the flower tops of these are pinched out they will soon form an abundance of suitable growth for cuttings, which should be dibbled in, in a sandy compost, pretty closely together under a hand-light.

Adulteration of Tea.

Tea is sometimes adulterated with the leaves of other plants, as for instance, aloe, ash, hawthorn, etc., but by a careful microscopic examination these adulterations can be easily found out. Genuine tea leaves, when moistened with hot water and opened, and then examined by the microscope, show a very characteristic venation; when once seen, this character will not be easily forgotten. Tea is adulterated in other ways besides the admixture of foreign leaves. 1. The leaves are often "faced" or artificially colored with Prussian blue and turmeric, or indigo and talc-powder. Black tea is often "faced" with plumbago. 2. The leaves are sometimes mixed with sand and other mineral substances; all of these bodies can be detected by microscopic and chemical analysis in the ordinary way. There is still another method in which this leaf is rendered not genuine; that is the practice of selling the tea more or less exhausted. A pretty fair judgment as to adulteration of a sample of tea can be arrived at by a simple process. The process is based on the extraction of the theine contained in tea, and ascertaining the percentage of theine extracted from a known weight of tea. Tea contains from a half to five per cent. of theine. The way to proceed in this new process of extraction is to weigh out about 180 grammes of the sample of tea, and boil with two litres of distilled water in a glass beaker; allow the infusion to boil for five minutes; then add to the infusion a small quantity of glass (reduced to a fine powder) and magnesia oxide. Keep this mixture in strong ebullition for about twenty or twenty-five minutes, at the same time occasionally stirring with a glass rod. Again, add 250 cc. of water, and boil for fifteen minutes longer. The aqueous extract is now to be evaporated very carefully to complete dryness. The residue left on evaporation is to be treated three or four times with rectified ethylic ether by means of Payen's percolator. Three or four treatments with ether generally suffice to remove all the theine. The last portion of the ethereal washings when evaporated should leave no residue. These ethereal solutions are to be gently heated and then allowed to evaporate in a shallow dish of known weight. The solid remaining is the pure alkaloid theine. The dish and its contents are now weighed; the weight of the dish and the theine, minus the weight of the dish alone, gives of course the weight of the theine. From this the percentage of theine in the original weight of tea can be ascertained by means of simple proportion. If the percentage is less than a half per cent., you may conclude that the sample has been either adulterated with foreign leaves (which can easily be recognized by their botanical structures under the microscope) or the leaves have been exhausted.—Hardwicke's Science Gossip.

Superstition never displayed a stranger whim than that indulged in by an anti-superstitious organization lately formed in this city, called the "Thirteen Club." It is limited to thirteen members, it meets on the thirteenth of the month in room thirteen of a certain hotel, the letters of whose name are thirteen in number, and its last banquet was lighted by thirteen gas jets. We presume their only after-dinner diversion is in solving the famous "13, 14 wuzzle."—Christian Union.

It does not always do to credit people with over-sensitiveness. The other day one of our "rising young planters," says a San Francisco paper, was giving his opinion of the voracity and meanness displayed by our gold-fish aristocracy. "Why," he said, "for instance, I was invited to attend a musicale at the house of old Fullback, on Nobb Hill. Of course I played a good deal to entertain the company, and when I had finished, I was to shake hands, slipped into my hand a twenty-dollar gold piece." "Why, the old hump!" said one of his auditors indignantly, "what did you do?" "Why you just bet I got even with him!" I threw the money on the floor and left, after exchanging the coin for a counterfeit twenty I happened to have in my pocket just then; don't you see?" "Capital idea that! Served the old vulgarian right!" "Yes, it was a huge idea; but the trouble was that his twenty turned out to be a counterfeit too!"

Persons should not think lightly of that feeling of extreme debility, so common in the spring of the year. It is often the forerunner of a year of ill health. It renders the system generally more susceptible to disease, and is caused by the blood being filled with poisonous humors. The blood, by all means, should be kept healthy, otherwise its power to assimilate nutritious food becomes impaired, and dyspepsia, liver-complaint, headache, nervous debility, and chronic kidney, weak kidneys, want of physical and mental endurance, and general prostration is the result. Since prevention is better than cure, don't wait for the final result of springtime indisposition, when the first symptoms of languor are manifested, but begin using Dr. Gray's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. As a spring medicine, it excels all other remedies, gently but surely expelling the poisonous blood humors with which the system becomes impregnated, by the incidental effects of changeable winter weather. It makes the blood red, rich and pure, causes it to circulate with more vim, enables it to renew the wasted tissues, and carries strength and vitality to every weakened part of the human system, restoring impaired bodily functions, and checking all decay of the urinary, digestive, and pulmonary organs, which, if neglected, too often ends in a premature grave.

ADVERSITY borrows its sharpest sting from your impatience.

MR. ROBERT B. BARTON, of Dayton, Ohio, writes: "I wish every one to know that Dr. Gray's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla has cured me of severe dyspepsia and urinary troubles. It has made me very strong."

AVOIDING the vulgar: Miss Araminta Gushington speaks of the "solemn season of loathing." She never could bring herself to say "It is so painfully vulgar, you know."—Boston Transcript.

New style of Western joke: Suppose there was a man named Kuler, and he had a dog. When they were together they could not be kept apart, and it was well and good to remain purp-and-icular.—New York Graphic.

"Now Well and Strong." DR. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I wish to state that my daughter, aged 18, was pronounced incurable and was fast falling as the doctors thought, with consumption. I obtained a half dozen bottles of your "Golden Medical Discovery" for her and she commenced improving at once, and is now well and strong. Very truly yours, REV. ISAAC N. AUGUSTIN. "PRESUMPTION begins in ignorance and ends in ruin." On the other hand, the production of Kidney-Wort began with wise caution and scientific research, and its use ends in restoring shattered constitutions and endowing men and women with health and happiness. "My tormented back," is the exclamation of more than one poor back-aching man and woman. Do you know why it aches? It is because your kidneys are over-tasked and need strengthening, and your system needs to be cleansed of bad humors. You need Kidney-Wort.

A little boy and girl, aged respectively four and five years, walked into Justice Henderson's court-room and informed that functionary that they wished to get married. So much fun was made at their expense that the little fellow became angry, and drawing himself up to his full height, about two feet, remarked that a man had a right to get married, and "he guessed he was a little man."—Gold City (Nev.) The "cheekiest" woman in America, says the Syracuse Journal, hails from the State of Kansas. She writes a letter to the people of Chicago, representing that she is in dire distress, and requests that each and every resident of that city shall send her "only a dime." AN UNUSUAL FUREUR.

A Recent Excitement Investigated by the Herald and the Results Made Public.

A few weeks ago we copied into our columns from the Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle "A Remarkable Statement," made by J. B. Henion, M. D., a gentleman who is well known in this city. In that article Dr. Henion recounted a wonderful experience which befell him, and a few days thereafter we published from the same paper a second article, giving an account of the "Excitement in Rochester," caused by Dr. Henion's statement. In the first article Dr. Henion stated that for a number of years, up to last June, he had been afflicted with what seemed at first a most mysterious trouble. He felt unaccountably tired, frequent intervals, he had dull and indefinite pains in various parts of his body and head, and was very hungry one day and entirely without appetite the next. However, as a physician he thought, and so did his fellow physicians, that he was suffering from an uncontrollable disease. But he grew worse, and was finally obliged to give up a large and lucrative practice. Still he was not conscious of his danger, nor that a monstrous disease was becoming fixed upon him, although all his organs had become gradually more and more diseased. The described continued, accompanied by others of an aggravated nature, and he noticed a peculiar color and odor about the fluids he was passing; that they were abundant one day and scanty the next, and were colored with brown or filled with thick, tenacious matter. But even then he did not realize his real and alarming condition. At last, however, he was brought face to face with the fact that he was a victim of a most terrible disease, and he made untiring efforts for recovery. He traveled extensively and consulted the best physicians, but they could give him only temporary relief, and that principally in the form of morphia. And so he grew steadily and constantly worse, until his life became a torture. His pulse was uncontrolled, he was wholly by injections, and for six days and nights he had the hiccoughs constantly, which are the sure indication of coming death. When hope and life were nearly exhausted his pastor, the Rev. Dr. Foote, rector of St. Paul's Church, strongly advised him to try a means which the reverend gentleman had seen used with remarkable results. He objected at first, but finally consented, and was conscious of an improved condition the first week. His pulse gradually became regular, his stomach resumed digestion; his head became clear, his headaches disappeared; he had no more chills and fever, or acidity of the stomach; he gained twenty-six pounds in three months, and is a well man today, being entirely cured of a most terrible disease.

FACTS ABOUT UMBRELLAS.

Antiquarians say that the umbrella was invented shortly after the flood, and has been the best improved upon of all appliances for human comfort, the shape being now as it was in those early days. The world of the world, as you know, is much like a pigeon as to the question of possession—the last one who gets it owns it. The following facts about umbrellas—especially the last one—will interest every reader a twofold purpose sooner or later: To place your umbrella in a rack indicates that it is about to change owners. An umbrella is not a man's property, it is a man's servant, and it is his duty to take care of it. When the man has the umbrella and the woman the drippings, it indicates marriage. To carry it under your arm signifies that an eye is to be lost by the man who follows you. To put a cotton umbrella in the side of a nice silk one signifies that exchange is no robbery. To carry a silk umbrella in a wicker one signifies that you are a fool. To carry an umbrella just high enough to tear out men's eyes and knock off men's hats, signifies that you are a man of high position. To go without an umbrella in a rain-storm shows I am sure of getting rheumatism, and will have to use St. Jacobs Oil to get well. To keep a fine umbrella for your own use, making himself a better, depriving my umbrella of its usefulness, and leaving it in the house, in case of rheumatism or accident, would signify that you are a real philosopher.

The following communication to the editor of the Salem (Mass.) Register shows how an artist treated his visitor: "I would have accepted your kind invitation to visit you in your new quarters with pleasure before this had not my old enemy, Mr. Rheumatism, pounced on me so suddenly. He arrived last Friday, and, without stopping to send up his card, rushed in and grasped me by the hand with such a grip that in a few hours my hand and wrist were so badly swollen and painful that I felt as though one of Mr. Hat's coal teams had run over me. Mr. Rheumatism has been a constant visitor of mine for several years; he always swells and puts on a great many airs, making himself a better, depriving my umbrella of its usefulness, and leaving it in the house, in case of rheumatism or accident, would signify that you are a real philosopher.

last, a statement made by J. B. Henion, M. D., narrating how he had been cured of Bright's disease of the kidneys, almost in its last stages, by the use of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I was referred to in that statement as having recommended and urged Dr. Henion to try the remedy, which he did, and was cured.

Now the republishing of his statement in many of the leading journals of the day has been the cause of an incessant flow of letters to me making many inquiries, but chiefly whether the statement is true, or a mere advertising dodge, etc. I beg, therefore, to anticipate any further inquiries and save time and labor, and some postage, by saying that the statement of Dr. Henion is true, so far as it concerns myself, and I believe it to be true in all other respects. He is a paragon of a man, and I visited him in his sickness. I urged him to take the medicine and would do the same again to any one who was troubled with a disease of the kidneys and liver.
