How the Electors Vote.

Editors PRAXYON—There is the most general inquiry as to when the Presidential electors meet to cast their vote, where, how it is certified, how sent to the President of the United States Senate, etc.

Yours very truly, JOHN H. STONE, Nov. 14, 1884. Elector 6th District.

Section 131, Revised Statutes of the United States, provides that the electors chosen in each State shall meet and give their votes upon the first Wednesday in December, at such place in the State as the Legislature shall direct.

The votes transmitted as above are opened by the President of the Senate in the presence of both houses of Congress on the second Wednesday of February, and the result declared.

Should the electors fail to meet at the proper place in their various States at the appointed time, the first Wednesday in December, the vote would be illegal, and could be thrown out by Congress.

The Louisiana law (Revised Statutes, sec. 2829,) provides that the electors shall meet at the seat of Government (Baton Rouge) at 4 p. m. on the first Wednesday of December.
