FARMER SHOULD PROVIDE DIPPING TANK FOR SHEEP

Advantages of This Treatment Are Great and Not Expensive or Difficult to Build—A Good Plan.

(By EDWIN S. GOOD.)

Scabby sheep should be dipped at the first opportunity, for if kept until shearing time most of the wool may be lost and the vitality of the animal greatly reduced. All sheep badly affected with the disease should, before being dipped, have the thick scabs softened by pouring some of the dip on them and rubbing them with a smooth stick, care being taken, however, not to draw blood, for upon coagulation it is likely to protect the mite from the dip. They should then be allowed to stand for at least half an hour before being put into the bath. Each sheep should be immersed in the dip for two minutes by the watch, the head being ducked at least once just before the animal emerges from the vat. Within 10 or 14 days the dipping should be repeated in order to kill all mites hatched since the first dipping, as the eggs are more resistant to the dips than are the mites. Sheep may be dipped in the winter in many localities, but warm, dry days must be selected for the purpose and the dipping discontinued in the middle of the afternoon. If the sheep, after being dipped, are allowed to stand for a few hours on the sunny side of a one of the galvanized tanks and haul it to their respective farms as it is wanted. A dipping vat for sheep should be narrow enough to prevent the sheep turning around in it, and deep enough to swim large sheep. The length of the vat should depend upon the number of sheep which can be dipped in a day. There is considerable variation as to the width of vats found on different farms, and as a usual thing they are wider than necessary. Then, too, the narrower the vat the less the dip required to fill it. A vat twenty inches wide at the top and eight inches wide at the bottom is a fair average as regards width, although some very practical sheep men construct their vats as narrow as sixteen inches at the top and six inches at the bottom when the vat is four feet deep.

The dipping vat used at the Kentucky experiment station is located in the driveway of the hoghouse and can be used for the dipping of sheep and young pigs. It is built entirely of concrete, the walls of which are six inches in width, with the exception of the partition between the vat and dry chamber, which has a thickness of nine inches. The end of the vat into which the hogs and sheep are plunged is perpendicular, while the opposite end is provided with an incline which is quite deeply creased so that the animal can walk out. The floor around the end of the vat from which the sheep emerge is so graded that all drippings return to the vat. There are sewer connections with this outfit, the valve of which is located in the dry chamber. The dry chamber allows the attendant to carefully control the dripping, break up thick scabs with a brush, and, if necessary keep the sheep up the incline, and also go to the aid of a sheep quickly if it shows signs of strangling. This vat is quite inexpensive.

A chute like this can be built with little trouble. The incline to the vat barn they will not chill as quickly as if turned inside a building at once. Dipping vats can be made of wood, metal or concrete. A farmer owning as many as 25 sheep should have a good dipping vat. For a small number than this the barrel used to scald the pigs will do if the farmer feels that he cannot afford to purchase or build a vat. A good galvanized vat ten feet long and four feet deep, made purposely for dipping, can be purchased for about $12. There are smaller sizes than this that can be purchased for less money. Three or four farmers can club together and purchase and be smooth and well covered, but not so fat as for market. This can be very easily done by feeding a mixed grain ration, with ten per cent. of tankage or ten per cent. of oil meal. Use corn, barley and oats ground together, mixed thickly with water and fed at once while sweet. It is much better to mix three pounds of milk to one pound of grain. If one has no milk the next best feed is ten per cent. of tankage. If one has the corn and does not want to buy the mill feeds, he can use 80 per cent. of corn and 20 per cent. of tankage and have a well-balanced ration. The summer treatment of young pigs should be about the same as for the market pigs. For late summer and fall I have made it a practice to have a field of Evergreen sweet corn to feed in the roasting ear. I begin by adding one stalk and ear for each pig in addition to his other feed; in a few days, two stalks and two ears, and gradually increase this amount to a full feed, while diminishing the other ration. In winter the brood sows should have something to take the place of the green pasture. I know of nothing that will equal alfalfa, bright and green, run through a cutting machine. Two-thirds chaffed alfalfa and one-third shelled corn, mixed together and ground in a steel bur grinder, makes an almost ideal ration, which can be fed dry or mixed thickly with scalding water; a little salt adds relish. It is a cheap ration and has just bulk enough to take the place of grass. If one cannot have alfalfa, bright, well-cured clover is good. Sorghum cane is a good fall feed until heavy freezing. Mangles or sugar beets are of course very good.

PROPER CARE GIVEN SWINE

Feed and Attention Must Be Varied in Accordance with What Is Desired to Be Done with Animals.

(By A. J. LOVEJOY.)

The pig that is to be sold for meat has but a few months to live and there should be no let-up in feeding from birth.

It will begin to eat shelled corn at three or four weeks of age, and a little sweet skim-milk or a thick mush of the same material as that given the mother is a great help to hasten growth.

Well-bred or even good-grade pigs should weigh sixty to eighty pounds when weaned at three months of age, and should then go on alfalfa or other green pasture and have corn twice a day.

Late in the summer there should be ready for them a pasture of rape, field peas or soy beans, besides the corn.

If their teeth become sore, change to shelled corn, soaked 24 hours in water slightly salted.

It will pay to have a cool, shady place where it is rather dark, if possible, for the pigs to lie in during the heat of the day, with free access to a mixture of salt, copperas, lime and ashes.

The feeder should watch closely to see that every pig is eating with a relish.

If pigs cough it is probably due to a dusty shed. Worms will also cause a cough, and if the hair becomes starved and dead in appearance it is well to give a worm powder.

In raising hogs to be used as breeders the object is very different. They are not to go to market at six to ten months of age, but to grow on to maturity.

They should be pushed for rapid growth, but must be fed for a growth of frame and bone; not fattened on corn, but expanded by a feed rich in protein.

At six to eight or ten months of age they should show more length of body and more scale than the market hogs

STATUE CRITICIZED

Sculptured Likeness of Gen. Wallace Under Fire.

Absence of Hat on Head or in Hand Causes Difference of Opinion Concerning Merit of the Work.

Washington.—Like dozens of other statues and monuments in the capital city, the statue of Gen. Lew Wallace of Indiana, recently unveiled in Statuary hall, has come in for criticism. The equestrian monument of one of the civil war generals has been a matter of much unfavorable comment because in looking at it from one angle, the horse looks as if his head had been cut off by a cannonball, if not a sword.

Now the critics say the Wallace statue is at fault and opinion is divided as to the entire appropriateness of the design. Wallace is shown in the uniform of a soldier, but he wears no military hat and carries none in his hand, an omission which military men and some others criticize sharply.

The other opinion is that the figure is full of animation and strength and that it compares favorably with the best memorials that Statuary hall holds "in its artistic beauty and graphic presentation of the animated characteristics" of Gen. Wallace.

There are no two opinions as to the beauty of the memorial, for adverse criticism has to do only with detail. The omission of the military hat is explained by those who know the artist's views by the statement that Wallace is not on the field or at the head of his troops, but may be described as having just emerged from his tent. He is bareheaded and his uniform is hastily and carelessly fastened. He is erect in posture and on the alert, his eye glancing into the distance.

Glenn Brown, the Washington architect who set in place Saint Gaudens' memorial at the exhibition at the Heron Art Institute in Indiana, is familiar with Sculptor O'Conner's work. He says the figure of Wallace is one of the finest works of art among all the sculptures which Washington contains.

O'Conner was two years in executing the work. Gov. Hanly appointed the commission in June, 1907, naming as the members Capt. John P. Megraw of Washington, William Allen Wood and William Henry Fox of Indianapolis.

The ceremony of the unveiling was noteworthy. There was a great gathering of public men and well known persons from all over the country. The memorial was unveiled by Gen. Wallace's grandson, Lew Wallace, Jr., George Dudley, an Episcopal clergyman of Washington and a veteran of the Spanish-American war delivered the invocation.

Weatherwise Birds and Fish.

The seagull makes a splendid living barometer. If a covey of seagulls fly seawards early in the morning, sailors and fishermen know that the day will be fine and the wind fair, but if the birds keep inland—though there be no haze hanging out towards the sea to denote unpleasant weather—interested folk know that the elements will be unfavorable. Of all weatherwise fish the dolphin is the most remarkable. During a fierce gale or a storm at sea the mariner knows that the end of it is near if he can see a dolphin, or a number of that fish, sporting on the high sea waves.

Her Idea of Discipline.

One day recently, just after the opening of the Baltimore schools, the teacher of a primary class had occasion right at the start to enforce discipline.

"Here, young man!" she exclaimed, indicating a pupil whose name she did not yet know, "I saw you laughing in this school!"

"I was only thinking about something, ma'am," said the youngster, sheepishly.

"Well, don't let that happen in school again," said the teacher, sternly.—Sunday Magazine of the Cleveland Leader.

Why "Potter's Field" for Beggars.

It is not because the beggar falls to make money that he finally lands in the potter's field. "Any good, industrious beggar," says Mr. Forbes, "can and does make a great deal more money than the average workingman." But the trend of the beggar is downward, and in the end he is pretty sure to become a hopeless wreck and a derelict.

"The Blood is The Life"

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood.

Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, itches, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by enclosing fifty cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.
