Liquid Gold—Oklahoma Oil Opportunity.

Oil is the greatest money maker and Oklahoma is the greatest field in the United States in the value of her oil productions, totaling over $1,000,000 income weekly. Glenn Pool and other Oklahoma fields made millionaires rapidly when oil was selling at thirty-five cents per barrel. Now the price is more than double. Fortunes are accumulated almost between the rising and setting of the sun in the great mid-Continent field of Oklahoma.

When one considers that the State produces more than $1,000,000 a week, that wells can be drilled in from six to twenty days, and often these wells pay for themselves within a week after drilling, that the owner of a single forty or eighty acres of land frequently has an income of $300.00 to $500.00 a day and that stock bought in a company at $1 or $10 a share is many times worth $100 to $300 a share within a year, one's brain reels at the thought. And yet this is the history of many individuals in the State of Oklahoma that reads like some fairy tale. The gold fields of California in their palmy days are left far in the rear; the great gold awakening in Alaska is forgotten; the diamond fields of Kimberley in South Africa pale into insignificance. Nothing in the history of civilized mankind has aided man in accumulating fortunes so rapidly as the oil and gas interests of the great Mid-Continent field in the State of Oklahoma.

Here even children of the white, Indian and negro races who have had a small piece of land left to them through inheritance have frequently an income of $100 to $300 per day from royalties, while the Oil Company that is developing their land is frequently making 100 per cent a month. Language fails to express the reality and even eye witnesses can hardly believe the marvelous facts of production of oil.

A number of strong companies have been organized and are operating. Among these is the Great Western Petroleum Company of Tulsa, Oklahoma, incorporated under the laws of Oklahoma for $1,000,000 with a strong directorate of business men, three of whom are experienced and practical oil men, which is now offering 100,000 shares of their stock at the par value of $1.00, stock to be sold in blocks of five shares and upward.

Those who desire to know something more of the great oil interests are invited to address B. J. Waugh, the Stock Sales Manager of the Great Western Petroleum Company, Tulsa, Oklahoma, and make inquiries or get the published literature of this company giving its holdings and other facts and figures as to the real condition of the oil interests in the State of Oklahoma.

A Traveling Man Cured

P. B. Counterman, a traveling man of Joplin, Mo., writes: "Twelve years ago I was a great sufferer from stomach trouble. I tried nearly every medicine I could hear of, among them I used fifteen bottles of one popular preparation, but never found anything that did me any permanent good until I took Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which have effected a permanent cure. It has now been five years since I took these tablets, and I have had no more stomach trouble during that time. I have recommended Chamberlain's Tablets to a great many sufferers with stomach trouble, and traveling salesmen, and have met many of the boys on the road that are afflicted with disorders of the stomach as they have to put up with all kinds of half cooked grub at the different country hotels, which is one cause of this dreadful disease."

SCRATCHING POST FOR HOGS

Successful Plan Adopted by Maryland Swine-Breeder—Crude Petroleum is Fatal to All Vermin.

If a hog knew how to tell his wants he would demand a scratching post. Such posts, in the opinion of many hog growers, are not only a source of great comfort to hogs—the picture of a hog or pig scratching himself and softly grunting his content is worth a couple of hours of any man's time in fixing up a big post—but the post may moreover be made useful in ridding the animals of lice or scaly skin.

A successful Maryland hog grower adopts this plan: Firmly plant a hickory or oak post four inches in diameter in the hog run. Coil a Manila rope around the post as high as a hog stands and staple it on securely. Then thoroughly saturate the rope with crude petroleum, and it becomes an ideal scratching post for hogs and pigs. They rub up against it continually, and oil is fatal to vermin. Kerosene can be used, but it evaporates too rapidly.

GENERAL FARM NOTES

Concrete floors in the barn help a great deal in saving manure.

The time to wean pigs is when they reach the age of eight or ten weeks.

The half fed cow is not capable of doing her ancestry justice.

Air-slaked lime, freely dusted everywhere, is cheap and will destroy lice, gnats and the roach.

Set raspberries eight feet apart and trellis on two wires the bottom being 30 inches from the ground.

In the south, cowpeas are most used for cover crops, while in the north winter vetch takes its place.

If dusty hay is fed sprinkle with water, and it will save the horse much annoyance, but better not feed it at all.

Even if your flock are not thorough-bred, it pays and pays big to have a registered thoroughbred ram at its head.

Wrapping young trees with corn-stalks, building paper, etc., as a protection against rabbits is better than to apply a wash.

There may be cases where commercial fertilizer is useful in the orchard, but stable manure generally reaches the spot.

HOW TO HAVE GOOD ORCHARD

Trees Should Be Set in Uniform Rows, Far Enough Apart to Permit Cultivation and Fertilization.

Apple trees should be set 30 to 40 feet apart in uniform rows to facilitate cultivation, and keep well cultivated and fertilized, says a writer in the Progressive Farmer. Peach, plum and pear trees 20 to 30 feet apart. A shovelful of wood ashes at the root of each tree will keep insects out of the roots, and are fine fertilizers. Peach trees can be set between the apple trees in the rows and taken out when the apple trees are 8 to 12 years old and need the space, as the peach is mainly short lived.

I keep all my plow land in winter crops, crimson clover, rye, wheat and vetch, oats and barley, etc., to conserve the moisture and humus and prevent washing the orchard.

It is useless to plant apple trees near (one-eighth mile of) cedar trees. The cedar throws off a spore that falls on apple trees and produces rust.

Plant orchards. Nothing on a farm will pay better than fruit, if planted and cared for right. Nothing is more helpful to our families; nothing more so for our pockets. It is not a game of chance; if played right, it surely wins, but is a failure if neglected.

No one now expects to raise good crops of corn, cane or cotton, except on land well prepared, well fertilized and well cultivated. They usually stick a fruit tree in the ground and leave it to live or die as chance may direct; cultivate only when they want to raise another crop on the land. No crop pays better for culture and care, and fruit crops never pay in the long run without intelligent care.

PROPER GROWTH OF ALFALFA

Select Productive, Well-Drained Soil, Cultivate Intelligently and Give Annual Top Dress.

Alfalfa can be grown successfully where the owner of the farm selects productive, naturally well-drained soil, heavily limed, liberally fertilized with phosphorus and potassium, intelligently cultivates and prepares for an ideal seed bed, carefully inoculates with bacteria-infested soil, seeds at the proper time with good seed, and, last of all, annually top-dresses with a mineral mixture of commercial fertilizer containing phosphorus and potassium. Thus, with due discretion and judgment regarding the cutting, curing, storing and feeding of the crop, the farmer and his live stock will not only be benefited by an increase in dollars and cents, but also himself and his family will take pleasure in admiring throughout the entire season its general beauty, and at the same time he will be adding fertility to the soil.

Sick Headache.

Mrs. A. L. Luckie, East Rochester, N. Y., was a victim of sick headache dependency, caused by a badly weakened and debilitated condition of her stomach, when she began taking Chamberlain's tablets. She says, "I found them pleasant to take, also mild and effective. In a few weeks' time I was restored to my former good health." For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

A Better Summer School.

One of the defects of our State system of summer schools has been that teachers have not always been benefited financially by attending. Too often, their attendance has only enabled them to renew their certificates without obtaining more pay. This summer, at the six and ten weeks summer schools which will be held at the State Normal at Natchitoches, two improvements will be found: First, the course of every student will be carefully advised by faculty members with a view of strengthening his scholarship where most needed; secondly, normal credit will be allowed for all work done in courses comprised in the Normal curriculum, and those credits will count towards obtaining a normal diploma. Those in attendance will therefore derive a double benefit. The summer school pamphlets of the Normal School explain the importance of this plan.

Coughed for Three Years.
