By FREDERICK REDDALE

Copyright. 1910, by W. G. Chapmar kind of evidence."

did an apparently straight business, money hand over fist. I made it my business to find out when brother -and likewise to keep out of his way.

Well, I shadowed him to Antwerp, which I found was his headquarters on the other side, and there was very little he did that I wasn't wise to.

For instance, I found out that he was very thick with a gang of I. D.

B.'s-that is Illicit Diamond Buyers from the African mines-for in spite of all their vigilance out there a certain percentage of fine stones get contraband diamonds could be bought considerably under the market rate, his associates in the trade were mistaken as to the smuggling, and that this was the advantage which enabled

Binns & Backus to undersell the market. But when I found that all hands were more or less implicated in the surreptitious buying of these illicit

"Well, sir, I shadowed Backus for three or four voyages without getting on to his game. He was cunning as they make 'em. For instance, at the end of every trip he'd regularly dedeclare a small parcel of stones and pay the customs duty; and yet within a few weeks Sternmuler and the trade would discover that they were being undersold, and it was always the choicest gems that were offered

There's one good thing about Bullivants-they never hurry their men; once you're put in charge of a case they let you alone until you cry enough! So I simply reported progress, sat tight, and remembers the old adage about the pitcher going once too often to the well. For in my own mind I was certain sure that sooner or later I'd catch our friend Backus.

We were coming west on the Cedric. For several voyages I'd been shadowing the gentleman, under different disguises, but had never spoken to him. This trip I thought I'd get a little closer. So, in my rightful char-

I really was, you know, once upon a time-I allowed him to scrape a smoke-room acquaintance. After that found him a mighty pleasant fellowyarned and bet on the day's run just as any other chance acquaintances

On the evening of the fifth day out we happened to exchange cigars, and he handed me a fine large Perfecto.

in this way.

And so I did.

ALL forms of mod- | stop, I tell you. Decide on your own ern get-rich - quick schemes, diamond smuggling is the easiest and the most profitable. Captures are few. and while the risks are great, the rewards are correspondingly great." Thus spake Mark and were also reported to be making Manley, in reminiscent mood, the young-looking gray-haired special | Backus planned to make his next trip agent of Bullivants abroad, and I went on the same steam-Limited, crime detectors and solvers of me. My game was to watch him mysteries, as he and I sat in the cozy from the time he crossed the gangcorner of an up-town New York cafe plank in New York till he came back not a thousand miles from the Great White Way.

"So I've heard," I commented just to keep the conversational pot boiling; "not that I personally know much about it, but I've read a lot, and I'm willing to take your word for the Manley nodded, sipped his Rhine wine and seltzer, lighted one of his interminable Panatelas, and settled Emself comfortably. Scenting a story away every year. Of course, these I merely looked as intelligent as I possibly could.

"Yes," he went on, "I once tracked and at first I thought Sternmuler and one of 'em for two solid years." "And-" I prompted.

"Oh, yes, I got him at last. But only by accident after all." True genius is ever modest, you see.

"I'd like to hear about it," I murmured, hitching my chair closer to the little round table between us, "that | diamonds I changed my tune.

is, of course, if it wouldn't be tres-

"Not at all." he countered. "I'll use fictitious names, anyway-so you can print all you've a mind to, and no one'll be hurt. This was the how of it, or rather the way it began."

And then he told me the following yarn straight from Bullivants' ar-

One day about ten years ago there blew into this office one of the leading diamond importers in the Maiden

Lane district. He was hot all over "This thing has got to stop, else we and every other honest house might just as well go out of business." The chief smooths him down and inquires

"Just this," says Mr. Sternmuler.

"There's a firm down yonder-Binns

& Backus-who're underselling every other house in the trade in the finest grade of unset stones. There's only one explanation—they don't pay the duty. See? Binns is the resident partner; Backus-his name's really

Backhaus, and he's a Belgian-does the traveling and the smuggling. But they're so devilish clever about it that they've never been caught, although the customs people have been after em for the last four or five years.

Don't ask me how he does it, for I don't know. But we want you to find out. I've got the trade behind me, and we'll stand for any expense in reason. All we ask you to do is to

"Pretty large contract," says the chief, his eyes twinkling, "but I guess we can handle it, given sufficient time

Sternmuler. "The thing's got to stop their little game."

and boiling mad. Says he:

what's the trouble.

chives:

passing on professional secrets."

me specially." Sure enough, it was a mighty fine smoke, and I said so, jokingly rethen, finding our pockets empty, Backus invited me to his stateroom for a fresh supply. Needless to say this was the very chance I had been looking

He switched on the electrics-his was a deck-cabin while mine was on the deck below-and produced an opened box originally containing 50 of those ideal Perfectos from which perhaps half a dozen had been used.

We were both standing when a peculiar thing happened: the steamer gave a sudden lurch and a roll at the instant when Backus was extending way-that's your business-and let the open box. I staggered, threw up us know when you've got the right my arm to steady myself, and purely by accident knocked the box out of Well, Bullivants assigned me to the his hand. The cigars went flying all job. Facts I had none, save that over the place-some in the berth, Binns & Backus were rated A1 plus some under the berth, and on the in the commercial agencies; that they floor, others here and there like things possessed. I rapped out an apology for my clumsiness, but nevertheless & caught something very like an oath from my host. In an instant he was on all fours, ducking and bending hither and er-but my wife wouldn't have known yon, picking up his precious cigars. He seemed more scrupulous about recovering every blessed one of them, even to arranging them neatly in the box and counting them over and over to see that none were missing. When apparently satisfied that all were salvaged he shut the lid and tossed the box in his berth, saying that he'd give me one out of a fresh lot-those that had been on the floor were probably broken and not fit for a gentleman to smoke, and so on. Accordingly he produced an unopened box from his Gladstone bag, and we had our smoke.

At the moment and for some time thereafter I gave no further thought to the incident. But when I had turned in that night the extreme solicitude with which Backus had rescued and counted those spilled cigars struck me as peculiar, to say the least. Suddenly the true explanation flashed into my mind, and I broke out into a cold sweat. The more I pondered over the matter the more I believed had solved the mystery of the smuggled diamonds. But it would need careful work to make sure, and in order to verify my suspicions I needed full access to Backus' stateroom. Above all things he must not suspect me, or tell my work for months past would go for nothing. After lying awake half the night I mapped out a plan that I thought would work.

We were a very full ship, that trip, and most of the single male passengers were "doubled up," two in a room. But it happened that myselffor obvious reasons-and Backus had double-berthed rooms to ourselves: mine being on the lower deck. My plan for its success demanded the cooperation of the ship's purser. So to him I went directly after breakfast next morning.

Disclosing my real identity, and explaining as much of my errand and my suspicions as were necessary, I besought his help. Briefly my scheme was to get myself billeted on Backus for the remaining 48 hours of the decrepit horse dragging his scarred not hatch well or that produce puny Englishman, but I finally prevailed. "Er-er-how do you propose to manage it?" he queried. "What excuse can you offer for leaving your own quarters?" "Why, you see," I explained, "I very carelessly left my porthole open last night, and this morning a green sea poured in and soaked everythingmattress, bedding, and carpet. I was literally afloat, and it'll take at least a couple of days to dry things thoroughly. In such an emergency you might properly insist on Mr. Backus letting me have his upper berth."

"I see, I see," said the purser, with a ponderous wink. "Leave it to me. He's only paid for half a stateroom anyway. I'll see him after breakfast."

Whether Backus liked the change or not, it was his cue when we met on deck to seem perfectly delighted and to welcome me. When I went below to freshen up for luncheon I found that a steward had transferred all my traps, and I was regularly installed in the enemy's camp.

Every hour brought us nearer to New York and it behooved me to work quickly. All that I wanted was a look at the box of cigars that had been so unexpectedly spilled all over the cabin, yet it needed all my finesse to secure that end. Of course Backus could not always be below at the same time as myself, and really he seemed totally unsuspicious of my true errand and character.

I had noticed that on every voyage he always "traveled light"-carrying no trunk, but merely a roomy bag. Hence I knew that the cigars I wanted were probably in that receptacle, seeing that the fresh box remained in full sight on the table. And probably the Gladstone bag would be locked.

So it proved when my chance came. bolted the stateroom door against acter as a southern tobacco grower- the possible return of brother Backus, although when I left the smokeroom I had seen him deep in a game of bridge, at which he was winning we were together quite a lot. Upon hand over fist. But I was by this time every topic but his real business I so sure of the correctness of my theory that I had no scruples whatever an importer he said he was; we over fitting a skeleton key to the lock promenaded the decks, smoked, and and thus gaining access to the bag. Sure enough, there was a quarteremptied box of Perfectos reposing innocently under a change of clothing, neckties, collars, and what not. Rapidly I snapped on the electrics, for I of the topmost cigars. Each was you'll like it; I have them made for scrutiny revealed none of the tell-tale marks I had expected to fird. But on going to the bottom of the box 1 discovered that each band, on the unmarking that they were better cigars dermost layer bore a minute cross in than I could afford. We walked and red ink-so small, in fact, at to essmoked our cigars to the tips, and cape all ordinary observance, being apparently part of the gaudy design. This was what I was looking for, so I slipped one of the marked cigars into my vest pocket, substituted for it another from the open box on the table so as to make the tally correct should Backus count them, restored the box to the Gladstone bag, which snapped and locked itself, and betook my way to the saloon, where my roommate discovered me calmly eating my lunch when he came in.

Immediately after the meal he went back to his game of bridge, being properly anxious to "press his luck." for which I thanked the Fates, and I was left free to put my theory to the Right aft I went to the turtle-back. There the deck was deserted. Turning my back on the ship I drew out the marked Perfecto. Ruthlessly I broke it in two, and then crumbled the leaf, wrapper and filler, in my palms just as a pipe smoker serves his plug-cut. Result: a goodly handful of flaky brown tobacco. But from the dark depths of the mass sundry hidden gleams shot forth. Carefully winnowing the pulverized fragments in the smart breeze, then blowing and letting them waft away astern, there were gradually disclosed four beautiful diamonds glittering and scintillating in the sunlight, each at least six or eight carats in weight, and worth at least a thousand dollars apiece. I had discovered the secret of Binns & Backus, and why they could undersell the New York diamond market."

"And then?" I queried as Manley sheep. ceased speaking to relight his pana-

"The rest was easy. Shinnecock Light was abeam and we would dock in a few hours. I knew to a dot what Backus would do. According to custom, he'd declare a small parcel of inferior stones, then march coolly down the gang-plank bag in hand. A customs inspector would go through his Gladstone and find nothing dutiable; the partly-smoked box of cigars called for no duty; in fact, Mr. Inspector would probably be jovially handed one of the gaily-banded smokes-of course, one of those with unmarked labels; the purely perfunctory ceremony over and done with, the traveling member of Binns & Backus would call a cab and proceed to office or home according to the time of day or night."

"So you-" I was beginnig again, when Manley again took the words out of my mouth. "So I used the wireless, as you were about to suggest. Result: the box of Perfectos was seized on suspicion, the diamonds were confiscated. Binns & Backus had to pay a heavy fine, and my two years' work resulted in breaking up one of the cleverest smuggling schemes ever devised to beat Uncle Sam's revenue."

Relief of Old Horses.

Every lover of and sympathizer good dry bed of lear with dumb animals will rejoice at the progress that is being made in the movement for the relief of old orses. It is a pitiful sight to see an and and and weary body about as an unnex to or weakling chicks. The purser was a somewhat stolid the ramshackle wagon of some ped dler or rag collector who by no chance will properly care for him and bought him for a song only to work healthy; if delicate, wait a week or so him to death. One day the old animal until they are stronger. falls in the street and is unable to rise. The bullet that becomes his portion soon after is the most merciful thing he has known for months. The division of old horse relief of the Boston Work-Horse Parade association has been active in securing from business concerns their assurance that horses will not be sold after their value becomes $50, which is the amount agreed as that at which a horse had really passed his usefulness. The response to the request that when a horse has reached this period he be pensioned or mercifully killed has been very encouraging.-Boston Traveler.

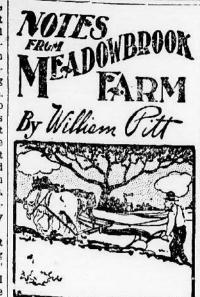

Her Little Mistake. She weighed 224 if she weighed an ounce, and she did weigh an ounce. The whole rink shook and rumbled as she struggled round in her efforts to master the whirling art. Suddenly-a terrific thud-a groan-and there, piled up upon the boarding, lay a heap of overbalanced femininity. A dozen stalwarts hastened to her aid. But her avoirdupois was too much for their heaving. The woman opened her eyes. "You will have to wait but a moment, madam," politely remarked a third. "We have just sent for the crane. I trust you are not hurt?" "N-n-no, I don't think so!" she gasped bravely back. "But, oh, there are some dreadful lumps in your floor!" "Lumps, be hanged, madam!" growled a half-smothered voice from underneath. "I'm not a lump; I'm one of the attendants!"

Clubhouse for Girl Students. The club women of Boston are interesting themselves in a clubhouse for undergraduate girl students. The clubhouse comprises two separate three-story apartments thrown together. On the first floor are the diningrooms and offices, on the second are the rest and study rooms and the remainder of the space is given over to sleeping rooms, of which there are 14. At present there are 20 girls living at the clubhouse and paying from seven to ten dollars a week for room and board. The club is open to any girl student of good standing in the needed a good light, and selected two higher schools of Boston. Afternoon tea is served free and a member may "Try this, Mr. Stanwood; I think banded with a broad label, and close bring a friend for ten cents extra.

> are things now in the mind of the race, because of the teachings of Christ. which were not there in the Old Testament times, and we should bring forward the narratives of the Bible into the theology and morality in which, as Christians, we believe.

He Knew Right Off. Mrs. Hardup (pausing in her writing)-What is that word for people who come after us? Hardup-Bill collectors, my des than chickens.

climates.

or three weeks.

home farm this season.

ligently managed or fed.

work in his care and feed.

Make up your mind to grow at least

If the hens do not lay well it may

A bull tied in the stall will get lazy and useless, besides making extra

A few ears of corn laid in the oven

No matter what kind of floor there is in the poultry house, the main

In the production of eggs, as in

A flimsy fence will not restrain a

Oats will do better on sod land than barley, but neither of them do as Don't sell eggs for hatching until you have tried out eggs from the Select out only good, trustworthy

Misshapen eggs will sometimes

Handle eggs carefully and avoid

If you must feed soft food provide small trough in which to feed it. It before some husky chicks and note

Strongly fertile eggs from good, healthy stock will often hatch well and produce good chicks under ap-

The mixture of poultry manure with such materials as land plaster and kainit or acid phosphate is almost imperative for satisfactory preservation.

The young chicks which are to make our winter layers should be

Other things being equal, the breeds

Hen nests should be cleaned and whitewashed after each hatch before material should be burned. Fight lice

It is all right enough to rear tur-

Undoubtedly one of the most remunerative branches of the poultry busi-production of eggs, combined with the sale of market broilers as a side

Land plowed last fall may be sown to oats without again plowing. If the acre over the plowed ground and feeds just after her pigs are born, a to level the land.

keys with the chicken hen if the fool some than with turkey hens.

choose well-formed eggs with clean, hens that can be relied upon as being good sitters. They should be well on a tough sod as after corn or potatoes.

well feathered.

smooth shells.

Cows approaching calving should be eggs during handling or shipment has placed in roomy box stalls, given a spoiled many a hatch.

bull-and will cause no end of annoyance especially in a busy season.

that of milk, proper feeding is essenand allowed to parch gives a good oc be solely because they are not intel-a part of the poultry food on the weakening of the flock.

of mature pullets not laying.

Keep your fowls hungry.

Pork is too high not to feed right.

Concrete is an excellent material for sile building.

Examine the eggs with the egg-tester before setting them.

Whatever breed is chosen, a purebred ram should be used.

In raising onlons for commercial purposes a large bulb is desirable. In caring for pigeons one should go about quietly and never frighten One of the easiest ways of making casional variety to the feed. money on the farm is by rearing

In planting a young orchard see thing is not to let it get damp. that the trees are properly pruned

Hot mashes on cold days are on the tial to attaining the best results. feeding program of many successful poultry raisers.

This is a good time to figure up accounts for the year and see what the chicken business has done for us.

Sheep farming is a profitable branch to follow where land can be had for about fifteen to twenty-five dollars per

Do not dispose of too many early same pens at home and know they pillets for fattening purposes—they hatch well. are your principal assets for another

A hen is a good thing, but too much of a good thing is a bad thing. Two hundred hens are enough for the good dry bed of leaves or straw and becomes a starter of disease when If the breeders are in poor condition you will get many eggs that do thrown on the ground.

The sow should be given warm millfeed slop, made fresh for each meal, whole oats and a little sound corn twice a day.

The right time to castrate pigs is a week or so before they are weaned, if what they leave of it.

Raw potatoes are greatly relished by chicks and may be fed freely. Cut parently unfavorable conditions. them in good-sized chunks and let the chicks have them to pick at.

It is very well to sow a piece of rye early in the fall for the ewes that have lambs to pasture off in the spring before grass is ready for them.

hatched from the middle of March to The squab of the best breed is ready for market when about four the middle of May, depending on the weeks old. At this age it is in prime breed. condition. It does not gain much afterward. ' belonging to the Mediterranean class Forage or salad crops for poultry of fowls, namely the Leghorns, Minorgreens should preferably be grown cas and Hamburgs, are the greatest with stable manure. This applies to egg producers. clover, cabbage, lettuce, salad turnips, mangels, etc.

Infertile eggs from the incubators starting another and the old nesting tested out on the fifth to seventh days can often be sold to bakers if sold for now and all the time. just what they are. They are good for cooking purposes.

This is the time to give the boy a hen wouldn't wean them so early. few acres to farm with a team, and Then lice are always more troubleseeds, and see what he will make of it. It will make him feel like a man and bind him to the farm.

It will not be long now till the first haying. Get all of the haying machinery and tools ready for the work, so that there will be no delay when line. the hay is ready to harvest.

Many farmers say there is no money in raising ducks and geese, but F. S. Jacoby, assistant in poultry husbandry at the Kansas State Agricultural College, says this is a mistake.

Mr. C. O. Garrett, of Iowa, says: "Lime-sulphur is the best stock-dip I have ever used. It is very much strong milk flow is forced. The new superior to many dips now on the market, being more effective and born pigs get too much and have diar- not 'come up' as come more durable, and it is absolutely not | rhoea, which often kills them.

Breeding birds which begin the work of egg production near the time the eggs are required for incubation will ordinarily give stronger germs now, that the soil has been filled with healthy wor and better chicks than can be ob the nitrogen, which is of the utrost ful restors tained from hens which have been importance in any system of agricullaying for months.

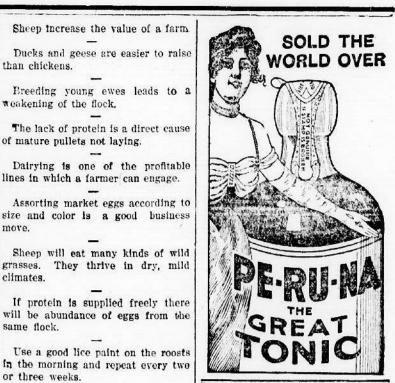

Sign Posts for Aviators. A German aeronaut has devised a system of orientation which will help the German aviator, at least, in finding his way through the air. Each German province is provided with a number, and every community is probe carried by the aviator contains a It's great." list of provinces and towns similarly designated. Thus, if an aviator sees could by a good incubator cheap. the character "40 A 1" painted upon (With eagerness)—"I've got the roof of a house in Rhineau he one, old chap, I'll sell you for knows immediately where he is by of what it cost ma."

referring to his book. At night these signs are to be illuminated. The system is now actually being installed in Germany.

A Good Business. "Ruggles, you ought to go into the vided with a letter. A guide book to business of raising chickens by han

"I believe I would, Ramage,

ILLITERATE MAGISTRATE.

Police Sergeant-John Smith alias Williams.

New Magistrate-Ladies first, always. Let Alice Williams take the stand.

Bird Jekyll and Hyde.

The cathird is our northern mocking bird. When love attunes its voice, it can warble as sweetly as the nightingale. You must catch it in one of its melting moods if you would know the charm of its liquid notes. It is not at all beautiful-no more is the mocking bird - only a gray-brown, perky, restless thing, of lesser size than the robin, with the soul of song

The wonder of the catbird lies, of course, in this, its dual nature. At one time it hops about screeching complaints against the circumambient air; at another there throbs out from its delicate throat the essence of a divine hatch good chicks, but it is better to melody.-Philadelphia Press.

Triumph of Courage.

Courage and the power of the human eye," saved Walter Sargent, a rough handling. A bad shaking up of prosperous rancher, in the Redwood district, San Jose, when he was confronted by a hungry mountain lion the other evening. Sargent was driving a herd of cows to his home in the foothills, when he noticed the big cat stalking him. As it crouched for a spring Sargent turned and fixed the beast with his eye. Man and lion A good way to test a chick food is remained as immovable as statues for to place a small quantity on a dish a few seconds and then the animal turned and trotted away.

Will you promise to support my daughter in the style in which she is accustomed if I consent to your marriage?" demanded old Skinflint, when Dobby made his formal proposal.

"Well, I-I'll promise to be tolerably close with her, Mr. Skinflint," said Dobby, "but you know, I'm a softhearted cuss, and I'm afraid she'll be able to wheedle a few things out of me that you were strong enough to refuse her."-Judge.

Cure for His Dyspepsia. Hogan-Phwat makes ye swally all your dinner in two minutes, Grogan? Are yez atin' on a bet?

Grogan-It's for the good av me dyspepsy, Molke. Sure the docther tould me to rist an hour after atin'. and how else am Oi goin' to git the hour of rist in onless Oi ate loike the divil?"

> COFFEE CONGESTION Causes a Variety of Alls.

A happy old lady in Wisconsin "During the time I was a coffee drinker I was subject to sick headaches, sometimes lasting 2 or 3 days, totally unfitting me for anything. To this affliction was added, some years ago, a trouble with my heart that was very painful, accompanied ness for the average poultryman is the by a smothering sensation and faint ness. "Dyspepsia, also, came to make harder to bear. I took all sorts of ent medicines but none of them b me for any length of time.

"The doctors frequently to sown broadcast sow two bushels to that coffee was not good for without coffee I felt as if harrow them in both ways, then roll breakfast. I finally decide years ago to abandon the fee entirely, and as I had When the sow is given a warm, deal about Postum I co rich slop, or other milk producing that for a breakfast b "I liked the taste of ticularly pleased to bad spells with m and less frequent It is only through the legumes, and altogether, and through certain lower orders of plant tack of sick he life with which farmers are not famil- year. My dig iar and which we will not discuss I am thankful quitting 4 Name gif Creek, "The sties a cream or milk.

ast

pleasing change, Post Toasties 1 or stewed fruit, d cream and you small feast.

Memory Lingers"

OSTUM CEREAL CO., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

Bible Study For Children

"Take all you want of both," says rich, fat, long, and dark, saying:

might.

Should Be Retold for Youthful Minds. George Hodges, dean of the Episcopal theological school at Cambridge, stated reasons why the Bible stories should be retold for children. Dean Hodges said that the thing to written for women and children. Hardo with the Bible, when children were nack has suggested that the epistle to the children of the coonquered by on with the Bible, when children were the Hebrews was written by Priscilla, hurling them against stones. There Boston Evening Transcript.

Educator Gives Reasons Why Stories able. They should recognize it as a friendly book, filled with interesting people whom it was worth while to know. The question arose, he said, perfect theology and its imperfect whether it was wise to retell the stories of the Bible or leave the children to read the stories in the Bible itself. The fact is, the Bible was not wife of Aquila, bust most of the Bible at any rate was written for men, to be interpreted in the light of their experiences, often of rough experiences. The reason for retelling the Bible is that there is need to correct its immorality. It is not wise to permit children to expect to see God walking about under the orchard trees, or to let them believe it is right for the conqueror to dash out the brains of