

PRIDE OF AMSTERDAM JEWS.

Synagogue in That City, Built by Refugees, Is Easily the Finest in the World.

In the midst of the Jewish quarter stands the pride of Amsterdam Jews, the grandest synagogue in the world. It is "great" in everything, in its size, its proportion, its age and its traditions. There is no synagogue like it anywhere, and while it stands there cannot be anything like it.

The great temple in the Rue de la Victoire in Paris may perhaps be larger, the splendid synagogue in the Oranienburgerstrasse in Berlin may be more ornate, but the Portuguese synagogue in Amsterdam has a glory all its own. Its majestic columns, its solid oak, its noble ark and its lovely windows all speak eloquently of the type of Jew that sought the hospitality of Holland when the cruel and shortsighted policy of the Spain of those days drove the pioneers of the community into the hardy little northern country.

The history of the congregation is not, however, one unbroken record of peace and glory. Curiously enough, its early members, free themselves at last from persecution, seemed at times to make up for the persecution they had endured by their own internal intercommunal intolerance.

Their treatment of Uriel Acosta is a most painful chapter in their local history, and their attitude toward Baruch Spinoza was an error for which no compensation can ever be made. To the visitor to the synagogue is still shown the seat which Spinoza is supposed to have occupied, but the tradition is probably apocryphal.—Jewish Chronicle.

WAR RAISED PRICES.

"Is it an optical illusion, a case where your eye deceives you, or do they really, in some of the shops where price tags are a feature, take off the regular tags and put on tags of a little higher price?" Such was the query propounded the other day by a rural adventurer in the city. This is not, however, a question for a debating society. It is a fact or it is not a fact, a condition the existence of which must be proved or disproved by test.

CRYING SHAME.

She (at the theater)—Isn't this an awfully sad play?

He—It sure is. Why, even the seats are in tiers.

THE EXPRESSION OF IT.

"It seems the dentists are angry over this paste tax."

"Yes; they're showing their teeth at it."
