

Lincoln Talk That Didn't Go.

That altruism has no place in end-of-the-century politics was illustrated in the last aldermanic campaign. One night it fell to the lot of William E. O'Neill, the young attorney who was recently honored with the republican nomination for congress in the Third district, to address a meeting of colored citizens in behalf of his friend, William Hale Thompson, who was running for alderman in the Second ward. During the course of his eloquent speech Mr. O'Neill took occasion to remind the brethren of the great debt they owed to the republican party and to its patron saint, the martyred president, who had stricken the shackles from the limbs of their forebears, "Yes," stop right here, Mistah speaker, interrupted a man in the front row. "There's no doubt about the german being a powerful orator, but I want to tell him this: Lincoln talk doesn't do any more for the colored man than it does for the white man."—Chicago Chronicle.

"Land of the Sky"

In Western North Carolina, between the Blue Ridge on the east and the Alleghenies on the west, in the beautiful valley of the French Broad, there is a little town called Asheville, beautiful, picturesque and world-famed as one of the most pleasant resorts in America. It is a land of bright skies and incandescent climate, where the beauties of stream, valley and mountain height have furnished subject and inspiration for the painter's brush. This is the "Land of the Sky," and there is perhaps no more beautiful region on the continent to attract pleasure tourists or health seekers. Convenient schedules and very low rates to Asheville via Southern Railway.

Bathing Without Shoulder Straps.

The rans and file on the Modder river were a short time ago floating in the rapids and sentinels were posted on the banks to look for superstitious swimmers. One of the sentinels caught sight of a swimmer, who persistently ignored his commands, and proceeded to arrest. At last the bather emerged from the river; the furious sentinel advanced upon the dripping figure and claimed a prisoner. "Don't you see I'm an officer?"—London Chronicle.

The Right Spirit.

TO WOMEN WHO DOUBT.

Every Suffering Woman Should Read this Letter and be Convinced that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Does Cure Female Weakness.

"I have been troubled with female weakness in its worst form for about ten years. I had leucorrhoea and was so weak that I could not do my housework. I also had falling of the womb and inflammation of the womb and ovaries and at menstrual periods I suffered terribly. At times my back would ache very hard. I could not lift anything or do any heavy work; was not able to stand on my feet. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for doctors but they did me no good. After a time I concluded to try your medicine and I can truly say it does all that you claim for it to be true. Ten bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and seven packages of Sanative Wash have made a new woman of me. I have had no womb trouble since taking the fifth bottle. I weigh more than I have in years; can do all my own housework, sleep well, have a good appetite and now feel that life is worth living. I owe all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I feel that it has saved my life and would not be without it for anything. I am always glad to recommend your medicine to all my sex, for I know if they follow your directions, they will be cured."—Mrs. ANNE THOMPSON, South Hot Springs, Ark.

RIPENING THE CREAM.

Valuable Hints Regarding Settling, Temperature and Proper Treatment Up to Churning.

Setting.—There are many ways of setting milk for cream, and the separator is now taking the place of them all. But I still prefer pans holding from six to eight quarts filled two-thirds full. Place them on a rack in a good-milk room and give them the close attention necessary to good butter-making. The quality of the butter will excel the separator product, while the quantity will closely approach it.

Cream Room.—For ten or twelve cows, a room eight by ten built in the coolest corner of milkhouse; ceiled with pine and having a plank rack at top of one side for ice, with tank below for water; must be well lighted, yet with blinds to darken it at will; milk rack extending length of each side, with wide shelf or table below window for cream pails, while skimming milk. The room can be warmed in winter by a stove in the larger room.

Temperature.—Must be varied according to condition of milk. When cows are fresh cream can be raised at lower temperature than after milking some time. Milk from different herds requires a different treatment, making it hard to give exact rules; 60 to 62 degrees in warm weather, and in cold weather 62 to 65 degrees, seems to secure the best results. Careful watching, noting results from certain temperature, will soon give the exact degree required.

Treatment Up to Churning.—The cream should be removed from the milk as soon as all has risen. If more than one cream pail or crock is required to hold a churning, equal quantities should be skimmed into each and thoroughly stirred each time. Cream should not stand more than 48 hours before churning. If not ripened enough, use a starter. If room is kept at proper temperature, the cream will be about right. But see that it is warmed or cooled as needed to about 60 degrees before churning. A good thermometer is as necessary in the dairy as a churn. And let me say "Eternal vigilance is the price of success" in the dairy, as in other business.—Mrs. G. E. Brainard, in Ohio Farmer.

GROWING DAIRY COWS.

It is the Foundation of Profitable Dairying and Requires Much Care and Attention.

The basis of profitable dairying is a good herd of cows that will produce largely in proportion to the feed consumed. To get cows of this kind it is almost essential to grow them. It is true that some producers of city milk supplies habitually buy cows to come in fresh, and fatten them off when the period of lactation has advanced so far that they cease to be profitable, and they then buy new cows to take the places of those sold for beef. This method seems to be found profitable by a few men, but, speaking generally, the dairyman must grow his cows if he wants a herd that will pay. Good cows are not in the market to any considerable extent. They need to be bred for and developed from calfhood in order to be large producers. No man has a greater inducement to do this kind of work right than he who professes to keep the calf in the herd when it becomes a cow. Dairyman should habitually breed from their best cows and should use bulls of a kind suited to the end in view, and then they should be developed by care and feeding along such lines as will make them large consumers of food, and especially of coarse forage, and that will keep them from turning the food consumed into fat. There is no danger of the dairyman ever getting too many of this kind of cows. If he does happen to grow more than he can conveniently keep in his own herd, he can easily find a ready market for them in the city milkman or as family cows, if he can show purchasers that they are good producers.—Homestead.

RAISING DAIRY CALVES.

How the Young Things are Fed Separately on a Model Texas Jersey Dairy Farm.

On all stock and dairy farms it is desirable or necessary to raise some of the calves. It is not practicable or economical to feed the youngsters on whole milk, even if it were desirable to do so. So skim milk has to be used.

FEEDING CALVES SEPARATELY. Where a number of calves are fed they are put into a stable, and each calf in a stall and fed separately. This insures each one getting a given quantity and no more or less. The illustration shows how the calves are fed on a Texas Jersey dairy farm in a long shed with stanchions for 15 calves.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Wheelmen Urge Road Tax. The Michigan division of the League of American Wheelmen is preparing a bill for introduction in the legislature providing for a road poll tax. It will provide that every able-bodied man in the state between and inclusive of the ages of 21 and 60 shall pay this tax, and the receipts will be used to build and repair roads in the county in which it is collected, and where the petitioners for such roads will agree to pay their whole road tax in cash instead of work. The plan has received satisfactory approval.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Various Items of Domestic Information Which May Be Found Useful.

If you read home departments in our various newspapers with a column devoted to the interests of women, you will see how very useful and helpful it must be to housekeepers. You will also find that the housewives acknowledge the benefit derived from reading the experiences and recipes and advice given by sister workers. I get kind, appreciative letters thanking me for some little advice proffered or recipe given, and they stimulate me to do more, for of all the persons needing help none has greater claims than the busy, overworked housewife, says the Troy Times.

I write for various home departments, and I consider it just and right to inform myself as to the best methods and ways of doing housework, etc., and one should be conscientious about giving advice, or in making suggestions to one to give up the old way, unless one feels quite sure it is a labor saving method and a better way. I wish to give a few recipes and methods of doing housework which have been tried and found excellent—I have a hobby, they say, but being very much afraid of accidental poisoning I consider the safest is the best in choosing household articles for use. The same in home remedies for medicinal purposes; and in our family we use borax instead of other poisonous articles. Even ammonia will kill a child if taken by mistake, and carbolic acid, chloroform, and borax will do quite as well to disinfect the kitchen sink or water pipes. If you are troubled with roaches or ants or other bugs, etc., in your pantry or closets, wash them in a strong solution of borax and warm water, and then when dry sprinkle powdered borax over them and cover with clean papers. If your kitchen is infested with roaches of common kind they may be successfully banished by this means by using care in cleaning and keeping everything clean. If the precincts of the kitchen and all the closets and pantries be cleared of their contents and cleaned in every nook and corner, thoroughly dried and every shelf sprinkled with borax and lined with clean paper, it will effectively and at once rid you of these pests. A good remedy for roaches also can be had by mixing equal parts of gum camphor and borax. Scatter freely in small quantities. Another wicker recommends brown sugar and powdered borax mixed for roaches.

Black ants are a terrible annoyance, but I scattered borax around the entrance to sideboards—the idea is to make it impossible for them to get to the sideboard unless they have to go through the borax, which is white and clean and perfectly harmless and safe, and is really a healthy purifier in the house. I had the sideboard cleaned and borax sprinkled over the shelves, and also on the carpet around the edge of the room. The ants left immediately.

In Paris hospitals borax is used for external skin affections. For ringworm make a strong solution of borax and hot water and wash the ring-worm three times a day. It will disappear like magic. For sore throat and a troublesome cough use salt and borax mixed. A solution made of it—and let the patient gargle with it freely—will cure at once.

ODDS AND ENDS OF FASHION. New Notions of the Day in Make and Materials for Seasonable Costumes.

Most of the skirts of wash dresses are full, which are allowed to fly at the knees, says a fashion paper. Belts must be either a very narrow band or a wide sash girdle to prove modish. Gray wool muslin built over white taffeta is a late fetching fashion. The special point in the new lingerie is its fit. The fashionable "shot" taffeta is seen in many imported frocks. It is the fashion now when buying a handkerchief bodice to purchase hat and parasol to match. Many of the new gowns are made with two or three sets of undersleeves as attachments to its elbow sleeves. Evening frocks are beautiful with rich embroidery of pearl and birds and flowers in natural colors. Lace boleros bid fair to retain their wide popularity. The return of the pompadour waist with long points and front is hailed with delight.

Veal Chop with Asparagus Sauce. Boil enough tender asparagus to make one cupful when strained; put one tablespoonful each of butter and flour over the fire and stir smooth; add one tablespoonful of minced mint, and half a cupful each of asparagus liquor and milk and stir until it boils smooth; add salt, pepper and the prepared pulp, stir well and serve in boat.—Good Housekeeping.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS and FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.

At a dinner given by a political club recently, a man who is unusually young for one who has attained to such prominence in his profession was for the first time in his life set down for a response to one of the toasts. When at last he was called on by his bareheaded face flushed and his manner very embarrassed. Nevertheless, he stood up and thus delivered himself: "Gentlemen, before I entered this room I had an excellent speech prepared. Only Heaven and myself knew what I was going to say. Now Heaven alone knows." And he sat down.—London Tit-Bits.

A California Medicine. THAT IS GUARANTEED TO PREVENT AND CURE MALARIA and CHILLS and FEVER.

There is manufactured in San Francisco, California, a medicine that is sold under a positive guarantee to cure all forms of malarial poisoning, chills and fever, swamp fever, dumb ague, etc. This remedy is Casca Ferrine. It is not a secret patent medicine, but instead, the formula of the preparation is made known to all. One of the chief ingredients of Casca Ferrine is Casca Sagrada, the bark of a small tree that grows nowhere in the world but in California. Casca Sagrada has no equal as a liver and intestinal tonic among all the drugs known to medicine. All physicians throughout the world regard it as one of the most valuable of all drugs. It is strictly tonic in its action and effect on the liver and bowels, and there is positively no reaction from its use, as is the case with every other medicine that act specifically on the liver, such for instance as calomel, aloes, jalap, podophyllin and similar drugs. It is impossible to cure malaria, chills and fever, etc., unless the liver is active, and the bowels open so that the poison can be expelled from the body through these natural channels. This is one reason why Casca Ferrine is so effective in preventing and curing all forms of malarial poisoning. It acts as a natural tonic to the liver and bowels, tones them up, and in a short time places them in such a healthy condition that they will act naturally without the aid of medicine.

In addition to Casca Sagrada, the only other ingredients of Casca Ferrine are Cinchona, the bark that quinine is made from, and which is unrivaled in medicine as a general system tonic; Malt Extract, the greatest of nutrient and reconstructive tonics; Iron, the food of the blood, the use of which insures a prolific supply of red cells, and pure California Sherry Wine, one of nature's greatest restoratives.

Whenever once used for Malaria and Chills and Fever, Casca Ferrine will ever after be the accepted specific for and safeguard against these ailments, for the reason that it not only cures them, promptly and effectively, but it leaves no after effects.

Casca Ferrine also prevents biliousness, makes digestion perfect, enriches and purifies the blood, gently relaxes the bowels when constipated, and causes their action to become permanently regular. These results, which it can be depended upon with an absolute certainty to effect, render the system proof against malaria. Casca Ferrine not only fortifies the system against malaria, but also prevents and cures all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, which so often result from infected air and impure water. Casca Ferrine is put up in large bottles containing 22 fluid ounces and retails for one dollar per bottle. If you are a druggist, you can carry it in small bottles, and it from the wholesale house, as all wholesale houses carry it. If it will not order it for you we will send you any quantity desired on receipt of price. Casca Ferrine is sold by all druggists and by the Sierra Pacific Pharmaceutical Co., of St. Louis, Mo. Main Office 2722-24 Washington Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

A DEAD LIVER

He thinks he lives, but he's a dead one. No person is really alive whose liver is dead. During the winter most people spend nearly all their time in warm, stuffy houses or offices or workshops. Many don't get as much exercise as they ought, and everybody knows that people gain weight in winter. As a rule it is not sound weight, but means a lot of flabby fat and useless, rotting matter staying in the body when it ought to have been driven out. But the liver was overburdened, deadened—stopped work. There you are, with a dead liver, and spring is the time for resurrection. Wake up the dead! Get all the filth out of your system, and get ready for the summer's trials with clean, clear blood, body, brain free from bile. Force is dangerous and destructive unless used in a gentle persuasive way, and the right plan is to give new strength to the muscular walls of the bowels, and stir up the liver to new life and work with CASCARETS, the great spring cleaner, disinfectant and bowel tonic.
