200 WERE HURT.

BRIDGE LADEN WITH 200 PEOPLE SANK 20 FEET.

NO ONE WAS KILLED OUTRIGHT.

Street Carnival Was Being Held at Eau Claire, Wis.—At Least Six of the Victims Will Die.

Eau Claire, Wis.: A long section of the Madison street bridge approach went down under the weight of 200 people tonight. Six persons were probably fatally injured, and twenty-five or thirty others less seriously hurt. The names of the victims have not been learned.

The accident occurred during an illumination of the street carnival, along the main streets of the city. Hundreds of people had gone to the bridge to watch the spectacle. Suddenly a section of the approach, forty feet in length, sank.

Instantly all was confusion. Calls were sent in for doctors and policemen to help carry away the injured, of whom two score were hurried to physicians' offices and the city hospital.

The illumination was ended at once. The section of the bridge which collapsed had dropped it 200 sightseers twenty feet, into a bank of sand and debris on the river bank. For half an hour the bank was a confused heap of women, children and men, some with their arms or legs fractured or suffering serious or possibly fatal injury.

Territory Cotton Crop.

Ardmore, I. T.: At best the cotton outlook is discouraging over the Chickasaw Nation. In acreage there is a slight increase over last year. Owing to dry weather, after planting, the stand is not good, even where insects have not injured it. Bugs and boll weevils have done serious damage in many localities; in some instances farmers have planted three and even four times. Some now contemplate planting on wheat stubble. The season is about three weeks late, caused by cool, cloudy weather. Rain is now needed.

Premier De Szeil of Austria's lower house resigned. The cabinet may follow suit.

Gusher Report Denied.

Beaumont, Texas: A thorough investigation of the reported Broussard gusher proves that it is unfounded. There is a well being drilled on the Broussard property, ten miles west of this city, and the driller states that at the present time the drill is going through a clay formation with no expectations of oil indications until this stratum is passed. A gusher at the point indicated would be followed by the greatest excitement here.

Chicago: A dispatch from Atlanta to the Tribune says: General John B. Gordon, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, has sent out a notice requesting the police to locate his son, Captain Frank Gordon, and return him to his home. TEAMSTERS SET FREE.

No Case Against Alleged Burners of Captain Ewen's House.

Jackson, Ky.: The arson cases were disposed of today when Crawford and Tharpe, teamsters for Hargis Bros., were set free and no indictments returned by the grand jury. Some expressed the opinion that the murder cases will close the same way tomorrow, when Eft and White will also be released. And what might follow in the question. It is evident that all in Breathitt county are considering the question seriously.

It is stated by those who will talk, even secretly on the matter, that the grand jury was composed of residents of Breathitt county, who are identified with the dominant faction, and all were connected with it and that no indictments for anything were expected from a jury drawn in this county, but that the jurors in the case of Curtis Jett and Thomas White are from another county, and for that reason a verdict of conviction may be possible.

He Warned the People.

Spokane, Wash.: A special to the Spokesman Review from Echo, Ore., quotes N. T. Tucker of Portland, who witnessed the Heppner disaster, as follows:

"It is estimated that the damage done to property alone was $500,000. Some of the brick and stone buildings were not torn away, but there were some of them moved from their foundations."

"Leslie Matlock, a young man, was the hero of the day. When the flood first came he mounted a horse and rode at breakneck speed down the canyon in front of the rushing water to notify the people of Lexington. The people were warned and immediately left for the hillside. When the flood had passed only two houses were standing."

FIVE HUNDRED DEAD

Cloudburst and Flood Swept Away Entire Town of Heppner, Oregon.

Three Hundred Victims' Bodies Found at Ione, Seventeen Miles Distant—A Twenty-Foot Wall of Water Rushed Down The Little Stream—Portland's Aid.

Portland, Oregon: Following a cloudburst, a wall of water, twenty feet high, rushed down the gulch of Willow creek at dusk yesterday and drowned nearly half of the 1250 inhabitants of Heppner, Ore. The furious water carried away the residence part of Heppner. So great was the force of the water that boulders weighing a ton were rolled along the gulch, crushing everything in their path. Wire bridges and railroads were swept away. The most reliable reports tonight say that the loss of life at Heppner will be at least 500, though the number of dead probably is larger.

A report from Ione, seventeen miles from Heppner, says that 300 bodies carried there by the flood have been recovered. The flood came with such suddenness that the inhabitants were unable to seek places of safety, and were carried down to death by the awful rush of waters. Some of the business part of Heppner, which is on high ground, escaped.

Early in the afternoon a thunderstorm occurred, covering a wide region of country, and later a heavy rainstorm set in, many of the small streams overflowing their banks in a short time. Bridges were swept away like straws, and the darkness of the night soon made the situation appalling.

As soon as possible after the flood subsided the work of relief was begun by the surviving residents. Dozens of bodies were found lodged along the bends of the stream, and in several places they were piled two or three deep. Up to 2 o'clock this afternoon 200 bodies had been recovered within the town.

Many of the buildings not carried away were moved from their foundations or toppled over. Hundreds of horses, cattle and sheep that had gone into the creek bottoms for water perished.

As soon as possible news was sent by courier to the nearby towns, asking for relief for the stricken people. The Oregon Railway and Navigation Company started a relief train with doctors and supplies from the Dalles shortly after noon with a party of 100, including three doctors, four nurses and supplies of all kinds.

At 1:30 this afternoon a relief train with doctors and supplies started for the scene from Portland. The citizens of Portland started a relief fund as soon as the news of the disaster spread over the city, and within a few hours $5000 was raised.

Supplies will be rushed to Heppner as soon as they can be collected. Fifteen buildings in Lexington, nine miles below Heppner, on Willow creek, were washed away, but with no loss of life, the inhabitants having time to save themselves from the surging torrent.

At Ione damage was done to buildings, though no loss of life is reported.

Heppner is a town of about 1250 inhabitants, the county seat of Morrow county, at the terminus branch of the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company. Farming and stock raising are its chief industries. Willow creek, which is given as the cause, is an ordinary small stream, and early reports indicate that the flood was caused by either one or two cloudbursts.

Charges Against Lax Are Serious.

Greenville, Texas: The charge against the man Lax, whose arrest at Lone Oak was mentioned Friday morning, is more serious than first reported. It seems that his stepdaughter, Maud Ross, had given birth to a child, which fact was discovered by a neighbor. She reported what she had seen and an uncle of the girl, W. F. Hillen, made complaint against Lax. The girl's mother is dead and she is the housekeeper for her stepfather, who will now have to answer to the triple charges of murder, criminal assault and incest. It is stated that the girl is only 14 years of age. Lax was brought here in chains and lodged in jail.

This was a strange christening of a new building, which is a magnificent one in appearance.

Screwmen Cannot Agree.

New Orleans: It is reported today that the Galveston Screwmen will not co-operate with the New Orleans Screwmen in adopting a uniform scale of wages for loading cotton. Should this be the case there will be nothing but failure for the proposed plan of uniform rates, as the great fight is between Galveston and New Orleans in the cotton traffic, and other ports are now but mere accessories.

Louisiana Rice Crop.

New Orleans: The heavy rains in the rice belt during the past ten days insure a big rice yield this season. Reports from both the irrigation section and the river region below show that the crop is in first-class condition. The fear of another flood is causing considerable apprehension along Bayou Lafourche.

The rice crop on the Mississippi coast is suffering from drought. No rain of consequence has fallen in that section in several weeks.

The negro was bound to a tree and his body filled with bullets. The white man killed leaves a wife and two children.

JOKE ON SWEET CHARITY.

And the Colored Porter, He Thoroughly Enjoyed It.

The other day a colored porter from one of the hotels was sent to buy some tin cups. After making the purchase he started back to the hotel and met one of the hostelry's best patrons—a commercial traveler—and the latter asked the negro to carry his sample case to a Washington street store.

A few minutes later the negro, sample case, and tin cups, were in front of the store. The traveling man was in the store. While waiting for him, the negro sat down on the sample case, and in less than a fifty fell asleep. One of the tin cups was in his hand, and it fell forward, as does the cup held by a blind man.

Perhaps you won't believe it, but that negro collected 43 cents while he slumbered. Passersby thought him a blind mendicant. And maybe that porter didn't enjoy the joke! He did—'dend he did.—Indianapolis News.

What One Man Said.

At the City Federation meeting in the Waldorf there were many amusing incidents. Husbands of the broad-minded women tarried in the ante-room waiting for their spouses to go home. One of these patient escorts was Leroy Sunderland Smith. He gazed through the glass doors once, sighed and returned to his chair. Men would come, inquire for their wives, and then retreat to the cafe below. One man heard a few minutes of a certain paper. He said: "If these women's clubs did not struggle with the problem of how to raise other women's children they would have no excuse for being." He flung out the last words savagely and then disappeared to the place where highballs are collected.—New York Press.
