

Missionary Column.

BY THE SOCIETY.

"No city, except the Heavenly, is safe without a temple."

"World-wide Methodism was never more aggressive than in the year of our Lord, 1906. It brings to completion every week more than forty homes of worship."

"Our missionaries at home and abroad are multiplying. Their converts are many. The congregations called into being by their message must be housed. Nothing short of this will conserve their success."

Bishop Hoss reports our work in Brazil in good condition, better than he found it a year ago. More missionaries are needed, as four are coming home for a year's furlough. The financial condition of Brazil is very embarrassing to our work, but at this time no debt rests upon any of the stations.

Bishop Chandler writes in the New Orleans Advocate:

"The annual meeting of our foreign Mission has just closed at Seoul. The year has been one of success, the membership of the churches advancing from 759 to 1227, besides 1694 probationers, who will not be received into full connection until instruction and examination. The people are turning to Christ as I have never seen in any field. Indeed it may be said that the Korean churches have been in a state of revival for the past three years, the revival movement growing in power each year, and still advancing with increased momentum. The harvest is simply out of all proportions to the strength of our force. No church in Korea has a mission force adequate to the need of the hour, and least of all has our church. It is reported that at one of the stations of the Presbyterians as many as 1100 adult persons have been baptised and received into the church during the current year. If we take into account the age of our mission and the number of missionaries we have engaged, the growth of our membership is not less phenomenal. The mission must be re-enforced speedily with more missionaries, and provision made at once for training a native ministry."

"The whole population of the Samoan Islands is now Christian. There is probably no community in America where family prayers are as generally observed as in Samoa. The people are eager for the education of their children; they give liberally to the support of their churches, and send out their own missionaries to New Guinea and Micronesia. What do some home Christians think, who profess they do not believe in foreign missions? The Samoans share their privileges with others who have not the gospel. Would that all who profess Christ really possessed Christ and lived as He did!"

"The most generous church in America consists of one hundred and twenty Kiowa Indians in Oklahoma, whose gift to missions last year was $1000. God is not short of money for missions, neither is the bulk of Christians short of money. Hard hearts, rather than hard times, cause the trouble."

The week of prayer for our Foreign Mission Society includes our National Thanksgiving Day. Let all those who have kind boxes remember to bring them on that day, and we will have our "opening." We trust they have been very thankful this year, and that the boxes will be quite heavy. "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits towards me? I will pay my vows unto the Lord now in the presence of all his people. Blessed be the Lord, who daily loadeth us with benefits, even the God of our Salvation." The money collected in these pink boxes goes to help pay the salaries of our missionary girls, Ada Parker and Helen Johnson. So let us be generous, as God is to us.

Come to the meeting Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the Methodist Church.

The Advantages of Louisiana.

When we read such bracing truism as contained in an article in a recent issue of the Baton Rouge State, the official paper of the State of Louisiana, a feeling comes over us that, after all, our people have no cause to fear the ravages of boll weevil; that we are in position to tell the pest "Just come on, old fellow; feed on, old spike-headed, hump-backed, onary cuss, we defy you." With such a country as ours there is no possibility of starving. "The world is ours," and no failure of one crop can not hinder us from "roosting high," as the old darkey would say.

"It is an old, old story, the advantages of Louisiana," says the State. "Every candidate for office makes it part of his platform, every cursory visiting newspaper correspondent kills quantities of space on the theme, and the 'orators of the occasion' always utilize it either in exordium or peroration."

However, it is like a good son, a clever story—worth while remembering, even worth while telling over again every once in a while. Everybody knows that cane, rice, cotton, tobacco, garden truck, fruit, several sorts of hay, and many varieties of cane are subject to speedy production at Louisiana hands. Everybody knows that Louisiana has more cypress standing than remains in all the rest of the world put together; that there is enough pine remaining to last for several decades; that sulphur, oil, natural gas, and good artesian water are obtainable in many certain and possibly in many yet unascertained sections of the commonwealth.

Everybody knows, also, that the possibilities of the State are not exploited to their one-third capacity, that a quadrupled population could be sustained without filling the vacant spaces; that the waterway system given by nature is more perfect than that enjoyed by any other equally great area of territory; that it is building more railroads right now than almost any other commonwealth; that it has the finest harbor on the Gulf coast; that it has more miles of Gulf coast than has any other Gulf State; that its fish are the best; its oysters the choicest; its game the most plentiful; the climate (don't mention the equinoxes—scientists say they have no effect) the most equable and mildest; its position with regard to the coming markets of the world the most advantageous.

Everybody knows these things—but sometimes they are known so well that persons accept them as matters of everyday fact, without using them as stock-in-trade to display to the would-be visitor, or as reasons for certain lines of business action.

People and resources—if both are of the proper sort—will bring about almost any desired result. It takes the people, however, and people with initiative, courage, imagination. More people are coming—many are here, native to the soil—the resources are waiting.

Bayou Chicot Notes.

Griffith House, Oct. 30.

At the Griffith House this week were the handsome Mayor of New Iberia, Mr. R. P. Delahoussaye; and also Mr. Chas. Gute-Kunst, of St. Martinville; St. Landry's popular drummer, R. L. Sanford, of Alexandria; J. C. Woodside and J. O'Quin, of Milburn; S. J. Meadows, Fort Worth, Texas; R. S. Robinson and Walter Seals.

Rev. Robert Harry, of Washington, supped with our minister one day this week.

J. Sesperecz, Hlink P. O., Austria Hungary, Francis County, Europe, registered at the Griffith this week.

Miss Cammie Erlich was a pleasant caller at the Griffith House this week.

Mr. Henry Kelley, of Gold Dust, is with us this week.

Capt. Samuel Haas, with his esteemed wife, returned from Ashville, N. C., where they remained all summer in search of health. We all extend them a hearty welcome home.

Mr. P. T. Griffith and son made a flying trip to Elmbay on Sunday. Our school director will build a High School in Bayou Chicot. Henry has the brains and the aim, and what he says he will accomplish will soon come to pass. The need for education in this section of our parish is very great, and higher grade of teachers employed would facilitate this matter.

May Quit Leesville.

The Beaumont Journal is authority for the statement that there is a possibility of the Central Railway of Louisiana constructing its line from a connection with the Kansas City Southern into New Orleans by building from Pickering. It was the original intention to build from Leesville, but heavy grades had to be overcome and land in that vicinity was held at high prices, so the operation were called off until a new line of lower grade could be surveyed.

Mr. Holder in Lafayette.

The Lafayette Gazette of last Saturday contains a quarter-column write-up of a very successful revival meeting which just closed in that city.

The meeting was under the direction of the local pastor, Rev. J. D. Harper. Says the Gazette. "The preaching was conducted by the noted revivalist, Rev. A. C. Holder of Opelousas, who delivered forcible and eloquent sermons twice a day during the meetings to large, appreciative congregations. Rev. Holder's clear and logical presentation of gospel truth made a favorable impression on all who attended and brought conviction to the hearts of many. About fifteen conversions and seven accessions to the church were among the immediate visible results of the revival, but no doubt much good seed has been sown, that will bear fruit in the years to come."

The Sunday before the close of the revival special service was held for the children, and many little ones gave their hearts to God, and made open profession of their faith.

Ties For Panama.

There are probably few people of this state who know that Louisiana will furnish a large number of cross ties which will be used in the construction of the Panama railroad, that will be built by the United States Government, says the Baton Rouge Times.

For the past several weeks a large force of workmen have been engaged under the supervision of W. A. Bowers in getting out these ties in the pine forest near Clinton, in East Feliciana parish. These ties are being stacked at convenient places along the line of the Y. & M. V. railroad and will be put on transport out of New Orleans about the first of January.

Lawrence L. Luehm worked in harness with Senator C. J. Edwards on the Abbeville Meridional about two years, and now he has quit and gone to New Orleans to establish a matrimonial monthly to be called by the alluring name of Cupid's Messenger. There can be nothing in Luehm's association with Doc, that could be responsible for his undertaking such a hazardous venture; or is it, maybe, that the Abbeville girls, the loveliest and prettiest and sweetest in the land, have inspired the erstwhile baseball enthusiast with dealing in matrimonial quotations instead of baseball "strikes"? Luehm, you are against a hard proposition, old boy—may your "couplings" hold fast.

Someone must be totting a gun for Oscar Alpha, of the Franklin Vindicator-News. Listen to him: "The way to pelt the gun totter out of business is to give him the limit of the law and something beyond that if possible."
