AT SANDOZ OPERA HOUSE.

Two Good Shows Promised for Next Week--W. B. Patton and "Zeke"

PATTON.

Patton has been to Opelousas several times, and is a prime favorite here.

So the announcement that he will hold the boards on next Monday night, the 20th, is assurance that the Sandoz will contain a good house on that night.

He comes here this time, as he always does, with a clever supporting company. He will render "The Slow Poke."

A critic says of Patton: "We might say Mr. Patton is in a class with Tim Murphy and reminds one very forcibly of the late Sol Smith Russell, but we can just as well say he is just like himself, for he will stand comparison with the best of the high class comedians. He has an easy, droll manner and his methods are natural and original."

"ZEKE"
The latest rural success "Zeke The Country Boy" will be the attraction at Sandoz Opera House on Thursday, Jan. 23.

The story of the play deals with plain folks and is of the class that seem to have a warm place in the hearts of theatre goers.

The company presenting the play has been carefully selected for their special ability to portray the different characters, which assures an enjoyable performance.

Many high class singing and dancing specialties are introduced during the action of the play, and special scenery is used, making it a complete production in every way.

"Gee, but I'm Happy," is one of the favorite expressions of "Zeke, the Country Boy."

The spontaneous humor of Zeke, the principal character in the play by that name, lends much to the enjoyment of the play. The company will present this rural success here with a full equipment of special scenery, and a high class performance is assured.
