CLEMENT ACTON GRISCOM

"Father, I don't want to study medicine. I want to be a business man." "Very well son, I will secure you a place with some Business House. The sooner you start, the more you'll learn." In a few days Griscom was working in the Crockery House of Wright & Son at $50.00 per year, this salary to be doubled the second year. The firm was receiving crockery from English potters with the understanding that cargoes of merchandise should be obtained for the ship's return trips. There were twelve ships to load and young Griscom proved to be so successful at this work, that he was soon given charge. At the age of twenty-one, he was taken in as a partner in the business. Soon after President Thomson, of the Pennsylvania Railroad wanted him to establish a ship-line to Europe for the Western Products of his road. Griscom bought two ships, and established the Red Star Line. He afterward organized the International Navigation Co. with twenty-six ships and himself as president. In 1902 with J. P. Morgan he organized the International Mercantile Marine Co. This company is builder of some of the largest vessels in the world.

Every day when the 1,000 members of the Hagnebeck-Wallace Circus finish breakfast, they begin active preparations for the parade. Well-fed horses and ponies in shining harness and wavering plumes take their places before glittering parade chariots; the sound of music is heard from bands perched hazardedly high; clowns, charioteers, jockeys, Roman Hippodrome riders; camels from the great desert with native riders and ponderous elephants some bearing a weight of feminine beauty in Oriental costume, make appearance in a picturesque, kaleidoscopic pageant more than two miles long.
A man on horse back in a deep voice cries the oft repeated warning

"Look out for your horses, the elephants are coming." Behind him bevy of pretty women buglers trumpet their clarion-voiced instruments and then Jeanne d'Arc, in polished armor, with clanking curtains of chain mail. The flush of tan has tinted her ears and cheeks. She is a young woman adopted by a wealthy aunt in New Haven, Conn., who sent her to Europe to keep her from entering circus life. Her sudden return and her romantic marriage with a clown caused daily papers all over the country to devote considerable space to the incident.
Through densely crowded street the pageant measures its gaudy passage. The husky youth who sits high up on a wagon representing the German

Empire, and he himself the Kaiser, is in reality only a candy butcher. With his Royal helmet of shining brass and his purple and gold jacket he impersonates the mighty man who rules over a great domain. In the afternoon his regal attire will give way to a white jacket and he will stop being king long enough to peddle lemonade and peanuts. Cage after cage and wagons after wagons filled with rare and costly animals pass in fantastic panorama. The calliope shrieks madly and behind it half a hundred boys, playing "hokey" from school, trail tirelessly
The Hagnebeck-Wallace Circus will come to Opelousas September 30th. for performances at 2 and 8 p. m. The parade is at 10 o'clock.
