CHARITY HOSPITAL ASKS MORE MONEY

New Scheme Is Supposed Will Save Thousands To The State Yearly.

The Charity Hospital is asking the Legislature for an appropriation of $50,000 a year to enable it, through its existing laboratory equipment to furnish free to the poor and needy of all Louisiana all the tetanus, meningitis, diphtheria and hog cholera antitoxins, and typhoid, anthrax or charbon vaccines required to control or abate these diseases.

Recently the administration of the Charity Hospital was recognized, and the management of the hospital put upon a modern scientific and economic basis. In 1912 the hospital took care of 12,983 ward patients, more than 23,000 patients in outside clinics, and gave more than 100,000 free consultations.

In 1913 there were 13,316 ward patients and a proportionate increase in out-clinics and consultations.

In 1914, it is expected that 16,000 or more ward patients will be taken care of.

In other words, the Charity Hospital is now taking care of about 33 1-3 percent more patients than in 1912, necessitating a similar increase in running expenses.

Mr. Frank B. Hayne, President of the Board of Administrators, who is showing a great deal of interest in the progress of the institution, believes its scope of usefulness will be greatly increased and the people of the state saved many hundreds of thousands of dollars annually by using the excellent laboratory equipment of the Hospital for the manufacturers of antitoxins and vaccines required for the control of human and animal diseases in Louisiana.

"In the first place," said Mr. Hayne, "we can manufacture them at much less expense than they can be purchased. In the next, the use of our laboratories for this purpose on a large scale would lead to the comprehensive, systematic and continuous study of the diseases met with in Louisiana, and an improvement in the methods of treating them.

"Aside from the influence on the health of the people of the state, which would be large, financial benefits in the shape of cattle, hogs, and stock saved from death would be enormous because the impetus given preventive measures by such manufacture at home would be important."

President Hayne and his board have prepared and presented to Governor Hall and the members of the Legislature an address on this subject asking that the appropriations be made.
