

OFFICE OF
H. D. Larcade, Jr.
INSURANCE

Opelousas, La., August 30, 1916.

To the Public;

I wish to announce that I am doing a General Insurance business, that I represent The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, the oldest American Life Insurance Company, and which company pays the largest dividends the first policy year, as well as succeeding years.

I represent the foremost fire insurance companies in the world, and do not claim that my policies are "as good," as so and so's, but I claim that they are better than a good many of which I know. I have my own standard of efficiency, service and promptness of settlement of all claims.

The business of insurance is an honorable and philanthropic undertaking, the responsibility of protecting property and widows and orphans against want and poverty is deserving of the appreciation of the public.

The facilities of my office are at the disposal of my friends and the public generally, and any business entrusted to me will receive careful attention.

Yours for protection,

Agent.
