FARMER'S CHANCE NOW HERE

Removal of Government Restrictions Enables Him to Construct Buildings That Are Badly Needed.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD. Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm...

The farmer, who has been denied during the last two years the new buildings the expansion of his business has required, will hail with satisfaction his chance to put up that new barn, silo, horse barn, or cattle or hog house...

But during the time of his inactivity there have been rapid strides made in designing commodious and sanitary fine place in bad weather for grinding feed, etc. The gate at the outer end of the scales swings out and joins a small gate at the loading chute, making it handy to do the loading.

The sleeping pens, granary and corn crib are all floored with hollow tile with two inches of concrete over them. The corn crib and granary have studding sockets set in the concrete on top of the wall. The sills in the hog house are bolted down to the top of the foundation wall.

The roof is shingled with composition shingles and the siding is fir drop siding. Everything is of the best materials and is built in the best possible way. All the foundation walls are reinforced.

The floor of the hog house slopes to the center, so as to drain into the sewer which runs out under the feeding platform. The feeding platform slopes to the outside and also at one end. The feed trough also slopes and is fitted with a drain at one end.

All fittings are modern. The fittings of the house are modern in every respect. One of these is a waterer that will not freeze. Concrete floors and feeding troughs make it easy to keep the building clean, and cleanliness has been found to be a prime factor in the successful production of hogs.

This hog house is only one of the buildings that will be erected on the farms this year that contain many up-to-date features in construction and equipment. There is a growing demand among the farmers for these modern build-

New Farm Bulletin on Poultry Diseases

Chickens and other poultry are susceptible to many diseases, some of which are highly infectious. Disease germs pass rapidly from one fowl to another and may be carried by one means or another to neighboring flocks, producing extensive outbreaks.

Certain diseases respond favorably to treatment. Others resist all efforts at treatment and cause very heavy losses. Preventive measures properly applied offer the surest means of controlling poultry diseases.

It is necessary that the poultry owner be enlightened as to the characteristics of the more important diseases in order that he may intelligently use the most approved methods of combating them.

Sanitary and other measures which have been found successful in the control of poultry diseases may materially reduce the great annual losses in flocks if they are properly applied.

Farmers' Bulletin 957, Important Poultry Diseases, discusses the symptoms and treatment of forty diseases of poultry. It may be obtained free by writing to Agricultural Editor, Extension Division, Louisiana State University.

HUSBAND SAVES WIFE

From Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"For many months I was not able to do my work owing to a weakness which caused backache and headaches. A friend called my attention to one of your newspaper advertisements and immediately my husband bought three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me. After taking two bottles I felt fine and my troubles caused by that weakness are a thing of the past. All women who suffer as I did should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Women who suffer from any form of weakness, as indicated by displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues," should accept Mrs. Roberg's suggestion and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a thorough trial.

For over forty years it has been correcting such ailments. If you have mysterious complications write for advice to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Town Little Changed by Time. Of all the cities in the Turkish empire, as one writer has well said of it, perhaps Mosul is the one that has been least touched by western civilization.

Women who suffer from any form of weakness, as indicated by displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues," should accept Mrs. Roberg's suggestion and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a thorough trial.

"Gets-It"—2 Drops—Then to the Dance!

"Goodnight to Corn Pains—Corns Peel Off With 'Gets-It.'" "Say, girls, you can laugh at tight shoes, or damp, corn-pulling weather, big bumpy corns, calluses on the soles of your feet, corns between the toes, hard and soft corns,

"It's All Off With This Fierce Corn Now—'Gets-It' Is Magic."

If you will just touch the corn or callus with a few drops of "Gets-It" what a blessed relief it gives to corn pains! You won't limp any more; you can enjoy the dance every minute. Then to see how that corn or callus will come right off complete, like a banana peel and without the least pain, is just wonderful. "Gets-It" is the biggest seller among corn removers in the world today, simply because it is so wonderfully simple and always works. Be sure you get "Gets-It." "Gets-It" is the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifle at any drug store. Made by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

PELICAN STATE CAME CLEAN ON LIBERTY BONDS

LOUISIANIANS SUBSCRIBED LIBERALLY TO THE NATIONAL SECURITIES

AMOUNT PER CAPITA LEADS ENTIRE SOUTH

Figures Showing What People of the State Did is Extremely Gratifying and Reflection of the Wonderful Resources

The people of the state of Louisiana subscribed for $127,129,600 worth of bonds of the several Liberty issues. This is equivalent to a subscription of $85 per capita and is far in excess of what every other state in the south did, as Texas, per capita, subscribed but $79; Tennessee and Georgia, $60; Alabama, $40, and Mississippi but $35.

Louisiana's subscription is almost one-third greater than that of Georgia notwithstanding the fact that the federal reserve bank for this district is located at Atlanta. In this connection it will be remembered that New Orleans, the metropolis of the south, put up a strenuous fight for the location of the bank in that city, but apparently it stood no show for the matter was evidently cut-and-dried beforehand and the bank was located in the Georgia city, though, according to financiers, the tendency of the big money interests was steadily drifting toward New Orleans. The fact brought out by the subscriptions to the several Liberty Loan issues is extremely gratifying to the banking interests of Louisiana and confirms the argument made in behalf of New Orleans for the locating of the reserve bank in that city.

More than that, Louisiana's per capita subscription indicates what many of its best-informed people have always contended, that the old Pelican State was in point of natural and agricultural resources the richest state in the entire south and while other southern states might have subscribed more than they did, Louisiana did not drop back in the procession when it came to supplying Uncle Sam with funds to wage war with. This fact is very gratifying to the patriotic people of the state, for it is proof positive that they are ready to go the limit in backing up the government in all of its projects. Besides, the more than one hundred and twenty-seven million of Louisiana money invested in Liberty Bonds insures a steady stream of money to this state in the way of interest on the great investment.

Dialect Was Once Good English.

A dialect is folk-speech, a form of the mother tongue spoken by people of native stock, long settled in the district where it prevails. It is of quite an ancient and respectable descent as the accepted speech. Accident has reduced it to the condition of a local or provincial idiom. It has diverged from the standard literary language, or the latter has diverged from it. For dialects, as is well known, are conservative, and cling to many vocabularies, inflections, syntactical usages and pronunciations which are nearer to the primitive tongue than those which have displaced them in the accepted speech.

In a Minute.

We do a good many things in a minute. For instance, we are whirled on the outside of the earth just 13 miles and have gone around the sun 1,080 miles; a ray of light has traveled 11,100,000 miles; the lowest sound your ear can catch has made 900 vibrations; the highest tone, 2,280,000 vibrations, and $65 worth of gold has been extracted from Mother Earth.

Crazy Negro Usurps District Judge's Seat

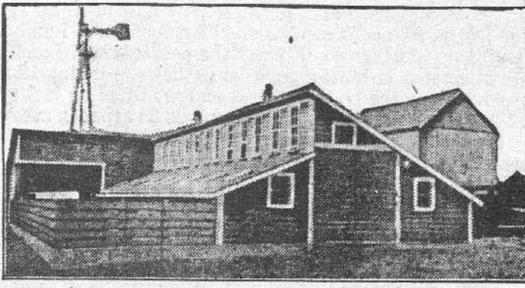

On Monday last, a darkey by the name of Ludovick Howard, was noticed walking up and down the sidewalk in front of the court house. Finally with a yell, he made a dash up the court house steps, never stopped until he reached the district court room, where he took his seat in the judge's chair and loudly proclaimed that he was God Almighty, and that he would preside over the court to stop the shedding of innocent blood. Mr. Foshee, chief deputy clerk of the court, was at the desk, but he omitted to read the minutes and otherwise made manifest a want of respect to the dignity of the new court. The unusual event created quite a commotion among the stenographers and others at work in the building. However, Chief of Police W. T. Billbray, Deputy Sheriff Dodge, Dr. Hollingsworth, Wheaton Elam and B. Y. Wemple organized a shock unit and made a raid across no-man's land and bearded the lion in his den.

The negro was violently insane and insisted that he was God and must remain on the bench to see that no innocent blood was shed. He was confined in the jail some weeks since, charged with insanity, but apparently recovered and was released.

He recently had the flu and it seems to have affected his mind, which with drinking antiseptic, has made him violently insane. He seems to be brooding over the fact that there are several negroes in our jail sentenced to be hanged, and contending that they are innocent, he feels called upon to save their lives.—Mansfield Enterprise.

Do You Sleep Well?

To be at his best a man must have sound, refreshing sleep. When wakeful and restless at night he is in no condition for work or business during the day. Wakefulness is often caused by indigestion and constipation, and is quickly relieved by Chamberlain's Tablets. Try a dose of these tablets and see how much better you feel with a clear head and good digestion.—adv.

farm buildings. One of the things that the modern idea of farm efficiency demands is that the hogs be housed in a building that can be kept clean and is so arranged that the swine can be cared for with the least amount of effort.

It may be trite to say it, but hogs are valuable property these days. A little more money spent on the hog house means fatter and healthier animals, and each additional pound is worth real money about the time snow flies and the hogs are marketed.

Herewith is shown a modern swine establishment, in which are embodied a corncrib, granary, feeding platform and scale house. The building is what is known as the saw-tooth hog house. While the floor plan shows the arrangement of these features, it might be explained a little more fully by a description of it.

Room for Eighteen Sows. The hog house proper was laid out to accommodate eighteen sows; two stalls in one end were used to provide plenty of room around the water place and another stall in the other end for the scale box and small store room; so, as it is arranged now it contains fifteen usable stalls.

The ventilation is taken care of by two combination smoke stacks and ventilators in the roof and a slat ventilator built in the end above the door. This ventilator is fitted with a door on the inside, so that it can be closed tight when necessary. All the gates between the stalls are removable, so that one or more pens can be thrown together.

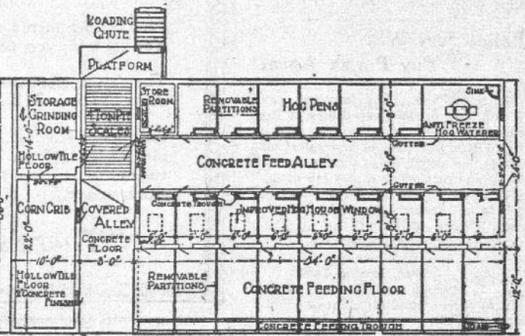

The feeding platform also can be used as outside yards by putting in the cross gates. Each six feet there is ings, because those who are producing food for this country and for a considerable portion of the rest of the world now realize that their time is worth money and everything that saves even a few steps a day is worth while. At the end of the year this worth-whileness is shown by the balance on the right side of the ledger after the season's crops have been marketed and the livestock sold.

GREATEST OF ALL ASSETS

World's Vast Store of Gathered Knowledge Has Not Been Destroyed by the War.

At the one hundred and sixty-fifth session of the Royal Society of Arts the chairman of the council, Mr. Alan A. Campbell Swinton, F. R. S., in an address on "Science and the Future," said that undoubtedly the war had been responsible for an enormous amount of destruction of capital, but when those losses were estimated it was not usually borne in mind that capital did not merely consist of gold and silver, bricks and mortar, furniture and fittings, or even of railways, steamships and machinery, but that the main capital of the modern world consisted of scientific knowledge. The reconstruction of the material things now temporarily destroyed would take only a very small fraction of the labor and time expended when men learned how to bring those things about. When we compiled estimates of losses due to the war we must not forget that our greatest asset, the vast store of knowledge that had been gathered together, was still intact. In an angle iron bolted to the side of the house, which holds one end of a 2 by 4, the other end being fastened to the fence on the outside of the platform. The 2 by 4 acts as a brace to hold the fence rigid and also serves as a means of fastening the top of the gates. The lower part of the gate is held in place by 2 by 4 braces on the gates dropping into holes made to fit them in the concrete platform. In order to remove the gates it is only necessary to loosen two bolts and lift them out.

Scales Under Cover. The scales are under cover in the passageway between the hog house and the granary and are fitted with a swinging gate at each end, one of them swinging inside so as not to interfere with the sliding door which closes the passageway up tight. This passageway is all under cover and makes a the future, if the industries of this country were to flourish in the face of the world's competition, it was above all things necessary that research should play a greater part in them than it had in the past. The modern world had no room for antiquated and unscientific methods.

Peculiar Violin. Abram Moses, a violinist of Baltimore, is the possessor of what might be called a barometric violin. Some time after Mr. Moses bought it, he noticed that at certain times it exhaled a strange and subtle fragrance, like an aroma of Oriental incense. Later, he observed that this fragrance was noticeable only when the weather was about to become damp. He obtained the violin in Paris some years ago when he was studying there.
