LIVING QUARTERS FOR FIVE IN AUTO FIELD WORK

A remarkable automobile, providing living quarters in almost every sense of the word for a party of five, has been presented to the American Committee for Devastated France by a Rhode Island man and is illustrated and described in the July issue of Popular Mechanics Magazine. The body is built like a rear door bus. A waterproof tent, folded on top of the car, spreads out to 20 by 14 ft. and needs no guy ropes. Four cots, bedding, five stools, and personal effects are carried on a two-wheel trailer.

It is all right to make Rome howl, if it is howling for and not against you.

LESSONS OF DAIRYING APPLIED TO WOODLAND

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Feed costs money. If a cow does not pay for her feed you dispose of her and buy a new one.

Why keep a tree if it is not paying rent on the land it occupies? Replace it by a faster growing tree.

If you want good calves you breed good cows. You can not get good young trees from the seed of poor kinds. Leave seed trees of the kinds that grow fastest and are most valuable.

FEED GRAIN FOR FINISHING

Practice is Advisable to Harden Soft Fat and Meat and Put on Additional Weight.

Farmers substituting pastures entirely for grain and other concentrated feeds to their market hogs through the summer will find that, before marketing in the fall, it will be advisable to feed grain to harden the soft fat and meat and put on additional weight. Light but steady grain feeding on pasture, however, gives better results than a heavier feeding during a shorter finishing period.

DESTROY ALL GARDEN PESTS

Good Plan to Burn Off Old Bean Vines and Other Vegetation Making Breeding Places.

A good way to rid the garden of insect pests is to burn off all the old bean vines, pumpkin and melon vines, and other vegetation, as such spots make excellent breeding places for these pests. The refuse should first be raked into small piles, then dried, and after burning the ashes should be scattered over the garden plot to sweeten the soil.

How Horses Won Victories. The automobile may have won at Verdun, says the billets and remounts division, but the horse has won more victories than he has hairs on his top-knot—for, say they, no victory could have been attained, no push could have succeeded, unless the horse was on the job to pull the guns forward, to take up the rations, the water, the ammunition, through mud where trucks could not go, or over shell-swept ground equally impassable for the gasoline-propelled vehicle.—Stars and Stripes.
