

Prayed for Cure Finds it After 10 Years

Food Would Sour and Boil —Teeth Like Chalk
Mr. Herbert M. Gessner writes from his home in Berlin, N. H.:
I had stomach trouble over ten years; kept getting worse. I tried everything for relief but it came back worse than ever. Last fall I got awfully bad; could only eat light loaf bread and tea. In January I got so bad that I would eat would sour and boil; my teeth would be like chalk. I suffered terribly. I prayed every day for something to cure me. One day I read about EATONIC and told my wife to get me a box at the drug store as I was going to work at 4 p. m. I took one-third of it and began to feel relief; when it was three-fourths gone, I felt fine and when it was used up I had no pains. Wife got me another box but I have felt the pain but twice. I used five tablets out of the new box and I have no more stomach trouble. Now I write to tell you how thankful I am that I heard of EATONIC. I feel like a new man; I eat what I like, drink plenty of water, and it never hurts me at all.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

AN OLD IMPROVEMENT.

"Slowly, slowly, but steadily I'm coming in," said the tide. "I'm going to creep in and up and up, for it is my time for coming in, and when it is my time for going out I will go out in the same way."
"I do the things I am supposed to do and people can't stop me. No, old Mother Nature is my mother and I do as she says. For there is no pleasing people—that is all people, and old Mother Nature is pleased when you do your work and your play just right. She is always pleased, is dear old Mother Nature."
"And so I'm going to come up on the beach, a little bit more each time I come riding in, and I will cover up the sand and I will wash away the sand castles. But they can all be built again. Ah, yes! I'm not mean. I'm just doing what old Mother Nature tells me to do."
"I think people like to see the tide come in and go out, too. I believe they do!"
"And how lovely it is to come up over the beach and to feel the soft sand and to creep over the sand that is so warm and to cool it and to give it refreshing salt water drinks."
"Then it is beautiful to hear some of the stories the Sand Fairies have to tell of palaces they've made. They tell, too, of dances which they gave in the palaces when the children were looking and when they didn't see at all because, of course, they were Sand Fairies and there were so many of them that they could scarcely be seen for numbers!"
"No one could count all the many little pieces that make up the sand. Ah, no!"
"See the White Caps out in the ocean. They're very much dressed up. How gay they look! They said they were going to wear their yachting caps today for the great sailing race, and they certainly have!"
"I'll go out for a moment and say hello to them and then back will I come."
So the tide went out and said hello to the white caps, who were some of Mother Ocean's children all dressed up for the great sailing race.
And as the tide came back again Mr. Sun bent down and said: "Tide, White Caps, Ocean, Sand, would you like to hear my story? We've just time before the big sailing race takes place. Would you like to hear it? I've had

In All-White Summer Garb

MODISTES and dealers have been casting about for a name suited to those luxurious looking sport clothes that are made of silks and used for informal but smart wear. They have been called "country club" clothes, but that high-sounding title is too narrow, while country wear is misleading, since the town is even more familiar with this order of apparel than the country. So far nothing has succeeded in taking the place of "sport clothes," which includes everything that is made for resort and pastime wear and worn almost anywhere.
A chic and handsome outfit of this kind is illustrated here. The always popular and always useful skirt of white wash satin makes a good beginning for it and a white tricolette blouse gives it an added luster. It is one of those slip-over, kimono-cut affairs that make one wonder why anything less simple is ever worn, they are so graceful. Disks in the material appear to be woven in. In a sort of knitted stitch resembling drawn work. Medallions of coarse lace might be set in plain tricolette and outlined with buttonhole stitch, to get this effect.
To emphasize its practical side a costume of this kind employs white canvas shoes and plain silk stockings, and to show allegiance to art, it is finished with an unusual hat. A small Breton sailor covered with white satin has an old applique pattern in petals for trimming and a very long white silk tassel falling from the crown. The costume is white from head to heels and its wearer a joy to look upon on midsummer days—a joy that many will share, for dress of this kind is at home on the streets.
Two-piece suits of white wash flannel and of white jersey cloth are made on simple and severely tailored lines, and answer the same demands as the costume pictured. They are only practical for out-of-the-city, because they must be immaculate to be attractive, and spend much of their time at the cleaners, but they are immensely smart.

"Why Veil the Rose's Bloom?"

ANY sophisticated and up-to-date young woman of today stands ready to answer the question quoted above, and the bard of Avon might not ask it if he were living in these times. Veils of the kinds we have now are very kind to the roses that bloom behind them and to the eyes that shine through them. It is the mission of some of them to heighten the charms they cover or to fix attention on them, and of others to soften or obliterate defects. Others still do not veil the face at all, but add the grace and life of flowing lines and the tone of fine lace to the costume. Small face veils do their bit in preserving neatness and add this unflattering charm to the street costume, and they are required also to be becoming.
In face veils there are varieties that are so fine that they are almost invisible and color is an important item in choosing them. The most popular patterns are in heavier threads and in large meshes, usually hexagonal or diamond shaped, but to be found in round, square and plumb mesh as well. Dots are less favored than small, odd figures or an embroidered lace pattern and nearly all veils have a border of some kind. Each of the three veils pictured is a type and of each type there are many varieties. Black, bright navy, brown, beige, tan and gray are fashionable colors in mesh veils; there is greater variety of color in chiffon veils, but they are another story.
The veil with diamond-shaped mesh and border of plain chiffon, in the group above proves quite generally becoming. Often the band is brought up close about the throat and sometimes it covers the chin. A lovely veil of black chintilly, covering a wide-brimmed straw hat, forms a hat-trimming and a fascinating background for a fair face which it is not intended to cover. An embroidered pattern appears in a fine veil with hexagonal mesh having a deeply scalloped border and a floral pattern wandering over it. Veils are to be selected with as much care as hats for an immense amount of time and thought are given to making them becoming.

Shadowless Petticoats.
Double panel shadowless petticoats of white silk have deep ruffles with hemstitched hem, sometimes done in pointed lines instead of straight. These semi-tailored petticoats are particularly practical as well as smart.

Bright Shoes for Sports Wear.
Bright red leather slippers are a Paris mode, and smart American women have already taken to bright colored shoes for sports wear.

Large Taffeta Hats.
Large taffeta hats trimmed with leather are the newest thing in the millinery shops.

Brilliant Linings.
Brilliant linings, bold in color combinations and design, are already reported as the trend in Paris for wraps of all kinds, and we have and shall have these linings here in greater variety as summer advances into early fall.

For Summer Days.
A white batiste frock for summer days, finished in checked gingham, yellow and white, a little around the skirt and sleeves and more puffed into pants, is quite smart.

COUNTRY'S NEED OF HOMES

Apartment House Can Never Really Take the Place of the Individual Abode.

In helping solve the housing problem of the cities the apartment house meets a very real demand. There is need for such houses with sufficient rooms to care for families. There is a place for others with smaller quarters where bachelor apartments may be maintained. It is well for cities to have apartment houses in such numbers as to help meet the demand for quarters from those who prefer to live in rooms without the advantage of yard and garden.

But it is far better for a city to have a hundred new separate homes erected than to have a hundred-family apartment houses constructed. The proper and natural way of living is for one family to have a house, with the little grass plot in the yard, a bit of garden in the back part of the lot, with the freedom and conveniences and privacy that separate homes provide. Columbus has a housing demand now that calls for some more apartment houses, those with proper conveniences and a rental not too great. But it has a greater need for more separate homes. There are hundreds of vacant lots, the cost of the building being suited to the neighborhood. There is a great need for the homes that will care for small families, homes within the purchasing power of the man of limited means, who has saved some money, is well employed and wants to pay out for his home during the coming years. Every man is a better citizen when he becomes a home owner.—Ohio State Journal.

Work of "City Beautiful."

The Cleveland Portmentment council has undertaken the work of trying to make Cleveland not only a beautiful city and a clean city, but a beautiful city as well. Everyone who keeps his yard and his place in immaculate order will receive a letter of commendation thanking him for his interest in the furthering of the "City Beautiful" movement.

It is proposed that a vigorous campaign be started to clean up the city, also that everyone should plant his yard, and if he has no yard, to have window boxes or porch boxes surrounding his home.

Two Groups of Rice Plants.

Rice is the chief sustenance of one-third of the world's population. It has been cultivated from time immemorial in tropical and semitropical countries and more than 1,000 different varieties have been recognized. The rice plant is similar in appearance to wheat, but instead of having a compact "ear" it bears a head composed of fine stalks, each of which contains one grain. The grains are covered with a brown husk; when separated from the rest of the plant they are known as "paddy." Rice plants may be broadly divided into two main groups, namely, "upland" or "hill" rice and "lowland" or "wet" rice. Upland rice can be cultivated as any ordinary crop, whereas "wet" rice is sown under conditions necessitating the flooding of the fields for a considerable time during the growing period.

CALOMEL

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

Take "Dodson's Liver Tone" Instead!

"Dodson's Liver Tone" is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which starts your liver just as surely as calomel, but doesn't make you sick and can't salivate. Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless. Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than the horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.—Adv.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it. A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."
According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments; corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.
You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.—Adv.

Such a wonderful compliment paid me and it has made me so happy." "Tell it to us," they said.
"Some one was swimming here—one of a number who were swimming here in this water today. Of course it is still early in the season for swimming, but still they liked it. And they were lying on the beach before you, Mr. Tide, had begun to come in so far."
"Well, a fine-looking boy with dark hair and dark eyebrows and dark eyelashes and a face which I had made all nice and red and attractively sunburnt, and who had blue eyes was lying in the sand and talking to another boy."
"You know," said the first boy, "it is perfectly true there have been all sorts of improvements, such as the railway and the telephone, the telegraph and the cable, the airships and the automobiles, steam heat and electric lights, subways and great ocean liners, steam engines and everything else like that."
"But I do believe that, while modern improvements are fine and all of that, there is none that takes the place of Mr. Sun."
"He's an old improvement—there is nothing modern about Mr. Sun. He came in long before the steam engines or the railways or the automobiles or the airships; but he is one of the greatest improvements in the world."
"One can enjoy so much because of Mr. Sun which one couldn't otherwise and he helps make us feel so strong. Yes, he's not a modern improvement, but he's an old one which beats them all!"
"Ah," said Mr. Sun, "that rejoiced and warmed my heart so that I'm shining harder than ever. And I had to tell my friends the Tide and the White Caps and old Mother Ocean, for you all, too, are a pride to Mother Nature!"
