PARISH HAPPENINGS SIXTY YEARS AGO

THROUGH COURTESY OF HON. H. E. ESTORGE, WE WILL PUBLISH WEEKLY LETTERS

Feeling sure that the large majority of the Clarion readers will be interested in happenings during the period from 1861 to 1867, and through the courtesy of Hon. H. E. Estorge, we propose to publish weekly clippings from the official journal of the town of Opelousas, during that period, the OPELOUSAS COURIER.

The first of the articles bears the title—
St. Landry Light Guards.

The 26th day of May is one that should be ever memorable in the history of our town. No doubt our readers will be glad to go back with us that day, twenty-three years ago, and look with admiration upon a scene that filled the hearts of the participants with so many and various emotions. The sparks of disaffection had been fanned into the flames of civil war; the greedy messengers of death had tasted the first blood, and had whetted their most ravenous appetites; the call to arms had gone forth to the manhood of our country to rise in defense of their rights, and the valiant chivalry of our town and neighborhood was the first to answer, and to proceed to the field of duty, under the name of "The St. Landry Light Guards."

The morning dawned in peaceful beauty. The gentle sun of a spring day had awakened all nature to active response in the heated call of patriotism. The chirping bird, the rustling leaf, the blushing rose, the balmy air, what more could lend enchantment to the view as the gallant members of that heroic band, with martial step, began, on that bright morning, their march to honor upon a thousand glorious fields? Ah! yes, there is a something else; and were it not for the trickling tear that steals down the maiden's cheek; the suppressed sob that rends a parent's heart, or the passing shadows of some fitting clouds as they portend the future days of strife and grief, we might much longer dwell upon this scene of fervent patriotism. What was begun, at first perhaps, in reckless mood, has now become a fateful act of destiny. Adieux are heard, soft words, good cheer, farewells; and from ten thousand lips and throbbing hearts goes forth a prayer for safe return, as Washington's pride, and St. Landry's first list of chivalry, are borne away to battle. Alas! that this bright picture should ever have been marred by War's inhuman hand! Sad are, perhaps, the memories now awakened, as evening draws its mantle over the skies, and in an hundred homes there is some loved one missed; but sadder still had been the shame, if these our valiant sons had shirked the call of duty, or quailed before a dastard foe. Enough that country calls, for freedom to respond, and such were all the members of that noble band.

Proceeding, without delay, to camp Moore, this worthy company was mustered into the Confederate service for the war, as Company C Sixth Regiment Louisiana Volunteers, Col. I. Seymour commanding.

Immediately they were hurled to the seat of war, and from the first Manassas to the last Appomattox they ever gained glory in victory, and honor in defeat. As their ranks were thinned and others went to replace the slain and of a company of one hundred and fifty men, scarcely one-tenth live to read the original roster. And what shall be the thoughts of these survivors, when they will see the names of their former companions in memory to the bivouac, the camp-fire, the tented field, the raging battle, the furious charge, the shouts of victory, and recall the confidences of camp or battle, or the last sad message given with a broken parting breath.

The list here published was kindly furnished us by Mr. E. J. Going, the former first Corporal of the Guards. It was given him by Mrs. E. D. Harmanson, who saved it from the destroying hand of time, eight years after the organization of the company. If any of our readers can furnish us with a list of the other members who subsequently joined the ranks, we will be pleased to publish it.

HOME TOWN PAPER WEEK

Every four corners has its home town week nowadays, but all the boys and girls who have wandered from home and township center cannot get back to enjoy the loved surroundings. But all can subscribe to the Old Home Paper and thus keep well in touch with the little spot they once called home.

"Subscribe to your home town paper," is the slogan of a new nation wide movement backed by the National Editorial Association and other agencies. The movement has back of it far more than a selfish desire on the part of newspapers to acquire increased circulation, for it is in effect, a step toward the perfect unification of America by the strengthening of ties that bind everyone to his native soil.

The campaign is, moreover, an excellent opportunity to boost the old home town. The men and women who were born and reared here have, some of them, been away for many years and many important changes have taken place—changes in which they would be greatly interested.

Not only is the St. Landry Clarion your own home town paper but it is the official paper for the parish of St. Landry and for this, if for no other fact, it should be in every home in the confines of this wonderful parish of ours.

To the newspaper men and women of each community has fallen the task of presenting the current events of a fast-moving world in accordance with the modern ideas, more or less extravagant, and keeping a smiling countenance and a courageous heart when others are prone to talk "hard times." Their loyalty to the state and the community has undergone a severe test, but they met it with optimism and don't a little reflection is needed to show how much worse conditions might have been before the turn in the road came, had they pursued a different course.

Now during the week from November 7 to 12, go over in your mind the many things your home town paper has done—is doing—will continue to do—for your home town. Think about it seriously and think whether or not you have always stood loyally to it at all times when the community's champion has needed financial and moral support. Think it all over, and if you are not now a subscriber, subscribe at once, and if you are not a advertiser, by all means give us a trial.

LOCAL OPTION ON DIPPING CATTLE GIVEN A QUIETUS

Sylvester Bill is Shelved by a Vote of 52 to 42 In The House

WOULD HAVE ENDED ALL FEDERAL AID

St. Landry's Old War Horse On Job Again and Scores Opponents

The Sylvester bill to give parishes local option on cattle dipping was killed in the house Wednesday morning. A "camouflage repeal" of the Louisiana cattle dipping law was the name given the Sylvester local option cattle dipping bill in the house on Wednesday by Representative Marmade of Terrebonne.

Dr. Marmade was the spokesman for the minority of the house agriculture committee, which favorably reported the Sylvester bill. Passage of the bill will result in the withdrawal of federal aid from the cattle dipping fight in Louisiana, the majority spokesman declared. He showed telegrams from Washington to back his statement.

The Sylvester bill leaves cattle dipping at the option of the parish police jurors. Mr. Sylvester was said to be trying to do indirectly something the house already has declined to do directly.

Representative Gilbert L. Dupre, "the od man of the house," gave his opponents a roasting. "Ninety per cent of the members of the house are political cowards, not voting their own convictions, but voting to please constituents who do not know what they want when they ask local option on dipping," he said.

Consideration of the bill was indefinitely postponed and thereby killed on motion of Representative Womack of West Carroll by a vote of 52 to 42. The clincher was nailed by Representative Evans.

Warns People Not To Buy Land Before Investigating It

Too many people come to California each year from the farms in the east and middle west and settle on land not suited for their needs, and the result is that a great deal of time and money is wasted, is the information received by W. R. Perkins, director of extension, Louisiana State University from V. C. Bryant, assistant professor of agricultural extension, University of California, in which he solicits co-operation in helping solve the problems.

There is such a wide range of soil, water and climatic conditions in California, all of which are unfamiliar to the settler, that unless there is a definite knowledge of conditions failure is almost certain. In an effort to overcome this Professor Bryant states that the University of California is offering a short course at the University farm school, January 2, 7, especially with the idea of being of service to people desiring to locate on farms in California.

GAYSON HOLDS COMMUNITY FAIR

The first community fair ever held in Caldwell parish took place at Grayson, La., October 6, at which there were approximately 600 persons in attendance. The exhibits were said to be excellent in quality and representative of the good types of livestock and crops grown in the parish. Agricultural products, livestock, poultry, textile work, and canned products comprised the exhibit. The success of the fair is due primarily to the efforts of the farm demonstration agent, H. V. Harris and the teachers of the Grayson high school, who lent a most cordial spirit of co-operation.

According to C. E. Woolman, district agent, and C. C. Chapman, beef cattle specialist, who attended the fair, the people in this community will make the Grayson community fair an annual event, as the first one met with so much interest and satisfaction. The superintendent of Caldwell parish complimented the agent and teachers very highly upon the success of the fair. Dinner was served by members of the domestic science department and a fitting program brought to fair to a successful close.
