"Breathes there a man with soul so dead Who never to himself hath said, This is my own, my native land..."

In an editorial last Saturday, the Clarion made a strong appeal to the "Civic pride" of the town in the cause of progress—our progress, the forward march of Opelousas.

No man, rich or poor, can live in two cities at the same time. Only one town can be "his own." That town then is "his world" and that world will be always what he makes it.

Great cities have not been built by selfish men. We would have no glorious United States today if everybody had been Tories in those days which tried men's souls, before the winning of independence.

Some of our representative citizens will say we cannot do this and we cannot do that, we cannot take a lesson from Lake Charles, or that we cannot take a lesson from Lafayette, because of this and that.

The citizen who is too stingy to spend a cent or some of his energies for his community's progress, is as despicable as the slacker who refuses to fight for his country in the time of need.

"If such there breathe, go, mark him well For him no minstrel raptures swell; High though his titles, proud his name..."

ST. CHARLES COLLEGE TEAM PLAYS LA. STATE NORMAL

Grand Coteau, La., Nov. 16.—In a bitterly contested struggle, marked by flashes of individual brilliancy, St. Charles College of Grand Coteau and Louisiana State Normal fought sixty minutes of play without a score, at Natchitoches on Armistice Day.

Normal won the toss and elected to receive. Crowley kicked off for St. Charles into the face of a light wind, and Kileen for Normal was downed on his thirty-yard mark.

Normal won the toss and elected to receive. Crowley kicked off for St. Charles into the face of a light wind, and Kileen for Normal was downed on his thirty-yard mark.

A series of line plunges, Normal punted to Harrington at St. Charles' thirty yard mark. Smith and Broussard made first down for the Slants on two successive plunges, and on the very next play Crowley dashed around right end for fifty-five yards, placing the ball on Normal's four yard line.

A touchdown seemed inevitable, but the bull dog tenacity, which pervaded Normal's play throughout the game, was very much in evidence at this critical moment.

As a result of this dogged determination, the teachers took possession of the ball a scant six inches from her own goal line.

On the first play, Kileen kicked out of danger. From this point on either team threatened seriously to score, although late in the third period Normal via the forward pass route placed the ball on St. Charles' ten yard line, where the Collegians held for downs, and Crowley kicked out of danger.

The punting of Crowley was easily the feature of the game. His long spiral boots enable his ends to get down under them and tackle the receiver in his tracks.

No punt was one occasion the St. Charles fullback stood on his own fifteen yard line and kicked out of bounds on Normal's three yard line, a distance of eighty-two yards.

Harrington's ability to advance the ball, together with Smith kept the Up Staters continually on the defense. Normal did not seem capable to stop these men but just when St. Charles running attack began to function smoothly, a fumble or intercepted pass rained any opportunity to score.

Capt. Bourgeois played his usual good game on the offense, opening big holes in his opponents' line for his backs to plough through.

On the defense he was a power of strength. The rest of the line gave good accounts of themselves, especially Barry at center, whose roving attack spread gloom over Normal's hopes on many occasions.

Kileen was the driving power for the Teachers. Time and again this big fullback tore through and around St. Charles line for substantial gains.

His forward passings were well nigh perfect. Stafford and F. Smith also played well for Normal.

The Game was remarkably free from roughness, only two penalties marring the excellence department of the contest. Both of these punishments fell to the lot of St. Charles.

St. Charles lined up as follows:

Mouton, L. G.
Barry, C.
Godeau, R. G.
Bourgeois, R. T.
Harrison, R. E.
Harrington, Q. B.
Smith, H. B.
Broussard, H. B.
Crowley, F. B.
