

Graceful Evening Wraps

An evening wrap, to be worn with a variety of evening dresses, may be in a color, but cannot exceed, and rarely equals, a wrap of black satin for elegance and good style. Therefore the evening wrap of black satin is a perennial that comes to bloom with each new season; an institution in the wardrobe.

There are some new weaves in silk, very soft and rich, that have a luster as high as that of satin, and they are competing with it for favor in evening wraps. There is not much choice between them, as they are very much alike in appearance. The new fabrics have the advantage of novelty, while satin has a wonderful record behind it, but whatever the fabric, the styles in wraps made from them are the same.

This season's evening wraps are long and ample, capelike affairs that narrow at the ankles and are as wide as the body. To fulfill their destiny they must be sumptuous looking and graceful. Many of the new models have voluminous collars and some of them have short sleeves.

A beautiful example of the black satin wrap appears in the illustration. It is a loose, short cape with a shawl collar, to which the body of the wrap is joined by an embroidered band. The band is narrow with figures in brilliant colors that remind one of jewels. The same colors are used in the large embroidered disks that adorn the wrap at each side of the front. Even a very youthful bride will be regal looking in a wrap of this kind, especially if she wears a crest of plumes in her hair like Guinevere of old.

Pretty and Practical Negligees

When negligees come up for consideration in the bride's trousseau it is hard to be in the least degree practical. There is so much latitude for this most intimate dress that designers can give free rein to fancy and let it play with the ancient fabrics, the finest laces, crepes and nets, the gayest ribbons and all the lovely little silk and satin flounces that lure them to extravagances. They indulge in many caprices and draw inspiration from all quarters of the world. But there are negligees that are practical as well as pretty and two of them are shown in the picture above.

One of these is a simple, graceful garment, which is very much like the regulation Japanese kimono. But it follows the lines of the figure more closely and has sleeves that are set in, with a point at the top and all seams outlined with a narrow fancy braid. The length of the figure is not broken by a wide sash, as in the Japanese garment, but a narrow girle of satin defines the waistline. This negligee is made of bright-colored satin and cannot be improved upon for a lounging robe.

The negligee at the right of the picture has a platted skirt which is made either of a thin silk or of crepe georgette, and a coatee, in which crepe and plain and printed silks are all combined in a novel way. It has an effect of angel sleeves made by extending the crepe, which forms the short front of the coat, into floating draperies at the back. A silk cord, sometimes put on in loops and sometimes straight, finishes the edges of the crepe and three strands of this cord, are prettily arranged about the neck.

Rhinestone Rage Is With Us.
An evening gown of monotone red satin is trimmed with narrow bands of pale blue velvet spangled with small rhinestones that glitter lights in red and white and purple. These bands tell the story of the rhinestone rage in gaudy dinner gowns, theater party gowns and wraps—and even the toilettes for demure afternoon teas.

Colored Hose in Demand.
Owing to the number of different colors in the new lines of woman's shoes, the demand for colored silk hosiery has been greatly increased.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

THE PET DOGS.

"There were five dogs," said Daddy, "who belonged to a boy named Jack."

"What were their names?" asked Nancy.

"How could he have ever thought of so many names?" asked Nick.

"They were all named," said Daddy, "and I will tell you their names in the order in which their sizes ran."

"Brutus was the largest of all. He was a big Newfoundland dog. Next came Bogi, another Newfoundland dog, but not so large as Brutus."

"Third came Patty, an Irish terrier. Then came Ouzi, a cocker spaniel, and last came Susy, a little hunting dog. When they all stood together they looked like a flight of stairs, and just as though one could walk from Susy right up to Brutus."

"Ah," said Patty, "I see something coming my way."

"All the other dogs looked and Patty said, 'There is a bug and I'm going to catch it. I'm going to snap it up and swallow it down and enjoy it thoroughly.'

"But the bug said to itself, 'I'll play a joke on that dog.' And the bug did play a joke, a very mean joke."

"Patty snapped at the bug and then was about to swallow it when she had gotten the bug on her tongue, when what should that mean bug do but turn itself over so it attached itself to Patty's tongue, and so Patty couldn't swallow it or eat it or anything!

"Poor Patty! And the bug hurt! 'Oh, what shall we do?' Brutus said, as he looked at Patty out of his sad eyes, for Brutus was very kind even though he was such a great big dog and so strong."

"Then Brutus had a fine idea. He ran for Jack, for he had seen Jack go to a nearby field to play baseball. 'He ran just as hard as he could and when he reached the field he didn't even notice the baseball which had just been hit with the bat.'

"The boys were awfully frightened for a moment as they thought Brutus might get hit by accident with the hard ball, and they called out to him, but Brutus wasn't thinking of being afraid of anything."

"But luckily the ball didn't hit Brutus, and Brutus went right on up to his master, barking, and showing by his eyes that he wanted to have Jack follow him."

"I guess Brutus wants me for something," said Jack, "for he wouldn't come to the baseball field if it weren't for something important."

"So Jack ran quickly home, following Brutus. There he found Patty with the bug on her tongue and feeling most uncomfortable."

"Jack quickly took the bug off and then Patty no longer looked sick and miserable."

"She jumped up on Jack and wagged her tail and her eyes looked very glad and happy as she tried to thank her master. And then she did quite the sweetest thing ever a dog did. She suddenly seemed to know that Brutus was the one who had done everything."

"Jack had come quickly when Brutus had called him, for Jack was always so good to his pets, and Jack had been able to take the bug off her tongue because he had nice useful hands."

"But Patty knew that it was Brutus who had gone for Jack, and Brutus who had brought him back so quickly. 'And Patty went over to Brutus, looking so small beside the great big Newfoundland dog and she licked Brutus' paws and sat down before him and rolled over on the grass, saying to Brutus that she was a very grateful, happy, little dog.'

"Brutus licked her, too, to show he was glad he had been able to help her, and all the other dogs played around so joyfully."

"And then, for a special treat, every one of them had a bone, and Jack gave himself a piece of cake!" ended Daddy.

Getting Started.

What school life does for us is to get us started. The girl who talks of "finishing" an education is heard from less frequently than she used to be. For, even the young realize that the owner of a college diploma is little more than started on an education. If in school we learn to work sincerely and systematically, if we acquire logical habits of thinking, as well as methodical habits of work, we have made a good start. If, on the contrary, we shirk wherever we can, we are starting wrong.—Girl's Companion.

FOR TIGHTNESS IN THE CHEST

Theford's Black-Draught, Says Kentucky Lady, Is Excellent For Breaking Up a Cold.

Elgin, Ky.—Mrs. Albert Albright, who has lived here many years, says: "I use Black-Draught as a laxative. It is splendid for breaking up colds. I have used it for a bad cold and tightness in the chest. One cup of good warm tea made from Black-Draught I found most helpful. It makes the liver act and gives almost instant relief."

This spring my little daughter began having chills, the hard, shaking kind. After the chills her fever would rise and her head would ache. We are a good ways from the doctor, so I just began giving her good doses of Black-Draught and it cured her. She is in good health, has a good color, and her appetite is all right. So of course we consider Black-Draught as unsurpassed for a family medicine."

Don't wait until you have headache, sick stomach, indigestion, or other disagreeable symptoms, but take an occasional dose of Black-Draught to help keep your system free from poison, your body in good health.

Made from purely vegetable ingredients, Black-Draught acts in a gentle, natural way, and has no bad after-effects. It may be safely taken by young and old.

A Bloodless Duel.

If the new fashion of sending challenges to be fought out in the air becomes general, duels, like other luxuries, will become very costly.

In pre-war days Parisians used to reckon that $4 would cover the expenses incidental to a duel, though, to do things in style, considerably more had to be spent.

Aurelien Scholl, the boulevardier journalist, relates that a man whom he knew as a frequenter of his favorite cafe sent a challenge and borrowed one hundred francs from Scholl for expenses. He never saw his money again. "The duel proved bloodless," says Scholl. "I was the only person touched."

Wise Decision.

"Did Mr. Grabcoen refuse you the hand of his daughter?"

"Not in so many words," said young Dubson, "but when I asked him how he would regard me as a prospective son-in-law, he asked me if I had ever heard him express his opinion of the kaiser."

"Well?"

"Not being quite as foolish as I looked, I decided right then and there that it was time for me to be on my way."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

THE MOST DANGEROUS OF ALL DISEASES

No organs of the human body are so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they slow up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Danger is in sight. Find out what the trouble is—without delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back, wake up at once. Your kidneys need help.
