ONLY SIX JURORS ACCEPTED IN CASE AGAINST CARRIERE

Opelousas, La., Oct. 24.—Only six jurors have been accepted in the case against Eli (Hiliare) Carriere, charged with the murder of Sheriff Marion L. Swords, of St. Landry parish, last July, when the first day of his trial ended tonight, but it was expected that the selection of the jury would be completed Wednesday. Objections were renewed to-night by the defense when court convened to proceeding with the trial because of alleged failure of the jury commissioners to comply with the law, but the objection was over-ruled and to this the defense filed a bill of exceptions.

The jurors accepted are: Hypolite Meche, of Coulee Croche. Evans Fontenot of Garland. Albert Fisher of Waxia, farmer. Will Lavergne, of Bellevue, farmer. D. A. Carson, 61, Opelousas. Armstrong Smith, of Arnaudville.

The defense used three of its twelve peremptory challenges, while many of the talesmen were excused for cause. Carriere appeared to retain his composure throughout the day.

Carriere was brought into court at 9:06 a. m. by Sheriff Fontenot. Corner Littell and Jailor Frank Douca. He appeared as composed and debonair as ever, with his curly hair hanging a bit lower on his forehead, and with the inevitable cigars and pencils sticking out of his pocket. On taking his seat he found a further reinforcement to his array of councils.

The latest was introduced to the court as Robert W. Greene, an attorney from Beaumont, Texas. It is understood Mr. Greene was retained largely because of his ability to speak and understand French, the language of a number of the witnesses.

After the morning hour a poll of the petit jurors was taken. Eleven had been excused by Judge Pavy for the legal reasons of being over sixty-years of age, sickness or inability to sufficiently understand the English language. The courtroom was then only half filled, but rapidly filling with the curious but quiet crowd, mostly men.

AGRICULTURE A PROFESSION

That the farms of the country will eventually pass to the ownership of those who can use them best is the opinion expressed the other day by a well known rural life investigator. This means that the men who know best how to manage a farm will eventually be the men who own one, and that farming must become better as all farmers learn to use something other than their hands.

Two generations hence agriculture in the United States must be a profession. The man who owns and operates a farm will be the man trained in a professional school, just as a doctor, a lawyer, a teacher—and lately a newspaper man—is trained in a professional school. There will be no law passed requiring him to pass a professional examination before he is given a license to practice the profession of agriculture but there will be an economic law that will force him to give over to others who can manage a man's sized job better than he can, if he cannot do it well.—Minnesota Farm Review.

TRAINED AGE WINS OVER UNSEASONED YOUTH

Santo Domingo, October—In a test of endurance, conducted by Lieutenant Kingston of the United States Marine in Haiti to determine the staying powers of his men, one hundred and eighteen men, ranging in age from nineteen to fifty-two and carrying the regulation field equipment, were given the test of ascending a steep mountain path, approximately eight miles within a two-hour limit.

Eighty-four men accomplished the feat in the prescribed time, and of those, 20 per cent were veterans of forty-four years and over. The average age of those who succeeded was twenty-nine years, while the percentage of the tender foot recruits among the losers reduced their average to twenty-four years. This experiment strengthens the theory of many that trained middle-age rivals unseasoned youths.

All you who have torpid liver, weak digestion or constipated bowels look out for chills. The season is here and the air is full of disease germs. ### STORE COWPEAS IN POD TO PROTECT AGAINST WEEVIL

Under ordinary conditions, the best way to store cowpeas is in the pod. They should be thoroughly dried and if there is not a considerable of weevils in them already, it will hardly be necessary to treat them for weevil protection. If the weevil are present in considerable numbers it will be well to fumigate them with carbon bisulphide for twenty-four hours, using a pound of carbon bisulphide to one thousand feet of store room. The store room, of course, must have tight walls, or have them made tight by pasting paper over the cracks. A very common way is to get barrels and fill them with peas, shaking them down thoroughly, but not tramping them enough to break the pods. The pods serve as a protection for the peas, with the weevil, then, then, then, and then.

If the peas are badly infested with the weevil, then it would be advisable to thresh them and preserve them in sacks or barrels after they have been fumigated to kill the weevil that are in them already.—Extension Division, Louisiana State University.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS

Occasionally some play strikes a note that rings out clear and true in the midst of the commonplace and impresses its auditor with the thought that it was written not for gain, not for past time, but because some man had something to say to other men and he took this means of expression.

"The Shepherd of the Hills", Harold Bell Wright's dramatization of his novel of the same name, is this kind of play. Mr. Wright had felt within his soul the peace and beauty of the hills and he wished to set down their meaning before him. He made a play that in plot is compelling, one that never fails in sincerity. The people who move in it are so human that the auditor will pick them out for like and dislike as if he really knows them.

There is the Shepherd, the man who came to the hills to learn, and remained there to teach; Old Matt, who cherished the memory of a wrong that could never be righted; Young Matt, a Hercules of the hills country, whose strength of heart and soul equaled the strength of his body; Sammy Lane, bright and bouyant with the youth of the hill country, and the other quaint characters that enliven the play with humor.

The scene of the play is in the high hills of the Ozark mountains. The mists of the valleys, the glories of the sunset, the magnificent vistas from the summits have been brought out by the wonderful ingenuity of the scenic artist and electrician's craft. It is the spirit of the land that Mr. Wright has caught that makes the play one that is unique and one that stands in a field of its own.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" will be the attraction at the Evangeline, one night only, Sunday, November 12th.

The enormous popularity of the Harold Bell Wright's novels indicates that the second annual engagement of this, his first play, will prove a greater popular success with patrons of this house, than it did on its initial appearance last season.

Some Things That Are New

A novel fan that resembles the familiar electric affair is driven by a hot-air engine in its base, gas or denatured alcohol being the fuel used.

The capacity of a clothesline is doubled by a new device that straddles the line and provides two pieces of wire to which clothes can be fastened.

A cheap imitation of tinfoil is made in Germany by coating paper with a mixture of finely-powdered metal and resin and subjecting it to friction.

A noiseless bowling alley is the invention of a Parisian, the clash of falling pins being silenced.

Waterproof electric flashlights for night use are a recent invention.

Harness to suspend a basket from a fruit picker's shoulders and leave both hands free has been invented.

A Frenchman has mounted a bicycle frame on a sled to drive it over ice or snow with an aerial propeller.

Transoms can be raised and lowered like a window shade with a device an Oregon inventor has patented.

Neuralgia of the face, shoulder, hands or feet requires a powerful remedy that will penetrate the flesh. BALLARD'S SNOW LINIMENT possesses that power. Rubbed in where the pain is felt is all that is necessary to relieve suffering and restore normal conditions. Price 25c, 50c, and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Belanger Drug Co.

U-53 Reported Sunk

Boston, Oct. 24.—Captain Tudor, of the British steamship Hochelaga, which arrived today from Louisburg, said that before he left Nova Scotia persistent rumors were reported that the German U-53 had been sunk off Sidney by the Canadian patrol boat Stanley. Captain Tudor said that no mention was made of the fate of the submarine's crew. The U-53 is the German submarine who visited the United States a few days ago, and on leaving the territorial waters sank several ships.
