TRUMPHAL "ARCH OF THE SETTING SUN" PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

Copyright, 1914, by Panama Pacific International Exposition Company.

Triumphal Arch of the Setting Sun, 160 feet high, at the western entrance to the Court of the Universe, the largest of the courts of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco. This colossal arch reveals the magnitude of the vast exposition. Crowning the arch is a magnificent group of sculpture, "The Nations of the West." In the center of the group is a great prairie schooner, drawn by oxen, bearing "The Mother of Tomorrow" and two lads, "The Hopes of the Future." A figure of "Enterprise" surmounts the wagon top. By the sides are figures representing the American Indian, the plainsman, the Mexican and the Alaskan. The sculptors were A. Stirling Calder, Frederick G. R. Roth and Leo Lentelli. The exposition opens February 20, 1915.

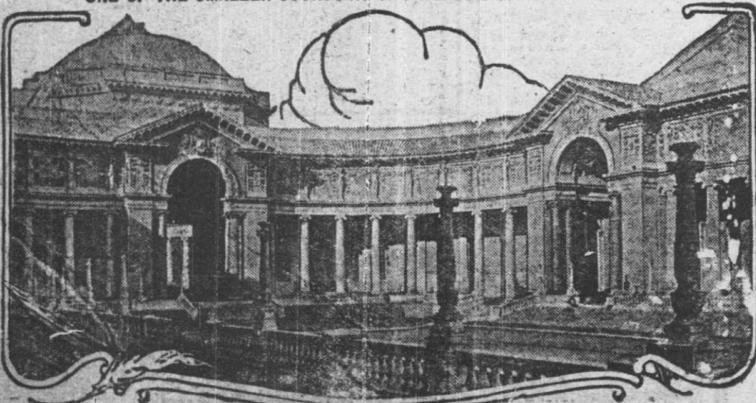

GIANT PALACE OF EDUCATION MIRRORED IN LAGOON BEFORE PALACE OF FINE ARTS

The vast Palace of Education, where the world's greatest nations will show the progress of their schools at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, 1915. The lagoon shown separates it from the Palace of Fine Arts. The Palace of Education measures 394 by 526 feet, has a floor area of 205,100 square feet and cost $394,265. Over the main entrance is seen the Half-Dome of Philosophy. At the left is the corner of the Palace of Food Products.

ONE OF THE SMALLER COURTS AT THE WORLD'S GREATEST EXPOSITION

The exquisite Court of Palms as it appeared during the latter part of October, 1914. This court opens through the archway seen on the left of the picture into the great west Court of the Four Seasons, Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, 1915. The court is adorned with wonderful mural paintings and sculptures.

Citizen Aswell Opposes Hobson Bill, Stating Reasons Why

Louisiana Representative Believes Measure Would Lead to Federal Domination

Special to the Times:

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Representative Aswell, of Louisiana, before voting in the house tonight against the Hobson resolution for national prohibition, declared he was not ready yet to repudiate the doctrine of state's rights.

"I do not want to be a party" he said, "to the humiliating conditions which we probably would follow, should the Republicans again get control of the government, of having an army of negro officers enforcing the federal laws in my own state. I would not endanger the southern people again with negro rule, through the police power of the federal government."

"Seventy-eight of my district is dry," continued Mr. Aswell, "but my people would not have me desert the teachings of our Democratic fathers."

Favors Local Option.

In the campaign for governor of Louisiana, I committed myself to the principles of local self-government and local option. I yield to no man in my stand in the open on the side of clean living and good morals on all public questions. The Hobson resolution proposes to permit individuals to make wine, beer and whiskey for their own consumption and to transport or import liquor for their own use. It does not even seek to prohibit the use of liquor; it rather encourages the use by individuals by making it cheaper. It does not prohibit the manufacture, the transportation, the importation, or the use of liquor. "I have always voted, whenever the opportunity presented itself, for local prohibition, but I shall vote against the Hobson resolution, because I am not willing to give the federal government the power of police control in the states, which would necessarily be the result of the passage of this resolution."

"I shall vote against this resolution for the same reasons that I shall vote against the proposed suffrage amendment to the constitution. They are both state matters."

"A national political issue should not be made of a local moral question so grave and serious. The man who reads this resolution through thoughtfully, will note that it befuddles the prohibition question with numerous 'for sale' phrases and misleads the people by making them believe. It is a vast political scheme to which I cannot subscribe, gotten up for personal and lecture purposes. This resolution plays the game of politics with a local moral question in a manner that should make some prominent men here blush with shame."

Our Splendid Tasting and Salubrious Water In Demand in Shreveport.

There is a certain gentleman of Shreveport who has been making visits to Natchitoches for a long time and among the things that he always wants when he gets here and thoroughly enjoys, is our splendid water that ranks according to government tests, third best in the United States, the almost perfect health of the whole community being a proof of its purity and salubriousness.

Recently, this gentleman brought his wife here on a visit and spent a week, and a few days after his return he wrote to a friend here enclosing a money order with the request that a gallon or two of our splendid water be sent to his wife and himself.
