The Lesche

When at the last meeting the club accepted an invitation to meet at Mrs. Scarborough's home, the members anticipated that an unusually good time was in store for them and the realization exceeded the anticipation.

There was quite a bit of business to dispose of; amendments to the constitution, that were proposed at last meeting acted upon, limiting the membership and imposing of fines for non attendance, tardiness and failure to perform allotted part on program, voting upon names of new members, hearing the report of delegates to District Federation meeting in Alexandria last week, then the chair was turned over to Mrs. Scarborough, leader of the evening.

The lesson was "In Camera", the story being told by Miss Varnado; The Plot, Mrs. Snell; Character Sketch of Alphin, Mrs. M. C. Cunningham; The Hero, Mrs. Alleman and an informal discussion participated in by everybody, after which delicious brick cream and homemade cakes were served by the gracious hostess assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Shaffer, Miss Carmen Breazeale and Mrs. Snell; and some time spent in social intercourse before the Lesche adjourned until the last Monday in April, when Miss Newell's invitation to meet at her home was cordially accepted.

Cotton—and Hogs

The farmer who grows ten acres of poor cotton and, at the end of the year, owes it all for hog and hominy doesn't put much money into the bank.

The farmer who grows five acres of good cotton and raises corn and hogs to feed his family on the other five can, at the end of the year, bank his cotton money as clear profit.

He's the farmer the American Cotton Association stands for—the farmer this bank wants to do business with.

The American Cotton Association encourages diversified farming instead of the old all-cotton system, so that every cotton farm in the South may become self-sustaining through the production each year of ample supplies of food and food crops.

Cotton—and Hogs will make money for all of us in the South—and will make every bank account fat.

Albania is probably the only country in the world where a wife can be purchased on the installment plan just like a piano or encyclopedia. In Albania a partial payment of the girl desired is paid the parents when the engagement takes place after which she is no longer offered for sale but set aside like any article until the final instalment has been paid when she is delivered to her purchaser. An appreciable number of Germans are appearing among the immigrants to the United States,
