Some Fun!

Some bit of excitement was caused Saturday night when for the first time a noble steed fully accoutred in the paraphernalia of the Ku Klux, bearing a rider in the full regalia of that order, dashed down Front street, which was very crowded as is always the case at that hour.

Everybody waited for what would follow this advance guard, some in fear and trembling because of the dreaded advent of this muchly-depised order, from which our self-respecting, law abiding city had been free until then, but the majority had no fear for more reasons than one, while the quick witted ones immediately realized it was a clever disguise of one of the Girl Scouts who were entertaining the Boy Scouts with a masquerade and fancy dress ball at the Armory, and on mischief bent decided to have a little special fun on her own account which she not only had herself but furnished to many and much excitement as a whole.

Sutton-Caspari

The culmination of a pretty romance of long standing came in the nature of a great surprise when it was learned that Miss Nita Caspari and Mr. George Sutton were married in New Orleans Friday night in the presence of Mrs. Jos. Caspari, aunt of the bride, and Dr. Robert Potts, a family friend.

Mrs. Sutton is the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Caspari, a charming and attractive young lady, and the happy groom, a nephew of Mr. D. C. Scarborough, while a Texas boy, has made his home in Natchitoches so many years while a faithful and trusted employe of the T. & P. that Natchitoches proudly claims him as her own.

The Enterprise extends congratulations and best wishes for a bright, successful and happy future.

SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Tuesday Bridge Club

The hallow'en idea was most attractively carried out in the floral decorations, huge lighted pumpkins, score cards, and little pumpkin favors, the clever work of the artistic second daughter of the house, Miss Gladys, when Mrs. Phanor Breazeale entertained her club and several guests very delightfully Tuesday afternoon of last week.

Mrs. Bath scored highest and was awarded a lovely Phillipino robe de nuit; Mrs. L. DeBlieux, second, a handsome handmade luncheon set, and Miss Carmen Breazeale, the consolation, a pretty novelty neck guard and ornament.

A delicious turkey luncheon with dressing, salad, jelly, olives, tea and hot buttered individual rolls, nut fudge and mints was served to the members and guests: Mmes. Phillips, D. J. and F. Hyams, C. L. Breazeale and Miss Carmen Breazeale.

A Tam O'Shanta Party

The lovely old J. Aithaud Prudhomme home at Bermuda was verily "a house of a thousand candles" when it was thrown open Thursday afternoon of last week for the first time in many decades for the purpose of entertainment, as it was closed during the many years that its owners made their home in Baltimore, and only the past year that its mistress returned and Mrs. Phillip Cloutier, who with her husband and children is now living with her aunt, entertained in appreciation of the many courtesies shown her since returning to her old home.

The soft glow of the candles in the wonderful old candelabras threw in relief the dado of black cats, witches, and tiny pumpkins that hung from the mantel, and great bowls of marigolds and grotesque featured pumpkins, when suddenly a dainty young witch appeared upon the scene and hup presto, changed when the draperies, which were attractive score cards, were distributed, the winsome little daughter of the house, Marie Celine, was disclosed.

The game of rapid euchre was hotly contested and finally resulted in Miss Vera Prudhomme capturing the first prize, a silver sandwich basket; Mrs. E. Cloutier, second, a pretty etched glass sandwich plate; Mrs. E. C. Prudhomme's black cat gave her the handsome consolation, a sugar and cream etched glass set, and Miss Una Prudhomme, booby, a glass flower basket.

The luncheon board was most attractive with bright little pumpkins filled with corn (mints) for favors, and a delicious menu of creamed chicken on toast, potato chips and pineapple salad on lettuce with mayonnaise and raisins, saltines and tea.

The guests who enjoyed this delightful party were Mmes. J. Alphonse, Phanor, E. C. and L. Prudhomme, Cockfield, C. E., E. C., E. and I. Cloutier, Misses Lambre, F., U. and L. Prudhomme of Bermuda, Mmes. Rachel and Alcocke of Natchez, Dismukes, Tom Prudhomme, Fair Hyams, Carr, Bishop, Drangnet, Lawton, Desire and C. L. Breazeale, and Miss Vera Prudhomme of Natchitoches.

Lesche

With the exception of very few practically the full membership braved the inclement weather, Monday night and enjoyed not only a splendid program but a delightful social hour at its close with Mrs. Phanor Breazeale as hostess.

After the regular routine business which Mrs. W. T. Cunningham secretary, conducted in the absence of Mrs. Roy president, who is attending the State Federation convention in New Orleans, she called upon the chairman of the Mutual Aid, Historic and Community Welfare chapters of Lesche, to give a resume of their year's accomplishments as sent to the S. F. W. C.; then a petition asking the Mayor to prohibit the coming of certain types of Street Fairs to Natchitoches because of their demoralizing effect, was unanimously endorsed, several new names presented for membership after which the chair was turned over to Mrs. Weiss, leader of the evening who reversed her program and gave the last number, The Evening Stars first. These Stars were Messrs. Proudft, Alleman, E. L. and C. B. McClung, who sang "Believe Me of All Those Enduring Young Charms" and "Mammy's Little Chile" most delightfully, then Echoes of The War in England was given by Mrs. Weiss who presented Barrie and his plays most entertainingly as did Mrs. Good whose Hero Worship, interpreting Drinkwater's Abraham Lincoln and Miss Hughes, the same topic interpreting Crane's Will Shakespeare were most interesting.

"The Sun," a one act drama was very cleverly presented in costume by Miss Bryan and Mmes. Hughes and Brown and ended a most enjoyable program after which delicious chicken salad on lettuce hearts, olives, saltines, hot chocolate with whipped cream and stuffed dates, divinity, fudge and coconut candies were bountifully served by the gracious hostess and some time spent enjoying these dainties in the beautiful flower decked parlors before adjourning at a late hour.
