Did you enjoy Christmas?
How did Santa Claus treat you?
The Fire Co's. Ball for to-night.

New Years day will be the next grand occasion.

The New Orleans minstrels are billed to play to-night.

The railroads are doing an immense holiday business.

The next thing in order—the usual new year resolutions.

The inclement weather during the latter part of last week made the Holiday sales smaller than they would otherwise have been.

The Firemen's Ball to-night is for the purpose of raising funds to reorganize the Fire Department in order to protect your property. Don't forget that feature.

The excursion to New Orleans will leave on January 7th, from Arnaudville, stay in New Orleans until the 10th, on which date it will leave at 7:30 a. m. sharp. Here is a chance for a cheap excursion.

WANTED — Honest man or woman to travel for large house; salary $65 monthly and expenses; with increase; position permanent; inclose self-addressed stamped envelope. MANAGER, 330 Caxton bldg., Chicago.

The New Orleans Minstrels will exhibit here to-day (Wednesday). They were to have performed on Thursday evening last, but the weather was such that they cancelled the engagement, and will return to fill it this evening.

There were a large number of boys and young men out on Christmas night fighting each other with fireworks, and the result was a few fights that laid some up for repairs. Cannot boys learn to enjoy themselves without acting like a lot of would-be toughs?

Belle Isle has had a safe robbery, some one who knew the combination took out six hundred and odd dollars and hid a part of it under a pile of salt where it was found, some four hundred and twenty dollars. The Superintendent has the party who did the work and is trying to pump the balance out of him.—Morgan City Ind. Dem.

—On last Thursday night Mr. B. J. Pellerin the winner of the piano offered a punch to the members of Home Fire Co., which was greatly enjoyed by those present. A number of toasts were made and then to crown the occasion, the members of Home Fire Co., presented to the editor of this paper a neat engraved gold charm with diamond for his generous help on Dec. 7th.—Lafayette Advertiser.

Go to the Firemen's Ball to-night.

The merchants report a large trade preceding Christmas.

The stuffing was "knocked out" of many turkeys on Christmas.

The I. O. O. F. Lodge will hold a special session to-morrow night. Members are requested to attend.

If a person has a sincere wish to make a friend feel happy on Christmas, why not practice it all the year long?

Salesman. High rated factory appointment on uncovered ground. Free samples. Some with us many years. Corporation, P. O., 1371, New York.

The children of the Episcopal Sunday School will be given a Christmas tree at the City Hall on Thursday evening, Dec. 28th, at 6 o'clock. Parents and friends are invited.

The effects of Santa Claus' visits were visible upon the faces of many children Christmas day. It made many older people feel as though they would like to be children again.

We see by the column of the Thibodeaux Comet that the town Council has decided not to keep the electric lights running after mid-night on the grounds that its revenues from lights do not justify the expense.

Hon. Peter J. Otey of Virginia in a speech on the Financial Bill December 16, last week quoted the following:

"Here lies old Thirty-three per cent. The more he got the more he lent. The more he lent the more he craved Good Lord, can such a soul be saved?"

Prof. A. J. Dupuy informs us that he has engaged the Black Mopul Female Minstrels, of New Iberia to play here on January 5th, for the benefit of the high school. This troupe played to a large house in New Iberia several weeks ago and have since been in Abbeville.—Iberia Parish Times.

Next year we may expect to read something like the following in the daily paper: About ten o'clock this morning a horseless milk wagon loaded with cowless milk collided with a brainless rider on a chainless wheel. The luckless wheelman was badly injured; and being homeless, he was taken in a horseless cab to the home for the friendless. West-lake Herald.

Miss Sourface (to tramp)—Did you ever have a romance in your life?

Tramp—Yes, mum; I had a sweet-heart once dat looked like you.

Miss Sourface (cutting out another piece of pie)—And did she die?

Tramp—No, mum. Me fadder wanted me to marry her, so I run away from home.—Baltimore American.

Breaux Bridge, La., Dec. 16, '99. Mr. E. F. MILLARD, New Iberia:

Dear Sir and Friend: I take this as an act of informing my friends and parents of New Iberia and vicinity that, I will return to Iberia, at Christmas and will be prepared to do any and all kind of Dental work, for a limited time as I propose to locate permanently here in the future
Very truly yours,
C. C. DELHOMME, D. D. S.

The Cote Blanche Plantation, owned by Messrs. M. Bloch and Louis Levy, was sold to Mr. Lazard Levy, last Tuesday for $30,500. This is the second time that the place has changed hands this year. Cote Blanche is one of the most attractive places in the parish in many respects. It is very interesting from the fact that salt and ore are supposed to be there in great quantities, although no active investigation has ever been made. With an outlay of some money this place could probably be made a fine summer resort for this section of Louisiana.

This is the season of the year for investments and land speculations. The price of all real estate has advanced over last year. This does not seem to be a hard year on cane growers.—Franklin Vindicator-News.

"Newspaper publicity we believe to be the greatest lever in the world for praising anything or anybody into prominence. It can't prove a failure if done properly."—Chas. B. Cook' Adv. Mgr. of Pozzoni's Complexion Powder, in "The Advertising Man."

Messrs R. C. Sealy Jr. and Jerry C. Fuller Jr. have purchased the Lafayette and will take possession of it on the first. The deal was made through Mr. H. S. Sealy who is an expert in laundry work. We hope these two young gentlemen will succeed beyond their expectations in Lafayette, and see no reason why they should not do so. Mr. James Pollard will go up to Lafayette with them.

Heard on the street: "Going to the Big Ball to-night, Jim?"

"Naw."

"Why not?"

"Got no use for 'em. Don't dance."

"Say Jim, 'spose your house was on fire, you'd want a fire department to save it if possible would'nt you?"

"Yes, cert. Of course."

"Well, unless we have a fire department how can organized fight be made to save your house. The best time to fight that fire is right now before it catches, see?"

"Believe I do. I'll go."

Thieves last night entered the residence of Mr. W. O. Bunch and robbed it of some articles belonging to Mrs. F. V. Peale, his sister-in-law. This work was done early in the evening in fact before ten o'clock. This would go to show that the thieves were aware of the absence of Mr. Bunch, and knew that the house is not occupied in the early evening. They broke the lock of a trunk belonging to Mrs. Peale and ransacked its articles.

We advise every one to be prepared to meet these rascals at any and all times and, we feel that they deserve but little clemency.

A young lady was acting temporarily as hostess, and her time was much occupied. One of her admirers, a nervous and absent-minded lover, perceived that this would be the case, and to facilitate matters, he determined to bring affairs to a point. He didn't get a chance.

"Afterward," says the object of his ill-starred devotion, "I found this memorandum on the floor, where he had dropped it in his agitation. It reads thus:

"Mention rise in salary. Mention lonesomeness. Mention pleasure in hersociety. Mention prospect's from Uncle Jim. Never loved before. Propose."

Mr Freddy Lietermeyer arrived Saturday on the evening's train from Bay St. Louis, where he has been attending College. Mr. Lietermeyer expects to leave on the first and his many friends are sorry to hear of his departure.

"Waited on, miss?"

"No. I wish to see some gloves."

"Gloves? Certainly! Twenty-four! Show this lady our latest arrivals in gloves."

Number 24 uncover's a brown box. "Here they are! Genuine three-button French kids. To-day they are advertised for $1.90. Worth more."

"They are not exactly what I wished."

"Oh, I see! You prefer a pique glove. Examine these?"

"I did not say a word about pique gloves."

"You are right! It's my mistake. You said suede. Here they are, on this case. Threeclasp?"

"Did you hear me say suede, young man?"

"Well, er—that is, I couldn't say exactly. You may have said mocha. I think, now, you said mocha. Here they are in the latest effects. Fleece-line. Extremely comfortable. Should I wrap these up?"

"No, sir, I don't wish any mocha—"

"Is it possible! Here I have been under the impression that you wished mocha gloves, and it turns out that you wish something entirely different. It just shows, miss, how we can get incorrect ideas. But at last we have a mutual understanding. You wish an astakhan fleece-lined kid? Just examine these gloves, under that skylight."

"I don't wish them!"

"Don't wish these? Is it possible? Miss, did you say anything about cashmere gloves?"

"Not a word!"

"And you didn't wish to see any mittens?"

"No. I didn't!"

"Well, miss, would you please be so kind as to designate the exact style of gloves you are looking for?"

"I would have done so long ago if you had only given me the chance to get in a word edgewise. I wish to look at a heavy, coarse pair of teamster's gloves. I am going to give them to our ashman as a Christmas present. He is the most accommodating ashman in the city. You just ought meet him. But have you any gloves in that line?"

"No! Go to a tanner's and have a pair tanned to order." Then he turned on his heel and strode up to the other end of his counter.
