

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY

CAPTAIN BOB OF THE NAT'L GUARD

2000---TROOPS IN ACTION---2000

MOVING PICTURE ACTOR HERE

By special engagement, Captain Robert R. Reynolds will be present here personally with this picture. The remarkable part about this feature is that the scenario was written, the photoplay directed, and the leading role acted by one and the same person, to wit: Captain Reynolds. At this particular engagement the movie fans of this city will have for the first time an opportunity of seeing in REAL life a moving picture star as well as seeing him in REEL life. Mr. Reynolds is today the only Southerner, other than Thomas Dixon, successfully engaged in the production of motion pictures as well as enjoying the distinction of being the youngest writer-director-actor in America.

SOUVENIR DAY AT ELKS THEATRE

Announcement is made to the effect that every lady attending the Elks Theatre on Wednesday, Jan. 26, at the presentation of that supreme photoplay CAPTAIN BOB OF THE NATIONAL GUARD will be presented a silk American flag as a souvenir on this occasion. These appropriate souvenirs are presented by the Special Features Film Producing Company of America, Inc. in keen appreciation of the courtesies extended by Secretary of War Garrison, Secretary of Navy Josephus Daniels, General Leonard Wood, and General A. L. Mills who is Chief of the Division of Militia Affairs, all of whom appear in this remarkable production along with the Governor of the State of North Carolina who portrayed the role of "The Governor" in the masterpiece.

of the Serial stock, we might hope for a slight increase of dividend. The Serial loans were made at an interest rate of six per cent, the premium deducted and divided at the time of making the loan. Hence, when the change was made from the Serial to the Dayton plan, these loans continued to bear six per cent interest. As our Dayton loans are bearing eight per cent interest and the Serial loans only six per cent interest, after deducting the expense of the Association we have a six per cent dividend. When our loans are all made on an eight per cent basis, then we feel that, after deducting expenses, providing for a contingent fund, etcetera, there will be a dividend slightly better than six per cent in store for the stockholders.

During the year it has become necessary to acquire by foreclosure and otherwise, in satisfaction of loans, eight separate pieces of property. Of these, five have been sold, leaving three of the properties still in the hands of the Association. These three properties are all rented. We have other properties on our hands, but several of them are rented. The stockholders, being familiar with conditions in our City, will readily understand that it does not pay the Association to hold or to rent property. It is our policy to dispose of this property as soon as we can do so, but, in this interim, to keep it occupied, even if at a low rent. An unoccupied property is depreciated in value; while, if a property is rented, we can sometimes interest the tenant in becoming the proprietor.

Five losses figure somewhat larger than is usual are shown in our statement. While none of these losses have been very large, the adjustment have invariably been satisfactory, demonstrating the utility of the insurance contract, which yearly grows in favor with your directors.

The usual annual dividend of six per cent, compounded semi-annually, was declared on both the Serial and the Dayton Stock. The interest on Paid Up Stock was at five per cent.

The conclusion allow me to say that much of the early success of the Iberia Building Association, its steady growth and substantial foundation, was, and is, due to the loyalty of its membership and to their enthusiasm in the same. Your Association today is in a position to handle far more business than is carried on our books, and offers a loan unequalled in this section in its liberality. By familiarizing yourselves with the terms of this loan, with the methods of our Association and its advantages, you can materially benefit any of your friends who are about to borrow, by directing them to the Association office where full explanation will be given. You will also be adding to your profits, because a much greater volume of business can be handled at practically no additional expense. From a stand point of self-interest, if for no other reason, become a Booster for your Association. It is mutual in the strictest sense of the term, and in its upbuilding you are adding to the growth of the community and strengthening an institution with an honorable record of thirty years.

After the reading of the above paper the holding of the election for selecting a new board of directors was announced in order, when Mr. A. A. DeBlanc placed in nomination the entire old board. As there were no other nominations, on Mr. DeBlanc's further motion, the old board was re-elected for 1916 by a rising vote and without opposition. The result was as follows: F. F. Millard, re-elected as a director for his 27th year's service; A. H. Trotter, for his 21st year; J. A. Fagot, for his 19th year; Lazard King, for his 15th year; W. J. Bernard, for his 10th year; Max Levy, for his 4th year; and A. Daigre, for his 3rd year.

A resolution of thanks to the old board of directors was proposed and adopted, expressing the appreciation of the stockholders of their past services. The annual meeting then adjourned sine die.

On Wednesday evening, the date for the second meeting in January, the old board of directors met and concluded their work. Then the board reorganized for their 1916 work as follows: President, E. F. Millard. Vice-President, J. A. Fagot. President Pro Tem, Lazard King. Secretary, W. G. Weeks, Salary $2500.

Allowance for Clerical Assistance, $1200. Secretary's Bond, $10 000; Sureties, E. T. Weeks and John M. Weeks.

Last Monday evening when two of our charming girls were getting their wraps ready to take their departure from Hotel Frederic where they had attended the Dance, two sets of lovely furs were missing. The alarm was given, and it was not long ere they were traced to the S. P. Depot. The suspected man's grip was searched, and the lost furs found. The man who gave his name as Hammond and his occupations as that of piano tuner, was promptly arrested and jailed on a charge of theft.

THINGS YOU DON'T KNOW.

We of today often admire the knowledge displayed by our friends and our neighbors, and occasionally we may entertain a slight conception of that which we ourselves possess.

But we are not prone to speak of or to admit of those things that we don't know.

For instance— You don't know when the war will end.

You don't know which side will be the victors.

You don't know what conditions will prevail in Europe after it is ended. You may surmise, but you don't know.

You don't know what effect it will have on this country when Europe gets down to business again.

You don't know whether the end of this war will mark the beginning of a world peace, or whether it is but the forerunner of a greater and more devastating conflict which will be waged between the old world and the new—between a combination of European nations on the one side, and North, Central and South America on the other.

You don't know, in the event of such a war, whether the Americas would continue to be free and self governed countries, or whether they would become mere overseas possessions of the kings and emperors of the old world. You may poo-hoo, and swell out your chest, and let the eagle scream, but you don't know.

You don't know what congress will do in the matter of preparedness for this country. You don't know whether it will do anything at all or not—for, truth to tell, congress is all muddled up and don't know itself, for it don't know what you think or what you know.

Fact is, brother, we don't imagine any of us know much of anything about this phase of our national existence, for we have been too busy grubbing for dollars to give much heed to the present or future welfare of our country.

And, too, we don't know what the penalty of our indifference neglect is going to be.

Now do we!

SELECTING, HANDLING AND CARING

For Hatching Eggs.

By G. E. Conkey.

Good hatches of healthy, vigorous chicks are the desire, and rightly so, of every poultry owner. To secure them, however, requires not only that the breeding birds be sound, healthy, carefully selected and mated but also that exceptional care be used in selecting, handling and caring for the hatching eggs.

Of course, each setting of eggs should possess a high percentage of fertility and to insure this no eggs should be saved for hatching for at least two weeks after the breeding birds have been mated.

CAREFUL GATHERING

When you are ready to save the eggs you should immediately begin to exercise the care that goes far towards insuring uniform, vigorous chicks. This care starts with the collecting of the eggs. This should be done at least two or three times daily, in order to avoid any danger of premature incubation or of subjection to temperature that might freeze the eggs. It is necessary that the eggs be clean and this will be assured if you see that the nests contain clean material, that there is no debris on the floor and that no birds roost in the nests.

Hatching eggs must be handled carefully at all times. A little consideration enables one to realize that a fertile egg is really a delicate living organism and must be given careful treatment if it is to hatch into a live, vigorous chick. Rough or careless handling is likely to rupture the internal membranes and make an egg useless for hatching.

Upon the selection of the hatching eggs depends to a very large extent the number and kind of chicks that will be produced. No egg should be set that for any reason whatever seems likely to fail in hatching or liable to produce an undesirable chick. Each egg should be examined carefully and any that are too large or too small, of unusual shape or that have thin, mottled, coarse or porous shells should be rejected.

UNIFORM SIZED EGGS

The aim of the poultry owner should be to secure eggs of uniform size, as such settings will be most likely to produce uniform chicks. Experienced poultry breeders agree that no hatching egg should weigh less than two ounces, but extremely large eggs are also undesirable. Thin shelled eggs should never be used for hatching, for, even if they do not become broken during incubation, they allow the liquid contents of the eggs to evaporate too rapidly.

Eggs having a ridge around the middle or possessing other peculiarities of shape or shell texture may hatch, but it is unwise to use them, as there is danger of the chicks being abnormal in some respect. It should also be remembered that even though the chicks from such eggs are apparently all right, the pullets may inherit a tendency to lay similar eggs.

FRESH EGGS BEST

Undoubtedly the most necessary requirement of hatching eggs is that they be fresh. Every day after a fertile egg is a week old it loses somewhat in hatching power and under no circumstances should eggs be set that are more than two weeks old. To do so is to greatly increase the chances of "death in the shell" or of weak chicks if the eggs hatch. Of course, it is impossible to set eggs as soon as they are laid but it has been proven by careful experiments that best results are obtained when eggs from two to five days old are set.

KEEP EGGS COOL

However, even five days is often too short a time for the average poultry owner to secure a setting of eggs and it is always necessary to keep hatching eggs a certain length of time before they can be placed under a hen or in an incubator. The best place to store them is in a cool place such as a cellar where the air does not have enough motion to cause any marked evaporation of the liquid contents of the eggs. A temperature of 45 or 50 degrees is best for keeping hatching eggs in good condition. They should never be kept in a kitchen of warm room, as incubation starts at a temperature of 68 degrees.

Probably nothing so much discourages a poultry owner as to have "back luck" in hatching his baby chicks. Therefore, the points just outlined regarding the selection and care of hatching eggs, which have been found by years of experience and experiment to be absolutely essential to best results, should be welcomed by any one who intends to set even a few eggs this season. If carried out, they are sure to be the means of bringing both increased satisfaction and profits.
