WHAT ABOUT THE MERGER?

The Kansas City Journal says that in his Fitchburg speech President Roosevelt "pointed out the folly of the man who says 'destroy the trust' and stated in clear and succinct English what ought to be the exclusive aim of all anti-trust measures."

The republican platform of 1900 declared: "We condemn all conspiracies and combinations intended to restrict business and create monopolies, to limit production and to control prices, and favor such legislation as will effectively restrain and prevent all such abuses, protect and promote competition and secure the rights of producers, laborers and consumers engaged in industry and commerce."

Isn't that a promise that the trusts will be destroyed? Trust evils are made possible only by the creation of trusts and the destruction of trust evils can only be accomplished by the removal of the cause of those evils.

This does not mean any destruction or attack upon legitimate corporations or business concerns. Men who do not contemplate conspiracies and combinations intended to restrict business, men who do not desire to create monopolies, to limit production or to control prices, do not organize trusts. The trusts are organized for the very purpose of accomplishing the things which were denounced by the republican national platform of 1900; and the only legislation that will effectively restrain and "prevent all such abuses, protect and promote competition and secure the rights of producers, laborers and all who are engaged in industry and commerce" is legislation honestly and fearlessly enforced--enforced in a way that strikes not a feather blow at the monopoly, the conspiracy and the combination, but strikes rather that telling blow that results in the conspiracy's destruction.

If the destruction of the trusts is not to be aimed at by the intelligent opponent of the trust system why did President Roosevelt instruct his attorney general to commence proceedings against the proposed Northern Pacific merger? If it is not proper to destroy the trusts, why is it proper to prevent the creation of trusts? And if "not the destruction of the trusts, but the destruction of trust evils" is the thing to be sought by the intelligent man, why did not President Roosevelt permit the Northern Pacific merger to be accomplished and then wait until the evils of that trust showed themselves before he struck the blow? If Mr. Roosevelt took the proper position in his Fitchburg speech, and if the Kansas City Journal is correct, then Mr. Roosevelt was in error when he commenced proceedings against the proposed merger of the Northern Pacific.

Do You Want to Yawn? Feel cold shiverings, acting in the bones, lack of energy, headache, and great depression? These symptoms may be followed by violent headache, high fever, extreme weakness, and a blood poisoning known as malaria. Herbine cures it. Take it before the disease gets a fair hold, though it will work a cure in any stage. J. A. Hopkins, Manchester, Kan., writes: "I have used your great medicine, Herbine, for several years. There is nothing better for malaria, chills and fever, headache, biliousness and a blood purifying tonic, there is nothing as good." See at Estogre Drug Co.

NAME THE GOOD ONES.

One of the most ardent champions of the trust in this country is the Philadelphia Press, edited by a Republican and former member of the cabinet of President McKinley and President Roosevelt. The Press says: "Whether they wish it or not, the policy of the Democratic leaders is to smash the tariff, and that would injure all trust alike, good or evil, and all capital, whether connected with trusts or acting independently. Indeed, tariff smashing would play directly into the hands of trusts, for while the weaker corporations and business would go to the wall, the monopoly would be able to hold out and eventually occupy the land for good and all."

"The Democratic policy is destructive of every interest, no matter how innocent. It is seeking to carry the new Congress, and is invading Pennsylvania in the hope of making gains which will carry a majority in the House and will send a Democrat to the United States Senate. The country would be very much obliged to the Philadelphia Press if it would furnish the name of at least two or three of the good trusts that the Republican politician and newspapers are constantly talking about and for the welfare of which they manifest so much solicitude. These concerns manage in some way to keep their names very much under cover, and we are quite sure the people would like to know them and size them up, so to speak, because the popular idea is that good trusts are entirely mythical and if they were not they would come out into the open and let themselves be known."

We do not believe that even so rampant a defender of the protective tariff as the Philadelphia Press will have the hardihood to claim that Beef Trust, the Steel Trust, and the numerous other combinations that are absolute monopolies and have crushed out competition in certain lines of industry are "good trusts," because people know by sad experience that they are not. Why prate about these good concerns without mentioning them and illustrating their virtues and need of protection? Hold them up to the public gaze so that we may see and know what they are. "But this will not be done for the 'good trusts' are figments of the imagination--the ghosts of sophistry, and have no existence whatever save in the buncombe talk of Republican politicians. The Norfolk Virginian-Pilot very correctly says: "The truth of the business is that they who talk about 'good trusts' talk nonsense, and they know it. There is no such thing as a 'good trust.' The trust is organized to create an artificial price for its products and to make illegitimate profits. It is organized to pray, and does pray, in one way or another, upon the public. The fact may be more apparent in one case than another, but it is there in every case, and that is why the public organ and Republican platform stick to generalities and avoid particulars."

This covers the case like a horse blanket, and there is nothing to be added to or taken from it.--States.

IMMIGRATION.

Hon. J. G. Lee, Immigration Commissioner for Louisiana, is out in an advertisement calling upon all real estate agents, editors, publishers to assist him in his efforts to promote immigration. It is his intention to have all lands that are for sale registered in his office together with the names of all real estate agents, or those who have lands for sale, with complete descriptions to be shown to persons coming into the State, or entered into a book or list which will be published and given to intending immigrants. Mr. Lee is doing a great work, and will no doubt succeed. He should have the support and co-operation of all patriotic men of the State, for through immigration and education must come that advancement so much to be desired by all those who have the welfare of the State at heart.
