LEGAL NEWS.

The Police Jury held their regular meeting last Thursday with a full attendance of its members present.
—In the absence of Rev. Paradis, Rev. Leith of Gueydan will preach at the First Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Children's exercises at 7:30 a.m.
—Mr. Ernest Hebert, one of the butchers of the City Market killed this week a hog weighing 410 pounds, a beautiful specimen of the pork tribe. Several hogs have been slaughtered this year, showing a magnificent weight.
—The Elk Dancing Club gave a delightful dance at the Home last Friday night, which was followed by a delightful supper. Guests from several of the surrounding towns were present for the occasion.
Moss' Club Sauce now 15c. Buy a bottle.
—The Lee Apothecary establishment is removing this week into their new and handsome quarters in the Masonic building, corner of Main and Julia Streets. The vacated building will soon be fitted up with excellent fixtures for the Citizens' Bank, which hope to throw open its doors to the public about the middle of next month.
—The Knights of Pythias held one of its interesting sessions last Wednesday evening conferring the rank of Pace and Esquire on several candidates. The officers were all out in full regalia and conducted the services beautifully. In fact the meeting was one of the most enthusiastic for several weeks.
—The wedding has been announced on Thursday, June 1st, at Christ Church Cathedral, New Orleans of Miss Katherine Robertson, daughter of Mrs. John C. M. Robertson of this City to Mr. Rush P. Strong, formerly of Mobile, Ala.
WANTED—Second-hand top buggy and harness, Telephone 307-3, Segura, La.
—The Enterprise extends its thanks to Miss Julia McMahon for an invitation to attend the commencement exercises of the Tulane University to be held at New Orleans on Wednesday morning, May seventeenth. Miss McMahon is one of the graduates of the Sophie Newcomb.
—Mr. V. Jennaro has opened up a branch fruit store in the Bazus building, formerly occupied by Mrs. Carabba. Mr. Jennaro will restock the building with choice fruit and will doubt meet with much success there.
—The home of Mr. John S. Turner, known as the Nestle Down place, formerly owned by Mr. W. D. Crodon, situated at the corner of Bank Avenue and the 40 arpent road was totally destroyed by fire last Monday at mid-day. It is supposed the fire originated from a defective flue. The insurance was carried through the agency of Capt. White, just how much we have been unable to learn.
—Hon. George M. Robertson brought to our sanetum last Wednesday several May peaches that were remarkable, considering the freezes which the peach trees encountered this year. The peaches were of excellent flavor, though the cold weather had stunted their growth somewhat.
—We were shown a sample of Bermuda onions last Wednesday, raised on the country place of Sheriff Henderson, a few miles south of New Iberia. Mr. Henderson procured the seed from Texas and raised about one-fourth of an acre of beautiful onions therefrom with much success, considering the drought that they passed through. He intends next year to plant ten acres of this same vegetable, having fitted up his place so as to irrigate at least fifteen acres of his land.

UNSECTARIAN BENEFIT.

The ladies of the Unsectarian Aid have made a change in the character of their annual festival, which will take place on the night of Thursday, May, the 25th. Instead of the Queen contest and out-door amusements, they are preparing a high-class concert and spectacular entertainment, which will be in beauty and attractiveness, the social affair of New Iberia, and which it is hoped, will not only be a goodly sum for this long existing and worthy organization, but also a social affair.

Mrs. Anna Grant Miller of whose gift of song New Iberia is justly proud, has already proven by past successes, what she can do in getting up an artistic musical programme. She is bringing her best judgment to bear in her selection of voices and numbers for the coming affair.
In addition to the good music, both vocal and instrumental, there will be novel features which will prove interesting to the public.
Mrs. Miller herself will be heard in new and brilliant selections suitable to her well-trained voice, several of our young ladies will upon this occasion, make their debut as songstresses, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Miller, before their home people, a lovely minuet, danced by a group of our tiny folks; tableaux and artistic posing, in costume, by three of our prettiest girls; a comic recitation by another popular Miss and a recitation which will be rather an innovation, since for once, his Satanic Majesty will meet with the approval of all good christian folks, especially with that of the long suffering men. They will be artistic violin playing by those who have cultivated their talents in some of the large centres and have gained an enviable reputation. All these are strong drawing cards, but the strongest of all in the eyes of the discriminating people of New Iberia should be the desire to help an association which has existed in their midst for many years and has done an immense amount of practical good work. The ladies have priced their tickets at the small sum of twenty five cents, the first twenty rows of the Elks Opera House being reserved seats upon the payment of ten cents additional at the box office several days in advance. Tickets may be had from Mrs. Maurice Galliard and Mrs. Honor Daigne. A pretty prize being offered to the boy and girl disposing of the greatest number.

THERE IS ABOUT AS MUCH REASON IN A MAN PAYING MONEY FOR RENT AS FOR HIS PAYING MONEY FOR "GOLD BRICKS." That same rent money would soon pay for the home he now rents or one built to his ideas of his own while paying for it with his rent money by our plan—IBBERIA BUILDING ASSOCIATION

The handsome steamer C. W. Owens came in last Thursday night from New Orleans filled to overflowing with goods for the merchants of New Iberia and vicinity. If this boat line receives the same support from the towns along the Teche as is given them by our business men, there should be no cause for complaint on the part of the steamboat owners. Mr. Jos. Weil, their energetic local agent is much pleased with the patronage given the boat line.
—Mrs. Dr. H. A. King, whom had come in contact with a sick cow on her premises last Tuesday and which developed on Wednesday into a case of hydrophobia left for New Orleans on Thursday to consult a specialist. The cow had been sick for several days, but nothing was thought of the matter until Dr. Goodwin, the veterinarian pronounced it genuine hydrophobia and ordered the animal destroyed at once. Wishing to take all the necessary precautions, Mrs. King decided to put herself in the hands of specialists. The report that other stock on the place of Dr. King had also become afflicted and had to be destroyed is false.

—There is an exhibition at the seed store of Mr. E. J. Carstens, beautiful specimen of onions grown by Joe Nat, a colored man on the place of Messrs. Renouard & Schwing, near Little Fausse Point. The onions are of the Creole variety, very large and well shaped. This man planted 25c worth of seed and obtained one that netted him the sum of $26.00, the seed being grown in this Parish. This is convincing proof of what can be done with the soils of this Parish and how easily money can be made in truck when given the proper attention.

Several cases of Charbon developed on one of the places near Patoutville of M. A. Patout & Son last week. From what we were informed they lost three head of fine cattle, but took the necessary precaution to prevent their plantation from becoming infected with the fatal disease. Dr. J. Arthur Goodwin, veterinarian was immediately called to the scene and inoculated all the stock owned by these planters, which will insure them from further loss. Messrs. M. A. Patout & Son are to be commended for their efforts in preventing the surrounding country from becoming infected with this disease among live stock by adopting stringent methods to eradicate the disease.

The opportunity has presented itself for a model road along the canal from this City, leading to Lydia, P. O. Peebles plantation and other settlements in that vicinity if only the Police Jury could see their way clear to stand the expense of grading the dirt thrown along the banks of the canal by the dredge boat. This would not only be a great convenience for those living in that neighborhood, but will make an ideal drive way and popularize that section south of New Iberia and with little expense to the Parish. There cannot be too many roads and a beautiful high and dry dirt road could be made of the embankment all along the canal to deep water which would enhance the value of all property.

We received a pleasant call from Mr. A. Broussard, of Breaux Bridge yesterday. Mr. Broussard's patent cane flooding machine is a big labor savor and money maker for the sugar planter and is meeting with much success in this section. Dozens of planters in Southwestern Louisiana having adopted his system for handling their cane crop direct from the field. Those feeling any interest whatever in new inventions should address him for particulars about his machine.

THE NATIONAL PEACE CONFERENCE.

A few years ago a convention like that of the National Peace conference which opened Wednesday at Baltimore would have aroused little or no popular interest. If the press, it would have been treated either with condescension or waggery. Had the president of the United States attended it, its proceedings would have done so as a matter of grace rather than with a definite and practical purpose. In brief, it would have been considered a gathering of idealists whose aims were worthy enough within themselves, but scarcely meriting the attention of busy men.

But today this peace conference, which has the interest of the American public and of hundreds of thousands of people across the Atlantic, Diplomats and men of affairs will engage in its deliberations. The president will be in attendance as the promoter of a great peace treaty between this nation and Great Britain. The congress has specific and business-like purposes to carry out or to encourage.

Such is the change that has come over the hands of thinking men within a few generations. The truth is, of course, that this change has been long developing, though almost unperceived. But within recent years the idea of international peace as an end not only to be desired but to be attained through steady and definite effort has possessed public thought and is gradually working itself out in practical results.

The significant feature of the present day advocacy of peace is that it deals with particular means and measures rather than with merely general ideals. The congress now in session, for instance, is working toward the establishment of an international court of justice where differences between nations may be determined by equity and law instead of by force. Such an institution is thoroughly feasible and its very existence would exert a wholesome and pacific influence. The tribunal at The Hague has already averted a number of possible conflicts and has satisfactorily settled differences which, without the council of arbitration, might have led to war.

However far distant the end of international war may be it is certain that men are at last striving earnestly and logically to hasten that day.—Atlanta Journal.

SUGGESTIONS FOR FLY TIME.

Are you doing anything to make the world better for your having lived in it?

God bless the man who first invented screens. The device that has at once brought the greatest degree of personal comfort, cleanliness of household and individual safety is the door and window screen. No other invention of this last quarter of a century can compare with its worth and utility as a life and health saver, and yet, until recently, screens were used principally to exclude the fly and mosquito solely on the ground of personal comfort.

Heads of families who are looking for an investment may be assured of one that is certain of enormous returns through the prevention of sickness and maybe death by the early and effective screening of every outside door and window of their home. It is much easier to keep flies out by proper screening than to get them out once they get in. Screen your house! Scientists of all countries are agreed on one point—that the fly is carrier of disease germs—therefore, screen your house!

Flies love to feast on filth, and then get into the house and wipe their feet on your cake or baby's bottle. Screen the house! It is true they are nature's scavengers, but they spread filth and very often disease in going their work; besides it is better to do your own scavenging by keeping clean than to have the fly do it for you; for not only is the fly a dangerous companion, out clean people are beginning to suspect that those who have flies about them are dirty housekeepers, else flies would not be there. If, therefore, you wish to bear the reputation of cleanliness in your neighborhood, be sure that your trash and manure heaps are frequently removed, and that your house is properly screened!

Keep screens over articles of food. Don't let flies get near the pantry, kitchen or dining room. Be doubly careful about keeping flies out of the sick room. They are likely not only to bring complications of new diseases, but to carry the invalid's disease to many others.

The fly season will soon be here, and those who put in their screens promptly will be taking the best of precautions against having disease germs introduced into their homes by flies.

"Health is wealth" and "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

There is more health in a house well screened than in many a doctor's visit.

The only safe way is to keep out

ARMS TO BE ADMITTED.

Washington, May 11.—Officials in Washington were today engaged in considering questions of international law relating to rights of insurrectionists to get food and other supplies from neutral territory, the extent to which the Federal authority can go in controlling the exportation of arms and munitions of war to Mexico, and what authority army officers may exercise legally in restricting movements of civilians and soldier and rebels on the border.

The State Department, instead of making an official declaration, indicated that the administration of the neutrality laws reposed in the Department of Justice, while the question of exportation of arms and supplies was for the Treasury Department to decide. The War Department simply abided by its original orders to the military commanders to execute neutrality laws as they understood them.

Actually, there was no real question before the departments after the legal adviser of the insurrectionary agent here had been told by the Treasury Department that the trade relations between El Paso and Juarez might proceed as heretofore. Thus, at last, food supplies and merchandise might be carried across the line, according to the usual practice. No attempt was made to decide as to admission of arms, as that question had not been raised. Probably it will not be until an attempt actually is made to carry an invoice on rifles and ammunition through the United States custom house. The conditions then will have an important bearing upon the Treasury decision, but it is generally believed that, in view of decisions of the United States courts, if such arms and ammunition are shipped by a regular dealer in the United States to another regular dealer in Juarez, they must be permitted to go through the El Paso custom house, provided they are not consigned to an agent of the insurrectionists. Any decision as to importations in Juarez would apply to any other Mexican border town the insurrectionists occupy.

In answer to complaints of the War Department of the severe measures adopted by the United States military commanders to prevent shipping supplies across the line, as well as crossing of non-combatants, Col. Steever's action in El Paso was upheld as fully within his instructions. He had required only that all supplies for Juarez be cleared through the El Paso custom house, as in normal times. Major General Wood ordered military commanders to permit free passage across the international line of all persons, Americans or Mexicans, without arms and not carrying supplies.

"We shall immediately appoint custom house agents, who will collect duties, and who, for that purpose, will inspect all merchandise coming through ports in our possession," Jose Vasconcelos, the insurrection representative, said here to-night. "To avoid damage to public interests, we will recognize in voices signed by consuls of the Diaz government until our own consuls have been appointed and take office. I expect to have, and announce in a few days, the names of consuls and customs agents."

"In this way business transactions will go ahead, even though we do not get a formal recognition of our officers. The fact that their services will have to be utilized by all shippers will establish de facto situations that probably will lead to formal recognition by foreign governments."—Ex.
