

L. S. U. BANQUET.

On the heels of the State Chess Tournament of August 23, Lafayette announces a second capital event for Saturday night, August 28—in the annual "Dollaraudalshome" Dinner of the alumni and former students of the Louisiana State University. This "Feed" has become an established institution and forms an occasion for the foregathering of all L. S. U. men in Southwest Louisiana once each year. Among the more prominent alumni expected for the 1915 reunion are Senator J. R. Thornton, '66, President Thomas D. Boyd, '72, Judge A. V. Coco, '79, Col. R. G. Pleasant, '94, Dr. Clarence Pierson, '89, Judge Whit P. Martin, '88, Hon. Edwin S. Broussard, '95, Dr. R. O. Young, '90, Hon. Robert Knox, '06, and Hon. J. S. Y. Fauntleroy, '06—most of whom have already signified their intention to be present. The gathering is not confined to graduates any and all present or former students of the institution who may wish to join a social reunion at table once a year. The original price of the meal was a dollar—it having been organized during the fin-de-siecle days of the Democrat Dollar Dinner, but owing to the increasing cost of high living, it had to be raised to the "dollarandahalfsome" or sesquidollarian standard. The usual attendance is from 75 to 100 All L. S. U. men who may wish to attend are urged to write at once to J. J. Fournet, Sesquidollarian Fiscal Agent, Lafayette, La., who will issue license on receipt of tax. The first to pay up for 1915 was Senator Thornton. The local committee are Jerome Mouton, '97, A. A. McBride, '01, George P. Lessley, '10, M. R. Upton, '14, and E. L. Stephens, '92.

Most of the Americans brought home from Europe at the outbreak of the war were wealthy tourists, touring Europe on pleasure trips, spending the money accumulated in America in foreign countries and having "a good time" but have never offered to pay the government for its loan of money to bring them home. They ought to be compelled to cough it up.—Ruston Leader.

It is announced that Col Theodore Roosevelt will remain loyal to the Progressives through the next campaign, loose or win. Although he must know that it is a forlorn hope, he would be guilty of base ingratitude to desert them in their dark days of adversity, after their strenuous efforts to boost him into the presidential chair again.

AS THE EDITOR SEE IT

Why is it men who are as sharp as tacks in most things are as careless as an infant in others? Get in a car and drive around the country and you will see farm implements everywhere exposed to the elements, plows standing in the field, mowers, rakes, wagons, and dozen of implements out in the rain from January to December. Lift a five spot from the pocket of one of those fellows and he will want to either lick you or send you to the penitentiary to square up for his loss. But he lets many times that amount go to rack and ruin in exposing his machinery and implements to the elements without an apparent thought as to their value. Queer—but it's true.—Jennings Record

The question of whether the Constitutional Convention will be held has already been determined—on use for the country people to worry over that any more—the New Orleans city ring elected a solid delegation at the primary, including Boss Ewing, Martin Berhman and I. CUTS ALASKAN NATIONAL FOREST IN HALF.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The area of the Chugach National Forest, Alaska which is to be crossed by the railroad that the government is building from Seward to Fairbanks, is reduced nearly one-half by a proclamation, signed by President Wilson, returning approximately 5,802,000 acres to the public domain. This action follows classification of the land by the Forest Service showing that the areas involved are not of high enough timber value to warrant government protection, and means the largest elimination of National Forest land ever made by a single Presidential proclamation.

The boundaries of the Forest, as redrawn by the President's proclamation, now contain approximately 5,818,000 acres, supporting about 8 billion feet of merchantable timber. On the area thrown out of the Forest there is in the aggregate a large amount of timber, but it is so sparse and scattered as to be of little or no commercial value. The land remaining within the Forest, however, contains the largest and most accessible supply of timber for the development of the great mineral fields to the north of Bering River, and is the region in which the Alaskan Engineering Commission has been authorized to cut 85 million feet of timber for use in constructing the government's new railroad. On account of the time required for cutting and seasoning construction timber, the Commission has had to purchase some lumber from Washington and Oregon, but as cutting has already commenced on the Chugach, it is expected that the Alaskan timber will soon be serving the needs of the railroad builders.

The lands eliminated by the proclamation are in three large tracts; one along the entire southerly slope of the Chugach Mountains, the second lying northeast of Seward, between Resurrection Bay and Kings Bay, and the third, northwest of the Kenai Mountains in the region around Tustumena and Skilak lakes. In addition, the towns of Hope, Sunrise, Kenai, and Ninilchek are eliminated. According to the Forest Service, the chance of locating homesteads in the excluded lands is extremely small, since they contain few agricultural areas, although in some localities there are said to be small patches suitable for farming.

THE SIMPLE REMEDY.

There is no need to support the costly tick. One-third of the tick-infested districts of the South have proved that it is easy to get rid of the tick forever and to build up a great and profitable cattle industry. All that is needed is for the people, the county, the State, and the United States Department of Agriculture to get together and dip cattle.

Dipping cattle in an arsenical bath will kill the ticks and enable the animal to give more milk or to put on flesh and bring a better price in the meat markets.

Less than 50 cents a head covers the entire cost of erecting dipping vats in the counties, supplying arsenical baths for all cattle and paying the dipping inspectors. The individual owner's share of this 50 cents will be very small. The immediate profit to owners, it is conservatively estimated, will be from $4.50 to $9.50 a head.

When the tick has been dipped out, the farmers can combine to import pure-bred bulls, which, with native cows, will produce better stock and increase the yield of beef or milk and butter fat.

With the tick out, sound farm management, that uses idle pasture lands and waste products, keeps up fertility, and year profitable use of comes possible. Forty cattle free from ticks produce as much as 60 as cattle are kept out by the tick. The arsenical bath pockets of the farmers at the cost of the tick's income. It costs the South $50,000,000 a year to board the tick. Every county, as soon as it has dipped its cattle, is in a position to develop dairying and increase its share of the 000 increased revenue of the tick-free South.

You can free your county of this pest in one year.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not get up and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband bought me a bottle of Dr. King's New Life Pills, and I commenced taking it. From the first dose, I could tell it was helping me, and now I can walk two miles a day, and am doing all my own housework. If you are all run down with troubles, don't give up. Lime Starvation Causes Tuberculosis

The Medical Record (New York) of December 18, 1909, contains an article on "The Treatment of Pulmonary Tuberculosis, Based on the Assumption that the Dietetic Cause of the Disease is Lime Starvation," by Dr. John F. Russell, who says: "The condition which is recognized as preceding the active development of tuberculosis in the adult may be considered as due to lime starvation. Among inorganic substances lime salts appear to be of special physiological importance. If the salts are not in organic combination it is difficult to suppose that the cells can appropriate them for food."

Years of widespread use confirm us in the belief that the success of Eckman's Alternative in cases of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption) and chronic throat and bronchial troubles is due in large measure to its content of lime, so combined with other ingredients as to be easily appropriated by the cells.

Doubtless this has had much to do with the results obtained in many cases of these afflictions, which appear to have yielded to Eckman's Alternative.

As it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. Your druggist will order it for you or you can send direct. Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia.
