NEW YORK JOURNAL OF COMMERCE

Tuesday, March 9th, 1915.

One of the most thrilling motion pictures ever produced by the Vitagraph company is being shown this week at the Vitagraph Theatre. It is called "The Juggernaut" and is in five parts. The interest of the audience never wavers from the start of the opening scenes until the climax, when a heavy freight train crashes through the tottering timbers of a trestle and plunges into the water beneath. This scene alone is said to have cost the company $25,000, and it is undoubtedly the most complete wreck scene ever staged.

"The Juggernaut" was written by Donald I. Buchanan and produced by Ralph W. Ince. The best of the Vitagraph stars were used in the cast, which includes Anita Stewart, Julia Swayne Gordon, Earl Williams, William Dunn, Eadric Jensen, Frank Currier, Paul Scardon and Jack Brown. Thursday, September 9th, Elks Theatre.

Official Minutes Board of Trustees.

New Iberia, Aug. 30th, 1915.

The Board of Trustees of the City of New Iberia convened this evening with Mayor H. S. Sealy presiding. Messrs. Suberbielle and Villiermin present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved by the Mayor.

On motion of Mr. Villiermin, seconded by Mr. Sealy, the following Ordinance No. 79, was voted upon and passed:

Resolved, That the following be the City of New Iberia, La.:

lights and electric service along Walton street, between the above named streets.

On motion of Mr. Sealy, seconded by Mr. Suberbielle and carried, the Trustee of Public Properties was instructed and authorized to place three street lights along Walton street.

The following communication was received, and Mayor H. S. Sealy, delegated the following gentlemen to go to Washington, La., as representing New Iberia: Mr. H. S. Sealy, New Iberia, La.

Dear Sir—we are going to hold a big meeting at Washington, Sept. 8th at 1 o'clock. The said meeting is being called for the opening of Bayou Courtableau into Bayou Teche. As we feel sure you are interested in the above matter, Hoping I can have the pleasure of meeting you personally, I remain,

Yours very truly,

JAMES I. MARY, Mayor.

The bill for Auditing the books of the various departments of the City of New Iberia as ordered by the Cashiers of the Banks, was presented by Mr. H. J. Smith. On motion of Mr. Villiermin, seconded by Mr. Sealy, the bills were returned to Mr. Smith, with the request that they be approved by the Banks. Mr. Sealy, so voting explained that it being before his being elected Mayor, and he later being informed that the amount of the Audit would be about Three Hundred Dollars, would rather let the Banks approve the bills.

On motion of Mr. Villiermin, seconded by Mr. Suberbielle the bills were ordered paid: U. G. Soll Rand Co., air pump $830.00; Electrical Supply Co., wire, fuses, etc., $26.70; O. Renoulet Hardware Co., $11.00; W. F. Villiermin, coal $25.25; Geo. Cestia, shoeing stock, $2.00.

H. S. SEALY, Mayor.

L. F. VILLIERMIN, Clerk.

JUST A DEAD BANDIT.

Mexicans are being taught that bandit raids on the Texas frontier are not what they were a few weeks ago, and the information is being imparted in a way that can not fail to make an impression.

Since the raid on Las Norias ranch about three weeks ago Mexican bandits have been dying with their boots on at the hands of Texas rangers, United States soldiers and civilians at a rate that threatens serious inroads on the tribe, and the latest and most prominent name among those who have been propelled into the hereafter by an American rifle ball is Pascual Orozco, who was transformed from a revolutionary and bandit during the spasm of anarchy that has gripped Mexico for the last four years.

Used to raiding at will in his own country and hitting backward and forward across the border, Orozco and three companions undertook a raid on a Texas ranch, and now the leader of the band, who was on several occasions an important figure in Mexico's revolutions and counter revolutions, is merely a dead Mexican bandit, having been a fugitive from American justice under a bond of $7500 at the time of his death. His companions are likewise dead bandits.

The persistence with which Mexicans are crossing onto Texas soil, raiding ranches and attempting to incite Mexicans on this side to deeds of violence would indicate that there is more behind it than merely a sporadic outburst of lawlessness, and it would seem that the American government holds to this view, for it is now announced that the troops formerly quartered at Texas City are to be distributed along the border, indicating that the federal authorities look for a continuance and possibly an increase of the trouble on the border.

Of course, if enough men were distributed along the border to guard the Rio Grande, Mexicans could be prevented from crossing over, but the great length of the Texas-Mexican frontier would require a large number of men to achieve this.

If persisted in, these raids and exciting of ignorant Mexicans on this side of the river to uprisings is practically certain to work great hardships on those Mexicans residing in the southwest who are disposed to be lawabiding and inclined to mind their own affairs, for any serious uprising on the part of the Mexican population in Texas might result in the innocent suffering to some degree along with the guilty.

In the meantime Texas is bearing the brunt of this lawlessness on the border, and it is calculated to injure the state abroad.

People of other states may not stop to consider that the Texas border is very sparsely populated, some unusually large counties having only two or three hundred people, of which a considerable percentage are Mexicans, and that the trouble is far removed from any center of population, except around Brownsville, and that Brownsville is sufficiently well protected to repel any invasion that might be threatened.

When the report goes out that the Mexicans are raiding Texas, people elsewhere are apt to think that any particular section of the state where they may have relatives or friends may be in danger, when, in fact, if every revolutionist in Mexico should invade Texas they would not get far enough into the interior but that a hot footrace would take them back into their own country in a few hours.

People in other states who may be inclined to fear for the safety of Texas need lose no sleep. If Uncle Sam happens to be short of soldiers for the proper patrolling of the border, there are several thousand Texans who can ride hard and shoot straight, and they will look after the American raiders if the occasion should arise.—Beaumont Enterprise.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

"THE JUGGERNAUT."

New York Tribune, Monday, March 15th, 1915.

"The Juggernaut" a photoplay in five parts, with plenty of thrills, and telling a story of high finance, is the leading attraction at the Vitagraph Theatre. It tells of Philip Hardin, a dissipated, good-natured son of a millionaire, who forms a friendship with John Ballard, the son of a man killed by the railroad controlled by Hardin's father.

In a fight at a gambling house, Hardin is rescued by Ballard. A blow struck by Ballard kills one of the gamblers. In the years that intervene Hardin steps into the control of his father's estate. Ballard becomes the District Attorney of a large city. The two clash.

In quick succession there are gripping melodramatic scenes. The big climax shows a train wreck over a bridge, true in every detail save that it was specially staged by the Vitagraph people for this photoplay. It was this scene that cost a considerable sum to produce and almost caused the death of four actors last fall, rescued from the water after a real struggle with death. Elks Theatre, Thursday Sept. 9th.

NOT ENOUGH CHILDREN

ever receive the proper balance of food to sufficiently nourish both body and brain during the growing period when nature's demands are greater than in mature life. This is shown in so many pale faces, lean bodies, frequent colds, and lack of ambition.

For all such children we say with unmistakable earnestness: They need Scott's Emulsion, and need it now. It possesses in concentrated form the very food elements to enrich their blood. It changes weakness to strength; it makes them sturdy and strong. No alcohol.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

We have shipped 450,000 horses and mules to the Allies since the war began, most of which are already dead, as these animals last only a few days after they reach the fighting line. The Department of Agriculture, which has kept track of the animals, says that very few of the horses exported have been high grade animals, being mainly of medium grade and they will scarcely be missed because of the substitution of auto and motor cars for draft animals. The South has suffered more than other sections by losing mules, whose places cannot be well taken; and some parts of the South will feel the scarcity resulting from the large number of farm animals shipped out of the country.

None Equal to Chamberlain's.

"I have tried most all of the cough cures and find that there is none that equal Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has never failed to give me prompt relief," writes W. V. Harner, Montpelier, Ind. When you have a cold give this remedy a trial and see for yourself what a splendid medicine it is. Obtainable everywhere.

The Spanish government makes formal denial of the statement published abroad that it has determined upon a general mobilization of 800,000 troops in October.

Lime Treatment in Tuberculosis

In the May 25, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared the following statement concerning calcium (lime) medication in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption): "Under the systematic, continued and persistent regime of calcium assimilation, Van Gieson has seen a number of his patients improve, undergo an exudative or partial consolidation in the lung, which then resolving would appear to contribute to the healing of and closing of the lesions. Hand in hand with this course of events, the sputum clears up of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear, and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

Ethical medical journals seldom speak so positively about a remedial agent, yet this testimony coincides with that from many consumptives who have secured like results through the use of Eckman's Alternative. Since calcium is a constituent of this remedy for pulmonary tuberculosis and allied throat and bronchial affections, its healing power may in some measure be attributed to the manner in which this element is so combined with other ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person and it does not irritate the stomach.

Eckman's Alternative contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so it is safe to try. If your druggist is out of it, ask him to order, or send direct to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia.

Washington, Sept. 3.—President Wilson went to a theater here last night for the first time in more than a year. He was persuaded to go as a relaxation from the work he has been doing recently on foreign problems.

The federal council has decided to order a collection of statistical information regarding the amount of debts owing to German merchants by enemy countries and the German indebtedness to these countries. This action is the result of an agitation among business organizations of Germany favoring the adjustment of those debts by balancing the claims against them.
