

"WHAT THE SWINE BREEDERS WILL HEAR AND SEE AT THE CONVENTION IN NEW ORLEANS AUG 1."

Final plans for the Convention of the Louisiana Swine Breeders Association, scheduled for August 1st, were completed at a meeting of prominent business men held on Thursday, July 6, at the Association of Commerce of New Orleans.

Present indications point to the meeting as one of the most successful affairs of an agricultural and farming nature ever held in the State. Prominent men identified with banks, commercial houses and plantation owners are vitally interested in the development of the industry represented by the Louisiana Swine Breeders Association, and the purpose of the forthcoming Convention is to serve as an exchange for ideas of conditions in Louisiana and elsewhere in the hog industry that means so much for the future wealth, development and prosperity of Louisiana.

The New Orleans Association of Commerce is doing everything to make this meeting a success from the standpoint of attracting a large attendance from every parish in the State. Leading hog raising experts from all over the country will deliver addresses covering phase of the industry as applied to conditions in Louisiana. Aside from inviting the attendance of all farmers interested in live-stock, an active bid is being made to the Parish Boys Pig Clubs, and the most active members of these organizations will undoubtedly be delegates to the Convention. Not only will interesting and instructive addresses on methods of hog raising and feeding be features of the convention, but in the afternoon of Tuesday, August 1st, the delegates will be taken to the local stock yards and abattoirs for the purpose of giving practical demonstration of the methods prevailing in a modern packing house that takes a hog on the hoof and runs him thru to the refrigeration rooms ready for the butcher's block.

NOT THE ONLY ONE.

There Are Other New Iberia People Similarly Situated.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of New Iberia residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Edgar J. Bourg, meat dealer, 635 Julia St., New Iberia, says: "I was confined to bed several times with kidney complaint. I could hardly turn in bed, owing to the pains in my back and had to be careful or sharp twinges would dart through my loins. Mornings I was stiff and lame and lacked strength and energy. More than once I didn't feel able to attend to my work. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Taylor's Drug Store, removed the trouble."

After a lapse of over five years, Mr. Bourg said: "I haven't had an attack of kidney trouble since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

In re "reform of court procedure" it is difficult fairly to apportion the blame for the clogging of the wheels of justice which has given rise to the popular demand for a better method of determining our rights under the law. In the final analysis, however, it will not be profitable to debate the relative degree of blame attaching to judge, lawyer or law. The prime purpose of reform is the reform itself, and to bring it about enthusiastic and persistent co-operation of all friends of justice is necessary.—Beaumont Enterprise.

PHARR CHOSEN PRESIDENT.

At the annual meeting of the American Cane Growers' Association Monday at New Orleans, if there is any division in the ranks it was not apparent. The session was a plea for greater harmony and better feeling. The ouster fight against the American Sugar Refinery was detailed in the reports, and a committee report made it clear that it had not asked for the driving out of the institution. Its latest request to Governor Pleasant and Attorney General Cocco was not even to announce any decision, but to leave the entire matter in abeyance until President Babst has had a chance to show his attitude by his acts. The committee insisted that the exchanges, by petitioning for the dropping of the ouster suit, prevented a real compromise and characterized this action of the exchanges as "unadvised."

The resignation of President Charles A. Farwell, was accepted. He was elected a member of the executive committee. The other new member of the committee are Horace Wilkinson and B. Billeaud, Jr., who takes the place of Charles Godehaux. The latter resigned from membership as well. The acceptance of Mr. Godehaux's resignation will have to pass through the hands of the association's attorney before it is acted upon finally. The executive committee of which he was a member, contracted a number of obligations which have not yet been fully liquidated, and the question is whether any member can be released from his share of the general burden by the resignation route.

Henry M. Sonait, honorary vice-president, who presided, was re-elected unanimously. The other officers chosen were E. F. Dickinson and C. D. Kemper, active vice-presidents; Dr. R. O. Young, treasurer; Joe B. Chaffe, secretary; Paul J. Christian, secretary in charge of the bureau at Washington, D. C. Executive committee E. A. Burgurieres, J. C. LeBourgeois, David W. Pipes, Jr., M. Billeaud, Jr., Eugene A. Pharr, W. B. Bloomfield, Horace Wilkinson, Charles A. Farwell, C. B. Mathews, Edward J. Gay, James M. McBride, George At Murrell, John M. Caffery, Damas Moresi and James D. Hill.

Among the resolutions adopted were two which express concretely the policy and the keynote of the new administration. One urges a better understanding between the producers and the buyers of raw sugars. The other resolution discourages sugar planters from following certain sugar merchants in New Orleans, and from buying and selling sugar on the New Orleans exchange. A report was adopted which places the association on record as requesting the state administration to hold the refinery ouster suit in abeyance until it is seen what course the refinery will pursue with regard to the coming sugar crop. The committee said also that it understood that Attorney General Cocco would insist upon the refinery filing its answer. If that is done the papers will be in form for immediate resumption of the case.

WEEKLY UNDER SEA SERVICE PROMISED FROM GERMAN PORT.

Berlin, via London, July 11.—Alfred Lohmann, one time president of the Bremen Chamber of Commerce and originator of the German submarine merchant service, told The Associated Press today that the Bremen was about to start for America with a cargo, and that several sister ships are rapidly approaching completion. It is understood that the number of boats soon will be adequate for the establishment of a weekly service.

The opening of direct shipping communications between Germany and the United States by the Deutschland has occasioned great jubilation and enthusiasm among Germans, but no one is more elated than Herr Lohmann.

"Remember," he said, "that the Deutschland was entirely unarmed; she carried no torpedo tubes, no cannon and no weapons of offense or defense of any kind. "So anxious was I that the unarmed merchant character of our boats should be established beyond doubt that I insisted that the captain of the Deutschland should not even carry the customary revolver upon leaving Bremen."

Under these circumstances, he contended, there was nothing to prevent the Deutschland, exclusively a merchantman, from remaining as long as she pleases in a neutral harbor and loading a cargo, fuel and supplies, free from the restrictions which prevent warships from entering a neutral port except under stress, or remaining more than twenty-four hours.

RACE SUICIDE TOPIC OF NEW FILM PLAY.

Daring Drama Presented Amid Surroundings of Luxury and Wealth Preaches a Powerful Sermon—Divines Applaud it.

A smashing, daring subject done in a smashing, daring way, best describes "Where Are My Children?" the new motion picture with Tyrone Power in the leading part. The new picture preaches against race suicide, and, instead of it being a low life affair, the Universal Company has pictured a wonderfully dramatic story amid surroundings of luxury and wealth.

Richard Walton, a district attorney, is after doctors who help race suicide. He is well to do and his wife moves in the highest social circles. It develops that many of the women in her set who don't want to be bothered by motherhood are from time to time patients of a certain doctor.

Mrs. Walton's young brother visits them at the same time the beautiful young daughter of their housekeeper comes to the Walton home. It is the old story with the young folks and she is taken to the doctor. The operation is not a success and she dies. District Attorney Walton, who loves children, and has never been able to understand why his wife was never blessed with any, takes up the case on the confession of the girl. He throws his brother-in-law out of his home and prosecutes the doctor for his crimes.

The doctor is sentenced to fifteen years and in a terrific moment in court he throws down his book of his professional accounts for the district attorney to peruse. Walton finds his own wife's name as a patient and then, heart broken, he understands and from the other names in the books he sees at last why there are no children in the families his wife knows. Many leading clericals, including Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, have strongly endorsed the picture. John Brisben Walker, in commenting on the production said: "Here is a motion picture which should be carried to every city and town of the world and thrown on the screen over and over again, until every daughter and every son has had its full significance impressed upon them."

ARBITRATION SHOULD BE COMPULSORY.

Arbitration of the threatened general railroad strike should not be left with either the railroad or the railroad employees. It should be compulsory.

Congress should pass an act at once giving the Interstate Commerce Commission authority to settle labor disputes, just as it has the right to fix rates.

It is more important that the Interstate Commerce commission have the right to fix wages and settle disputes than it is that it have the right to determine freight rates and prohibit rebates.

Business can hobble along under high freight rates. Death would follow a general railroad strike.

The railroad employees may be able to stand a strike. They may have sufficient millions in the treasury of their several labor unions to enable them to allow their employes to strike for an indefinite period.

The railroads themselves may be able to withstand a strike. They may have their plans well made to reduce expenses, and stripped of operating costs, to hold out against the strikers.

Both the railroads and the railroad men may be able to withstand a strike, but the public cannot. The public is not in a position to face a general strike of the railroads in the country.

The calamity is too awful to contemplate.

It would be more frightful than a dozen Mexican wars. It should not be in the power of a set of men to bring such a disaster to the public.

The commission has the right to say what the railroads shall charge for their service.

This commission should be given the right to say what they shall pay for the labor that it takes to perform this service.

And it should be given this authority at once.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Every-sized town has its advantages and disadvantages, just as every individual has his good points and his bad ones. One has about as many intimate friends in a little town as in a big one, notwithstanding the disparity of populations. Some, of course, have no intimate friends in any case. But in a small community, where each person is known up one side and down the other, there is a better social understanding than in the larger community where superficial appearances count for most. A youth who was spending a vacation in a small town unconsciously expressed considerable philosophy in a sentence written to his mother. "We are all friendly here at our boarding house," he wrote, "and although we don't talk much at the dinner table, we help each other when we choke."—Galveston News.

Taking Big Chances.

It is a great risk to travel without a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, as this preparation cannot be obtained on the trains or steamships. Attacks of bowel complaint are often sudden and very severe, and everyone should go prepared for them. Obtainable everywhere.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States, explorer of Africa, Central and South America and discoverer of strange beasts and birds, is so anxious to have war with Mexico, he should collect his men together and tender his services to one of the warring factions down there and wade in gresser gore to the satisfaction of his thirst for blood.—Ex.
