BACHELOR'S PRANKS.

Last Wednesday night at the residence of Mrs. Albert Landry, Ulysses Landry, a prospective benedict entertained some friends and most of the stalwart members of the loyal legion of bachelors. The repast was superb and would do credit to those artists that entertain the palate of Lucullus. The dainty fingers of the ladies of the house, the graceful agility of their movements, the dexterous, adroit distribution of the delicacies at the proper time and the proper place made the ensemble complete and the celebration worth remembering.

Brother Ulysses Landry in spite of that chronic phlegm and immobile equanimity was involuntarily disturbed by a perpetual smile which refused to leave and allow him to again reach his natural equipoise. Everybody seemed to concentrate his critical mentality on some notable habits and customs which may have to be thrown into the discard before the complete domestic picture which will adorn his future years will be complete. With great strength and sacrifice our brother went through the ordeal of the third degree. Everybody was trying to make the good points overshadow and eclipse the defects and the shortcomings. In the end he was found guilty and condemned to become one of the best defenders of home and fireside.

Edwin Broussard, chosen as toastmaster acquitted himself, not only creditably, but as a master of the art of post-prandial camouflage. One by one he called the birds of the same feathers to whistle their natural, constitutional songs.

Mr. Ventress J. Smith mixing keen wit and biting sarcasm chiseled a word sculpture worthy of Rodin.

Mr. Jules Dreyfus delivered the certificate of discharge with the confirmation and seal of the order. Following is the credential which cancels brother Ulysses' former career and association:

"When a nice, young, guileless, innocent man, nears with unconscious steady step, the dangerous border-line of bachelorhood, he generally develops traits and characteristics of a type that reflect this hidden personality, his silent swelling ego. The development, moreover, accentuates a self, a consciousness which is as different from the others of the same species as faces differ from one another. Our present illustration serves to emphasize the accuracy of our observation and analysis. The laws of nature are being scrupulously carried out, and all manifestations, signs and effects follow the regular causes. Nobody has, as yet, been safe and satisfied with the discovery of a confirmed, congenial bachelor. The medical authorities are baffled, the student of social problems puzzled, the sage staggered by this mystery. Sooner or later the germs of a strange domestic disease appear and menace his membership in our institution, jeopardize our Constitution, and threaten with certain extinction the life of our voluntary, sympathetic corporation.

This is not the first time we had to hoist our S. O. S. signals. During those periodical tidal-waves and engulfing squalls, the old mariners, the doughty, undismayed veterans, have always managed and succeeded in saving the old boat and salvaging the remnants of the wreck. One by one our losses have been chronicled and the seriousness of the growing weakness made the subject of close scrutiny and investigation. The pace of the life of our modern time, the strain of man's equipment in the economic battle, the love of partial isolation and seclusion, the weight of the burden of future duties and responsibilities, have been in our opinion the friendly elements of our permanent redemption and salvation. So the desertion of the camp and training cantonment of our brother Ulysses, is recompensed by the clamoring, increasing wave of recruits.

Many attempts are recorded of our brother's efforts to adjust his temperament, his sentiment, with the flight of his hope to be tied to a rope of future bliss and contentment. The poison has worked. The vaccination is a complete success has paralyzed all inclination at recalcitrancy, has subdued all savagery, outburst, outbreak, in his nervous system and blood. The present perpetual smile and bonhomie, the lurking docility and self-imposed tameness, the suppression of the capacity of resistance, the pledge of discipline and obedience of our selected draftsman of the order of Benedictines, is a warm tribute to the persuasive power, the dextrous touch, the adroit charms and grave of his future domestic partner-in-law, and a convincing manifestation of his conversion to the sacred union of heart and soul.

We dare hazard that from now on, the universe to him is a changed creation. Surveying it through matrimonial emotion, the flowers and the bushes have a changed harmony. The plumage of our winged songsters and whistlers, in their soaring altitude, assumes new rainbow colors. The murmurs of the rivers of hope and happiness are wafted to the united heart in waves of symphonies that enthroned the voice in their (unto death) sanctity.

And then just imagine home, an expression housing all the sweet notes of the most perfect, most entrancing music of life: home, a new refuge, a retreat, a repository of all adversities, disappointments, vicissitudes, successes, achievements, triumphs; home, resounding with the strange, weird laughter, soft speech, melting caresses, moving kisses; home of anxieties over little brewing storms, or a horizon of twinkling stars; of the appearance of shy, stealthy comets to illuminate the thorny pathway, to guide the bleeding feet and the sacrificed body and soul to its eternal shrine.

With all this exaltation, nay, I might unhesitatingly say, with this evolution of moral purification and chastity, do you think, our brother, still free for a short space of time from the yoke and the enslaving spell of love and of future promises and performances, will ever again be able to look squarely into the honest eyes of the faithful, loyal bachelor brothers? Time will tell and heal all wounds. Time also will dull the edge of energy and ambition. Through these shadowy winters of age, the test imposed will rescue the gold from the dross. Character and manhood, the rocks of all attributes in man's nature, will stand bared for judgment and measurement.

May we, remaining, wavering, laggards of an artificial, self-created kingdom, have the pleasure and privilege to salute, to respect, to love and admire, not the dis severed, disannexed brotherhood of Ulysses Landry, but the man, the father, the family as the best product, the most virile agency, the militant vigorous power, the universal soul of this the most perfect, sublime civilization of humanity."

Those present were: Frank Decuir, P. A. Landry, V. J. Smith, Dr. T. R. Gayle, Silvio Broussard, E. S. Broussard, Fred Schwing, Jules Dreyfus, Ulysses Landry, John Schwing, John R. Taylor, Dr. J. W. W. S. S. GIRLS! LEMON JUICE IS A SKIN WHITENER

How to make a creamy beauty lotion for a few cents.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart pint of the most remarkable skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold cream. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands.

W. S. S. Communicated.] Dr. Cornelson of Dr. Palmer's church on Lafayette Square, New Orleans, has kindly promised to give one week of his valuable time to "our little church around the corner." And will come on May 13th holding a morning and evening service every day. During the meeting of the Presbytery recently it must have been apparent to this Christian soldier that this little congregation led by their consecrated pastor and his incomparable wife were striving to lift all who come within their influence into higher spiritual ideals of life and service, and like a faithful follower of The One who went about doing good, he promptly asked the privilege of helping. What a treat it will be for all who can hear the echo of the Master voice in the prayer and praise of this most faithful disciple, so don't let anything prevent your coming. This is a crucial time in the world's history. The forces of evil are making their last stand (we hope) against civilization and all that is good and true. The devil (what ever that means to us) seems to vaunt his villainy proudly in the face of goodness and truth, as he did on the mountain tops, when he demanded that Jesus should fall down and worship him and Christ said: "Get thee behind me Satan," and so say our brave boys over there now.

W. T. Moss, bricklayer, West Main St., New Iberia, says: "A number of years ago I was troubled with my back, sharp pains darted through my kidneys very frequently and when I worked in a stooped position any length of time, it was hard for me to straighten up. My kidneys were disordered and caused me much annoyance. I had those dull, aching feelings all over my body until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's helped me very quickly and when I had used them for a few weeks, they entirely cured me of the trouble. I have never had any return of it since that time and am glad to give this endorsement."

W. S. S. CALL FOR 600 WITH MECHANICAL TURN.

Baton Rouge, La., May 2.—The 600 men whom Louisiana is ordered to entrain May 16, according to a press dispatch from Washington Wednesday, must be grammar school graduates who have had some experience along mechanical lines and who have some aptitude for mechanical work, says a telegram to Adjutant General McCrory Thursday from Provost Marshal General Crowder. These men are to report to the commanding officer at Tulane University on May 16. Only white men and men physically qualified for general military service may be inducted under this call, which is No. 224.

Qualified registrants should be urged to present themselves to their respective local boards for voluntary induction under this call, says General Crowder's telegram. The voluntary call will continue until May 8, after which date no voluntary inductions will be permitted. If, on May 9, any local board finds that it still needs men to fill its apportionment under this call, it must select, in sequence of order numbers, a sufficient number of qualified men from class 1 to fill the first allotment, after deducting the voluntary inductions, says the message.

General Crowder adds that his telegram B-80, dated March 11, and ordering that men actively, completely and assiduously engaged in planting and cultivating a crop must be placed at the foot of the present quota, should be followed in this call.

"The men selected for this service will receive a course of training at government expense fitting them to serve in any army position, requiring knowledge of automobile repairing, radio operating and other mechanical duties incident to many kinds of military service both at the front and behind the lines," says General Crowder. "The men taking this course will receive thorough instruction which will be of great
