

FORTY YEARS A DRUGGIST

He Endorses
PERUNA

Read this from Mr. L. A. Richardson
of Marine, Illinois:

"I have been engaged in the retail drug business here for the past forty years. During this time I have seen many patent medicines come into use, flourish for one or two years and then gradually disappear. There are very few of these remedies that possess enough real merit to insure them long life. Peruna has always been a good seller with us, with a marked increase from year to year. The change in the formula some years ago, by the addition of the slightly laxative properties, has made it a reliable remedy for constipation and for colds. If taken hourly in tablespoonful doses by adults it will break up the worst cold in two or three days' time. I take pleasure in urging my brother druggists to recommend it for these two ailments."

WHEN THE BOYS COME HOME.

When the boys come home there will be rejoicings and fetes and receptions. In city and village there will be bands and addresses and honors for those who have bravely and willingly done all, and more, than was required or could be expected of them. It is yet too early to arrange for those days, but it is none too soon to plan for the weeks and months and years that will follow. One of the changes which we can expect will be that our indoor and office life will no longer appeal to the thousands of young men who have been living in the open. They will demand the freedom of the out-of-door life, and the broader scope of individual action which goes with it. The independent life of the scientific farmer will appeal to them as never before, and for their own good and the good of the nation, this desire should be met in a comprehensive manner.

Secretary of the Interior Lane, with admirable foresight, has worked out a plan which is both practical and desirable.

At the close of the Civil War there were vast areas of the choicest land which had never felt a plow, that thousands of returning soldiers were allotted under the homestead law. That was over fifty years ago, when hundreds of our now well-known western cities and towns had not been thought of. While there remains some good unclaimed government lands in various states, its total is a mere garden compared to what was available then.

The problem of supplying productive lands in both our warm and colder climates becomes one largely of reclamation. Take the swamp and overflowed lands of Florida and the Gulf States, and a few other states, of which there are some 60,000,000 acres of the richest soil. There are also the cut-over lands which still lie waste, and other now barren lands in the far West, rich as the valley of the Nile when water is poured upon it.

These three classes of land are all capable of enormous production, once they are reclaimed and tilled. This work of reclamation would immediately off the inducements of outdoor activities, and when accomplished, a permanent home and occupation to thousands. Secretary Lane calls attention to the vastly improved terms of his plan over that of the early homestead days. Then the homesteader was also a pioneer, who started with almost nothing in the way of buildings, farm machinery, and stock. The nearest post office was often a day's journey distant; the life was hard and isolated. Progress was slow for want of money. The more abundant the crops, the less the price per bushel. There are still those living who remember the days when the expense of hauling a load of grain to the nearest market equaled every dollar the grain sold for. Papers and magazines were almost unknown; the settler's life was hard in the extreme, and in some places in actual jeopardy.

Under the proposed plan all this is to be reversed. The government would finance and engineer the reclamation; would build roads and farm buildings; would equip with necessary machinery and stock; would establish rural delivery. Where the pioneer did everything by the hardest work, scientific farming would reduce manual labor to a minimum; where he had to wait several years to move from his sod but into something better, under the new plan the settler would commence with every essential to comfort and success. With these new districts fully settled as fast as developed, and with automobiles, the buyer of these reclaimed lands would be anything but isolated or remote. New towns will spring up to supply stores, and with so large a percentage of young people, conditions will be ideal. The above plan is an expansion of one already used with success in some other countries.

Nobody is to receive something for nothing. The government would use the returned soldier and pay him; as fast as one reclaimed section was completed and ready for occupancy, farms would be sold on easy-payment plans, the payments extended over a very long term of years if necessary. With their natural enterprise, the large portion of buyers would work out of debt in a few years.

While the actual work of reclamation would not be undertaken during the war, the details of the plan should be, so that, immediately on return to civilian life, those who desired to go into the reclamation work could do so. To accomplish this Secretary Lane is asking Congress for a few hundreds of thousands of dollars. Seldom has a more deserving appropriation been requested.

Easy Way to Stop Waste of Food.

In this country alone rats destroy and spoil over two hundred million dollars worth of foodstuffs every year, so why delay using a reliable method of ridding our homes, stores and warehouses of these wasteful pests? Probably there is no easier nor more effective method of exterminating rats than Stearn's Electre Paste, a scientific product that has been used successfully by the U. S. Government in its different campaigns against the rat. A small box, costing only a few cents, will usually completely free the house from rats and mice. It will also effectually destroy cockroaches.

British forces launched an attack upon a big scale in an effort to extend the salient thrust into the northern end of the German line and Belgium and apparently made good gains at all points.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

American forces in the Verdun sector were engaged in terrific fighting, but apparently have repulsed all German counter-attacks and made some additional gains.
