LOCALS

—To-morrow morning at eleven o'clock Rev. M. R. Paradis will deliver his last sermon to the congregation of the Presbyterian church after which he will leave for his home in Minnesota. Rev. G. L. Moore of Missouri will arrive in New Iberia and continue the services during the summer months while Mr. Paradis will be absent. The public is cordially invited to be present.

—Deputy Sheriff Lenez Viator made a trip to Lake Charles on Monday to bring back one, Elias Hebert, arrested for stealing a horse. The crime was committed near Jeanerette some four years ago and getting a clue to his whereabouts the man was arrested and placed in jail at Lake Charles subject to the orders of Sheriff Landry.

—After an eight months absence from New Iberia at St. Alloy, Mexico, Mr. Willie Hayes returned on Thursday last. He has been employed by the United Syrup Co. assisting the chief engineer Mr. F. E. Couvillon in charge of the sugar mill. Mr. Hayes will return in October to resume his position.

—Mr. Rene Girard who is filling a position as third engineer on the government steamer was transferred to the steamer "Arimbi." This boat will leave Port Arthur, Texas in a few days with a cargo of lumber destined to England. Since assuming this responsible position he has made several voyages to British Honduras on the Sefferth. On Tuesday Mr. Girard came to New Iberia to visit his family leaving the next morning for Port Arthur, Texas where his boat is in port.

—Mr. Walter F. Villerman some days ago purchased two blooded registered Jersey cows from the celebrated King family of Wisconsin. Mr. Villerman is a great lover of the bovine herd and is not satisfied unless he has the best to supply his family with pure milk.

—Mr. D. C. Bonnette has started an industry that ought in the near future give employment to a number of people. He has fitted up the upper floor of the building corner of Main and Swain Streets with sewing machines and other appliances necessary to make automobile curtains, storm aprons, seats, etc. and started out very auspiciously filling orders for auto owners. In fact orders are coming to him thick and fast from all over South Louisiana. His work and prices compare favorably with the larger concerns of New Orleans and ere long we would not be surprised to see him have one of the largest curtain factories in the State.

—Mr. Vincent Carraba of Los Angeles, California arrived in New Iberia from overseas this week and will spend a few weeks with his sister Mrs. Paul Cordova. Vincent is well remembered by our people, being a son of Mrs. A. Carraba who operated a store in New Iberia some years ago. The young man left here while in his teens for Los Angeles where he soon obtained employment and made a man of himself. When the war came on Vincent readily responded to the call of his country and was soon on his way to the battle front where he went over the top with his fellow comrades. He is enthusiastic about California and said he expected to find New Iberia's streets paved when he came here, but he was delighted to know that within a few months these improvements would be a reality.

—On Friday the 16th inst. at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, Miss Agnes Duplantis, the accomplished daughter of Judge E. P. Duplantis of Lydia, was united into holy wedlock to Mr. Amar L. Litton of Converse, La. Rev. Martin Hebert officiating. The young couple left the same day for Converse where they will make their future home.

—The old saying "better late than never" applies to the Captancy commission of our fellow-citizen and practitioner Dr. E. S. Fulton. On Tuesday of this week, after being discharged from the army a couple of months since his belated commission promoting him from a lieutenant to that of captain arrived. While disappointed that he did not receive it while on active duty, still the Doctor prizes it highly and it will be placed in his archives with other valuable documents.

—We were informed on Thursday that Mr. Will H. Carver has purchased the East End property of the late Gordon A. Sandoz. This property is one of the nicest in that portion of New Iberia. Mr. Carver also took over a tract of land near the rice mill formerly owned by Mr. Julius Scharff.

Own a home for your children's sake.—Bertrand Lumber Co.

—Unless we have been misinformed at an early date New Iberia will have in the course of erection two nice modern public buildings. It is the intention of the members of the Pythian and Woodmen of the World Orders to construct nice homes for the enjoyment of their large memberships, something that the citizens generally will be proud. From what we learn suitable sites will be purchased and the structures will be sufficiently large to have gymnasium rooms, large auditoriums, and most probably a roof garden for the pleasure of those who like open air entertainments. We hope the proposed plans of both these fraternal and benevolent organizations will be realized. New Iberia is badly in need of a large auditorium, where large numbers can congregate whenever there is something worth while. As it is to-day we have not even a dancing hall large enough to accommodate more than thirty couples at any one time without being overcrowded. A roof garden properly protected in times of inclement weather should be a profitable investment when one of the Lodges complete a building. Then again some site ought to be selected that is covered with an old fire trap of a building, say on some corner on our Main Street. We trust the intentions of both of these orders will be realized in the very near future.

Build now, thrift turns savings into a home.—Bertrand Lumber Co.

Dr. Mayer, State agent of Louisiana Anti-Tuberculosis League, lectured at the High School last Monday on Mosquitoes, Typhoid Fever and Tuberculosis in reference to the Great White Plague. He pointed out the enormous economic loss it involves and that as a cold business proposition it would pay to stamp it out. He declared it was not hereditary but a communicable, preventible disease, the gravity of which was accentuated by the thrifty and by war conditions that milk from tuberculosis cows was dangerous; that until all herds by the tuberculosis test were proven free of the disease, the milk should be pasteurized at a municipal pasteurizing plant, and that until that was obtained the milk like water should be boiled to kill the germs. He spoke of the great results obtained at Camp Stygia, near Covington, where twelve of the tests had been accepted by the army and navy the severest test and the work of the Pines in Shreveport under the leadership of Mrs. Benson, who would ere the year was out would build a magnificent modern hospital on a 54-acre tract donated by Bryan Ardis. The sputum he declared the chief vehicle of transmission, while there is a hundred avenues entered the arena of infection, milk, dust and flies.

killed in the world war. An economic loss of one and one-half billions annually.

In the evening, accompanied by Prof. Porter, he motored to Jeanerette and was introduced by Prof. Colvers to the High School. Bringing out the above points on Tuesday morning by special invitation he addressed the Knights of Pythias at their annual convention, accentuating the relation of this disease to thrift, the awful cost in lives and dollars that eighty per cent. were curable in the early stages by simple hygienic dietetic treatment. Sleeping in the open, rest, milk and eggs, that patent medicine did harm. That the State League was determined to instruct the masses mainly through schools, because of the difficulty of obtaining a hearing from adult audiences that the annual loss was one-half our total imports and one-fourth our total exports, that its stamping out was feasible, proven by Victoria in Australia now tuberculosis free, was once infested with the disease. He expressed the hope that all would join their county units, as it was only by coordinating all elements of society, that its suppressing could be accomplished. He pointed out that it was decimating the labor ranks of the negroes and the danger of this source of infection, the necessity of improving their living conditions and instructing them in its prevention.
