"PENNY WISE AND POUND FOOLISH."

Louisiana Democrat:
There can be no greater mistake that a business man can make than to be mean in business. Everybody has heard the proverb of penny wise and pound foolish. A liberal expenditure in the way of business is always sure to be a capital investment. There are people in the world who are shortsighted enough to believe that their interest can be best promoted by grasping and clinging to all they can get and never letting a cent slip through their fingers.

As a general thing it will be found, other things being equal, that he who is most liberal is most successful in business. Of course we do not mean it to be inferred that a man should be prodigal in his expenditures; but that he should show his customers, if he is a trader, or those whom he may be doing any kind of business with that in all his business transactions, as well as social relation, he acknowledges the everlasting fact that there can be no permanent prosperity or good feeling in a community where benefits are not reciprocal.

H. J. LEAKE MISSING; FOUL PLAY FEARED.

Much uneasiness exists in the minds of his relatives over the unexplained disappearance of Harry J. Leake, only son of Mrs. Elrie Robinson of this paper. Mr. Leake has been engaged as editor and manager of the New Laurel Publishing Co., publishers of the Chronicle at Laurel, Miss., for the past several months.

On Oct. 22nd queries reached here asking for knowledge of Mr. Leake's whereabouts. It was ascertained that he had left Laurel on the previous Thursday to make a two-day business trip to New Orleans. Relatives immediately went to New Orleans and instituted a search. It was found that he had registered at a hotel on the 17th. His baggage was still in his room, though it was evident that the room had not then been occupied for several days. The last seen or heard of him was on Saturday, Oct. 18th, when he attended a football game in New Orleans in company with a friend. He told this friend that he expected to return to Laurel that night.

Detectives were placed on the case over a week ago, but so far have been unable to locate the missing man. Mrs. Robinson has been in Laurel attending to his business affairs, this week, and Mr. Robinson left Friday afternoon for that place.

There is no reason to believe that Mr. Leake has disappeared from choice, as his business and domestic relations have been pleasant, and it is feared that he has met with foul play.

SCHMIDT-TOWN.

Mr. John Schmidt and Miss Alice Town were quietly married in the First Methodist parsonage, Baton Rouge, on Wednesday evening, Oct. 23, at 7:30 p. m., Rev. W. W. Drake officiating. There were no attendants, and the ceremony was quite simple, owing to the recent bereavement in the bride's family.

The bride was charming in a costume of dark blue with small velvet hat of the same pretty shade. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt went to their own little home recently completed in America street.

The groom is an energetic and highly honored young man, who has been for quite a while connected with the Baton Rouge Plumbing Company, and his bride is one of the loveliest and most greatly admired and highly esteemed girls of her set. She made a large number of friends during the several years that she was connected with the Schuessler Jewelry store in Third street, who will be interested to hear of her happiness.

SAMUEL-MILLS.

The most prominent social event of the week was the marriage of Mr. Thomas M. Samuel and Miss Bessie Mills, of Irene, the ceremony taking place in the Presbyterian church on the evening of Tuesday, October 28, at 6:30 o'clock, Rev. Dr. T. M. Hunter officiating in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

The church was artistically decorated in a profusion of ferns, white flowers and tulle and brilliantly illuminated, which gave added charm to the beautiful stately interior.

Just before the entrance of the bridal party, Prof. William Britt Clarke gave a pre-nuptial program of unusual beauty on the organ—changing into the Tannhauser wedding march as they entered the church—Messrs. Jack Laycock, Francis Whitehead and Walker Samuel, the ushers, and Mrs. Marion Munson, matron of honor, preceding the bride, who entered with her brother, Mr. G. C. Mills, meeting the groom and his best man, Mr. Oscar Dearrin of New Orleans, at the altar rail. Professor Clarke played some low sweet songs during the ceremony and during the signing of the register, again playing the wedding march as the party left the church.

The bride was irresistibly lovely in an exquisite ivory white charmeuse draped gown entraine with bodice draped with chiffon, veiled with real lace. The long veil of illusion was most becomingly arranged in cap effect with orange blossoms against her beautiful dark hair. She carried an armful of bride roses, valley lilies and fern.

Mrs. Munson, her sister and only attendant, was charming in a lovely draped gown of white silk crepe. She carried a bunch of pink Kilarny roses tied with pink and blue mulline. This touch of color being decidedly fetching.

No reception was held, but after the ceremony at the church, a number of relatives and friends called at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Marion Munson, to extend their felicitations and good wishes.

The bride then changed her bridal gown for a stylish tailored costume and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel left in an automobile for their pretty home in the country, at Irene.—Baton Rouge State-Times.

VERY QUIET ELECTION.

Very little interest was manifested in Tuesday's election. So many voters took the position that the provision for the Constitutional Convention would carry that they did not take the trouble to go to the polls, and less than one-fourth of the normal vote of the parish was polled. The vote registered was: for the convention, 98; against, 8; Stirling, 119.

L. W. Rogers, agent for the Y. & M. V. R. R. informs us that the management of his road has authorized the employment of a clerk at the Bayou Sara station, and that he has tendered the position to Henry Brandon, of Pinckneyville. Among the new clerk's duties will be that of meeting the night train on that road. For several months the station has not been open at night, and great inconvenience has been caused the traveling public on this account.
