CARD OF FAREWELL.

At my departure from St. Francisville and East and West Feliciana parishes, in which I spent nearly fifteen years of my life, and shared in all the ups and downs of the people, I would have liked to shake hands with all my friends and acquaintances, but as I cannot do this, I take this means to bid them all a hearty farewell.

DYE SHORTAGE MAY FORCE CHANGE IN AMERICAN FLAG

St. Louis, Mo., March 17.—A radical have become accustomed to, according to dye experts:

Here are some of the things we will change in the colors of the United States flag is threatened by the dye shortage, according to dye experts in St. Louis. Paul Lungstraus, head of one of the largest dye works in the west, said recently that the supply of red aniline in America is exhausted and that blue dye soon will be a thing of the past. He predicted that if the war continued another year the red stripes and blue background in the American flag would have to be dispensed with.

A colorless flag, postage stamps printed on white paper, red ink will be a thing of bygone days, and even blue and black inks are endangered, and berries, instead of being eaten, will be used to make dye.

Absent Friends

Old friends here learn with interest of the marriage of Miss Nellie Francis Austin of Shreveport to Mr. Alfred Mather Zeigler of New Orleans and Shreveport. The beautiful young bride is the only daughter of John P. Austen and grand daughter of Mrs. Elise Le Bret Austen. The bride's grandfather was John D. Austen, editor of the "Feliciana Sentinel," one of West Feliciana's oldest newspapers. Shortly after his death, the family removed to Shreveport. Here they were recognized as an old and estimable family, and their several members possessed exceptional talents and fine qualities. Mrs. Austen's family—the Le Brets—were of fine French lineage, and of former wealth, and ever maintained the aristocracy of intellect and pure living. In Shreveport their worth is appreciated, and they are prosperous in a modest, but highly meritorious way. Friends rejoice in the happiness that has come to the newly-married daughter of the house. The wedding was a quiet one, owing to Lent, and took place at the Holy Trinity Church, Shreveport, March 16. After a honeymoon at Galveston, the young couple will reside with the bride's father and grandmother.

J. H. Percy of Baton Rouge is very ill. He has been operated on in New Orleans.

On Thursday morning, on arrival of the eleven o'clock train, the funeral of Mrs. J. E. Black was held at Grace Church and Cemetery. Mrs. Black was the grandmother of Dudley B. Her son, Mr. Black of Galveston, Texas, Mrs. Black, Mrs. and Mrs. Falthorn and daughter, accompanied the body on its last journey. Members of the family known here have many friends, who sympathize with them in their sorrow.

Did you make any celebration of your child's success in the spelling contest? Well you should have done so. We know of one instance where a wee girl was treated to a nice supper. Such events are big in a child's life and are of great effect if treated as such by their elders.

STATE SUPT. HARRIS CORRECTS REPORT.

I have been informed that there has been discussion on the streets of St. Francisville recently to the effect that some years ago I conducted a party of Louisiana girls to a northern city and had them take part in a spelling contest in which negro girls participated. Of course, you will know whether or not there has been such discussion in St. Francisville. If there has been, please say for me through the columns of your paper that there is not a word of truth in the statement. I have never conducted a party of Louisiana children to a northern city for any purpose, nor have I ever had Louisiana girls or other girls take part in a contest in which negro children participated.

Yours sincerely,
T. H. HARRIS.

ANOTHER NEWSPAPER CENTENARIAN.

In our issue of March 11 was related a description of a copy of The Time Piece, published at St. Francisville, West Florida, June 3, 1813.

Through courtesy of Miss Ide Barman we have been shown another copy of that same paper of a slightly later date. Miss Barman's paper bears date of Sept. 30, 1813. A large portion of its space is devoted to a political article addressed to the "Free and Independent Voters of the State of Louisiana," by Hon. Thomas B. Robertson, representative in Congress. In this connection, it is interesting to note that a son of this man afterwards represented this district in Congress, and in turn his son, the late S. M. Robertson of Baton Rouge, represented this district in Congress for many years.

This issue of the Time Piece carried, as fresh news, Commodore Perry's famous message following his victory over the English fleet on Lake Erie: "We have met the enemy and they are ours. Two ships, two brigs, one schooner and one sloop." Another dispatch from Commodore Perry to Maj. General Harrison carries the information: "We have more prisoners than we have men on board the vessels."

The death of Luther Smith, "an old and respectable inhabitant at his plantation on Bayou Tunica," is recorded, also the death of an infant daughter of Dr. M. L. Hayne at the home "on Alexander's creek."

Miss Barman says the old newspaper has been preserved for four generations, as her great grandfather, Zachariah Lusk, was a native of West Feliciana, and preserved the paper because it contained the speech of his personal friend, Mr. Robertson. His wife was a Miss Mills of the Plains, hence Miss Barman's grandfather was John Mills Lusk.

Miss Barman will have "The Time Piece" framed in double panes of glass and exhibit it at the Fair this fall.

Mr. Harry Daniel of Star Hill and Miss May Young of Alexandria were married in the Baptist Church, Pineville, La., March 30, 7 p. m. They will be at home after April 1st, residing with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Daniel. A more extended notice of the happy event will appear, next week, as the young couple are well-known and widely popular in the Feliciana; and the marriage is consequently of great interest. The bride taught at Star Hill, some years ago, when she made the acquaintance of the sterling young planter, to whom she has given her heart and hand.

To their happy home-coming, the felicitations are general, and it is hoped that for them true happiness and smiling prosperity may be their portion always.
