There Should.

Fritz the gardener was a stolid German who was rarely moved to extraordinary language. Even the most provocative occasions only caused him to remark mildly on his ill-luck. Not long ago he came back from the city in the late evening after a hard day in the market place. He was sleepy, and the train being crowded, the baggageman gave him a chair in his roomy car.

Finally the train reached Bloomfield. Fritz still slept as it pulled in and his friend had to shake him and tell him where he was.

"I thank you," said Fritz, as he rose slowly to his feet. The open door of the car was directly in front of him. He walked straight out of it.

The baggageman sprang to look after him. Fritz slowly picked himself up from the sand by the side of the track, looked up at the door, and said with no wrath in his voice:

"There should here be some steps."

Wife and Country.

Paul D. Cavath, the noted New York lawyer, said at a luncheon at the Lawyers' club: Vacation time is here, and already that dreadful song about the wife gone to the country is being resurrected. But a variant to the song was furnished by a conversation I overheard the other night.

"Hello, Smith," said one man to another. "I'm glad to see you back at the club again, old fellow. Wife off to the country eh?"

"No," growled Smith. "She's got back."

He Knew the Kind.

Little Edward, aged four, was an only child. He was anxious for a baby sister, and was talking of it one day with a friend of the family. In the friend's family was a baby girl of one year. The lady said: Edward, you may have my baby; she is pretty and sweet."

"Oh," said Edward. "I don't want an old baby. I want a bran new one wif noffin on but tacum powder."—Red Hen.

Know How To Keep Cool?

When Summer's sun and daily toil heat the blood to an uncomfortable degree, there is nothing so comforting and cooling as a glass of Surprising, too, how the food elements relieve fatigue and sustain one.

The flavour is delicious—and Postum is really a food drink.

BOY DODGES DEATH FOR MANY DAYS

SOLE SURVIVOR OF ONE OF THE NICARAGUAN BUTCHERIES TELLS STORY.

WOUNDED BY LEADEN HAIL

Paul Mason a Young New Yorker and Estrada Soldier, Stares Into Eternity Time After Time, But Finally Escapes.

New Orleans, La.—Sole survivor of what was one of the most bloody skirmishes in the recent Nicaraguan campaign, Paul Mason, a plucky New York boy, who was a lieutenant colonel on the staff of Gen. Luis Mena, arrived here on the steamship Imperator from Bluefields. Mason has had a most remarkable series of experiences since his enlistment in the Estrada cause about five months ago, but the most thrilling have been during the last 40 days. Wounded and captured by the enemy after having made a charge into the Madriz entrenchments in the face of a galling machine gun fire; escaping death at the hands of a Madriz colonel only to be sentenced to death by that officer after a drumhead court-martial; pardoned by the Madriz commanding general, and threatened with imprisonment in Managua; left for dead in a Madriz hospital camp and so reported to his friends in Bluefields, and finally recaptured by the forces of General Mena and carried to Bluefields for treatment, a few of the things which he went through.

Young Mason, who is barely twenty-four years old, arrived here, en route to New York, a subscription having been taken up by Americans in Bluefields to send him to his home. His right leg is almost useless, he having been, as he expressed it, "ham-strung" by a machine gun bullet which passed through his thigh and caused partial paralysis. He was with the unfortunate Milwaukee boy, Rosenthal, who was killed by a stray bullet in the battle of San Augustin. Young Rosenthal was an adjutant to General Corral, and it was while he was retiring under orders from his chief that he was shot and killed. The charge in which the young New Yorker was shot and captured was said to be one of the most remarkable in the fighting around Bluefields.

"I haven't the slightest idea how I ever reached the trenches alive. I had been commanding a battery of machine guns at San Augustin when Bostwick Replied With a Shot.

General Corral ordered me and my squad of 100 men to draw the fire of a detachment of Echavarría's men, who were in a trench up a little hill. Behind this trench were machine guns which swept the hillside. I started to lead the men and went on until I reached the trench. Only four of my fellows had come with me, and when we reached the trench I ordered them to lie down. Before they could do it, they were killed. I was left alone, and as I crouched to escape the fire, my machete was shot from my hand. When I saw I was alone, I started to retire, and as I did so was shot through the thigh. Then I tried to crawl back to my battery, but before I could do that I was captured.

"One of Madriz' colonels came up with his machete and wanted to finish me for being a meddlesome gringo. Four of his soldiers compelled him to desist, threatening to shoot him if he killed me. They insisted that I be tried by court-martial. This was done, and I was notified that night I should be shot at daybreak. I owe my life to General Echavarría, the commander of the Madriz forces at Rama. He had seen the charge, and when he came up to where I was lying, he shook hands with me and told me that I would not be shot, but taken back to Managua.

"For 15 days I was with the wounded prisoners back of Rama, but finally 50 of Mena's men, the vanguard of his troops, began to chase Echavarría's rear. They thought that the force was much greater, so they fled, leaving the wounded, of which I was one. I was recaptured and taken to Mena's camp and sent thence to Bluefields for treatment. It was a month before I could walk. Then Madriz' army was demoralized and their supplies cut off.

RESTORED TO HEALTH.

After Suffering With Kidney Disorders for Many Years.

Mrs. John S. Way, 209 S. 8th St., Independence, Kans., says: "For a number of years I was a victim of disordered kidneys. My back ached, the kidney secretions were constantly, the perspirations were irregular and my feet and ankles were badly swollen. Spots often appeared before my eyes and I became very nervous. After using numerous remedies without relief I was completely cured by Doan's Kidney Pills. This seems remarkable when you consider my advanced age."

SCRATCHED SO SHE COULD NOT SLEEP

"I write to tell you how thankful I am for the wonderful Cuticura Remedies. My little niece had eczema for five years and when her mother died I took care of the child. It was all over her face and body, also on her head. She scratched so that she could not sleep nights. I used Cuticura Soap to wash her with and then applied Cuticura Ointment. I did not use quite half the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, together with Cuticura Resolvent, when you could see a change and they cured her nicely. Now she is eleven years old and has never been bothered with eczema since. My friends think it is just great the way the baby was cured by Cuticura. I send you a picture taken when she was about 18 months old.

"She was taken with the eczema when two years old. She was covered with big sores and her mother had all the best doctors and tried all kinds of salves and medicines without effect until we used Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. H. Kiernan, 663 Quincey St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1909."

Clever Joke of Kind King.

King Edward's great nature was illustrated the other night by a London correspondent at the Press club in New York.

"The king," said the correspondent, "was visiting Rufford Abbey, and one morning, in company with his host, Lord Arthur Savile, he took a walk over the preserves.

"Suddenly Lord Arthur, a big burly man, rushed forward and seized a shabby fellow with a dead pheasant protruding from the breast of his coat.

"'Sir,' said Lord Arthur to the king, 'this fellow is a bad egg. This is the second time I've caught him poaching.'

"But the king's handsome face beamed, and he laughed his gay and tolerant laugh.

"'Oh, let him go,' he said. 'If he really were a bad egg, you know, he wouldn't poach.'

Carrying His Audience With Him.

Nobody was more witty or more bitter than Lord Ellenborough. A young lawyer, trembling with fear, rose to make his first speech, and began: "My lord, my unfortunate client— My lord, my unfortunate client— My lord—" "Go on, sir, go on!" said Lord Ellenborough, "as far as you have proceeded hitherto the court is entirely with you."

WHERE HE SAW RESEMBLANCE

Apt Remark of Small Boy Embarrassed Toper and Filled Car With Merriment.

Jimmie, who is a very small boy living in the East end, accompanied his mother downtown several days ago. Nearly everything he saw was quite new to him, so he was not sparing in his comments and opinions and questions.

Seated opposite Jimmie and his mother on the car homebound was an individual who, judging by the "blossom" on his nose, had partaken freely of joy water. None of Jimmie's neighbors possessed an appendage that could compare with the one across the aisle.

In silence Jimmie took in the situation and the "blossom." His thoughts must have grown so curious that they could not be withheld any longer and he finally blurted out in a loud voice: "Mamma, is that Santa Claus?" "pointing to the man with the red nose. Embarrassed, Jimmie's mother tried to silence her son, but it was no use. In an audible whisper the connection between the man and Santa Claus was disclosed much to the discomfiture of the man.

"Why, mamma, didn't it say in that story about Santa Claus that Santa had a 'nose like a cherry,' he asked, and the car was in an uproar.—Pittsburg Times-Gazette.

Merely a Prevaricator.

A doctor relates the following story: "I had a patient who was very ill and who ought to have gone to a warmer climate, so I resolved to try what hypnotism would do for him. I had a large sun painted on the ceiling of his room and by suggestion induced him to think it was the sun which would cure him. The ruse succeeded and he was getting better rapidly when one day on my arrival I found he was dead."

"Did it fall, after all, then?" asked one of the doctor's hearers.

"No," replied the doctor, "he died of sunstroke."

"This boy was bright looking and I rather took to him.

"Now, my son," I said, "if you come to work for me you will occasionally have to write telegrams and take down telephone messages. Hence, a pretty high degree of schooling is essential. Are you fairly well educated?"
